Miles Village Manager turns In resignation

From the

Niles village manager, Jack Hadge, will be moving up and out next month. He'll become manager in Teaneck, New Jersey, a 40,000 populated suburb in the New York City metropolitan area.

The "up" side of the story is Jack will be moving up from his Niles salary of $72,000 to his new pay of $85,000.

Jack took a little umbrage when we asked if he gave Niles a chance to meet his new salary. He said that isn't the way it's done in the manager business. He told me you don't bargain for pay like ballplayers do. He emphasized the high degree of professionalism there is in the manager field and let us know playing one community against another was not the way it's done among his fellow

Social security and financial planning

More than a few times, people have been counting on bigger Social Security checks when they retire. But when the time comes for those people to go to a Social Security office to apply for retirement benefits, they find to their dismay that their checks are much smaller than they thought they would be.

This happens because there are many people who still think Social Security will replace all of the earnings they have before retirement. They don't realize that Social Security was never designed to replace all the earnings people lose when they stop working. Social Security is intended to replace only a percen-

SHOPPING THE SALES You've seen the ads. The actor comes on camera with an axe to slash prices, or a hammer to smash prices, or a fire hose to blow the prices out of the water. The pitch is that you can get the best price in town by shopping at Price-Less Wonder. Have you wondered how Price-less comes up with such a "good deal"? There are legitimate reasons for having a sale. A merchant may have been able to buy very well and so can afford to keep a liveable mark-up and still pass on a significant savings to customers while providing fine quality goods. A merchant may have recognized that some fine quality goods have been available in the store for too long and that it is time to take a loss on the items in order to free up purchasing money for fresh, new inventory. A merchant may be celebrating an anniversary and really desire to share the celebration with the townspeople who have so solidly supported the firm.

When a merchant holds a sale for these reasons, the customer is fairly served. Quality merchandise is offered. Fair prices are offered. There is a real beginning and ending to the sale. The merchant will continue to be available to you to provide support services that you need, the new battery for the watch, the restringing for the pearls, the full appraisal for insurance purposes.

Is this true of the "sales" that Price-Less Wonder offers week after week after month after year? At Doerner Jewelers, we know the customer's good faith and trust is what is truly priceless. Is it any wonder we are committed to treating you fairly?

Meeting for the second time in the 1988/89 season, the Ranger Bantams skated to a two all tie with Skokie.

Strong play in goal by Eric Jesse was the key as was the fine defensive work done by all the Rangers especially Brett Sukenik, Ed Aulich and David Durdov. Hard hitting from the hit of the game by Andy to keep their heads up.

Skokie led 1 to 0 after one period but Keith Brand got that Hamourger pass midway one back on a lead pass from Bill through the first period and the Rourke. After Skokie regained the lead, Jason Zerfass blocked a Cline scored twice in the second shot beautifully at the Flyer blue period on a fine individual rush line and turned the play back the other way firing a wrist shot and off a Hambourger pass during a goal mouth scramble. home on the breakaway.

The scoreless third period again saw some fine defensive work and with the often spectacular goal tending of Jesse, the game ended in a 2 to 2 deadlock.

Young children need wisdom and nurturing; mature adults often need vitality and companionship. The Bernard Horwich/Mayer Kaplan Jewish Community Center (JCC) has combined these needs and created a program to benefit mature adults and pre-school children. It is a weekly, ongoing program on Fridays in celebration of Shabbat at the Kaplan site, 5050 W. Church in Skokie. It begins on February 3, 1989 with an orientation session in rooms 101 and 102 from 11 to 11:45 a.m.

As part of this program, each Friday morning, mature adults join pre-school students and together have a "practice Shabbat" dinner. The program is especially beneficial for children whose families are unable to join in class activities or whose real grandparents live far away. By giving these children their time and attention, the substitute "grandparents" can use their skills in a creative way.

For more information about the program and the introduction to it on February 3, please call Lillian Lieb at 676-1340 or Betsy Homer at 675-2200 or 761-9100.

Socha specifically examined seven areas: purchases, leisure, care of children and elderly, household maintenance. careers and education of the spouses, money management and acquisition, and personal/sexual topics.

