SOLAR ENERGY FACTS

American Solar Grazing Association. Solar Grazing in New York State, with the help of the flock of Lewis Fox.

“Solar is the crop that makes sense now, preserving open land to pass to the next generation,” Ed Browka, solar farm landowner in Rome, NY.

Solar energy provides a steady source of income to NY farmers while preserving farmland.

1. Solar panels are a reversible land use and preserve topsoil. When removed the land can be used for agriculture again.
2. Solar can meet 20% of New York State's electricity demand by using less than 2% of New York's agricultural area.
3. Native plant growth at solar farms can create pollinator-friendly habitats and increase yields on neighboring farmland with pollinator dependent crops. Insect pollinators have been reported to increase soy yields by up to 18%.
4. Grazing sheep among solar panels is a new way of using farmland, allowing the two land uses to coexist.

The recently published STREAM MAP OF NEW YORK resembles another map - known to Pennsylvania anglers as the "Lost Stream Map." The "Stream Map of Pennsylvania" was completed in 1965 after a thirty-year effort by Howard Higbee, a former Penn State Professor.

Professor Higbee succeeded in creating a map of the highest detail possible - a map that shows every stream and lake. He painstakingly plotted by hand, the location of 45,000 miles of streams onto a 3 by 5 foot map.

The map sold extremely well - until it was lost several years after it first appeared in print. Incredibly, the printer entrusted with the original drawing and printing plates, declared bankruptcy, then carelessly hauled Higbee's 30 years of work to a landfill.

The few remaining dog-eared copies became a prized fisherman's possession. Professor Higbee was offered $400 for one of his last maps. And state agencies were forced to keep their copies under lock and key. Experts told Professor Higbee that reprints were impossible, because the maps were printed in non-photographic blue.

Then, in 1991, at the age of 91, Howard Higbee's dream came true. Computers made it possible to reprint the map. Holding an updated map, Howard said, "I never thought I'd live to see this day."

Then, by combining Professor Higbee's knowledge with computer technology - the STREAM MAP OF NEW YORK was created.