"Contrary to previous studies, I found wives to be as assertive as husbands in decision-making conversations," Socha said. "Wives communicated their opinions and ideas in an assertive manner, and their husbands accepted this."

Because younger couples children. might have a greater number of decisions to make compared to older ones who have more decision experience, all of Socha's subjects were under 40 years of age. # Golf Mill'ing Around The Mall

by Linda Zachow

New Year's greetings from Golf Mill! We usually mill around the mall at a brisk confident pace. After all the holiday partying and eating, we found ourselves meandering around the mall along with a multitude of the general public whose after-Christmas pace was about as slow as ours.

Those heroes of the holiday, the valiant vendors and resolute retailers, were attempting to get their second wind between the Christmas rush and year-end sales.

For three years we have brought you personal insights into the goals, dreams, and hopes of mall personnel. The exciting moment has arrived to share the inspiration we have gleaned from this group of very tired and dedicated people. The question we put before them was "What are your New Year's resolutions for 1989?" We did not allow them to talk about business as most have in past

We would like to present you with the responses of those who still had enough strength to participate...Collette Hunter, daughter of RIVERSIDE'S owners, Bob and Diane-"Gosh. I never thought about it." UPS 'N DOWNS assistant manager, Linda, "I'm trying to lose weight to fit into a bikini this summer." We looked behind the counter at her splendid figure and wondered where she would lose it from. Ann Desisi, also of Ups 'N Downs, told us, "I'm going to sleep more in 1989."

Spencer's manager Audrey Clements on New Year's resolutions: "I never make any." INTRIGUE'S manager Michael Campbell: "I haven't thought about it." Intrigue's Jeffrey Black was the most thoughtful. "In 1989 I want to go out with this particular girl named Maria, make more money, and buy a BMW." Gorgeous blond newcomer to this area Betty Perla of Intrigue wants to make new friends...FLORSHEIM SHOES' Sal Verdone: "I never keep them." Carol Misolek of THINGS REMEMBERED told us, "I can't think

The 1989 Bugle New Year's Profundity Prize goes to Jeff Black-a dreamer, lofty thinker, and smooth talker. Congratulations, Jeffrey and Go For It! Guess what, folks. There is a fantastic sale on ice at ROGERS & HOLLAND JEWELERS! Not ice as in frozen water-Diamonds. Sales on diamonds don't stop at Christmas according to manager Dan Decker. All sparkling icy dial onds at Rogers & Holland are reduced by 20%. It's a great time to use their layaway plan and get that wedding ring set paid off before you are hit with the bills from summer weddings. Valentine's Day isn't too far into the future either. Diamonds make perfect gifts for any day of the year when you want to tell someone-"You're about as special as it gets." If you notice footprints about the size of a small animal with strange markings in the snow, do not be alarmed. The police and Center for UFO Sighting won't believe you anyway. Those mysterious footprints were most likely left by a member of the species Canis or Canine. And not just any dog would leave these footprints. The pet owner that really cares realizes even man's most loyal friend needs protection from the elements. Susan Burtz of DOCKTOR PET CENTER showed us two sizes of dog boots to protect poochie's padded paws from drying out and cracking as a result of walking on ice. While you're shopping for that toasty coat for yourself that finally went on sale, don't forget Fido deserves some warmth, too. Docktor Pet Center has dog coats and waterproof rain slickers to keep your dog's coat dry and clean. They come in large, medium, and small sizes. After all, how would you like to have a body where your belly gets wet every time you go for a walk? Don't forget the woolen T-shirts designed for fashion and comfort. It's about time we stopped treating dogs like dogs and dress them appropriately for the weather with winter fashions from Docktor Pet Center.

Life is fickle. So is the public. So are the fortunes of sports teams. Once again, business is booming in Bears paraphernalia after a bad slump last year. Manager, Len Schmidt told us, "Our biggest selling items for Christmas were Bears sweats." ATHLETES IN MOTION carries so many different team logos there's no need to be caught wearing the logo of a losing team.

One of the most inventive products for winter, 1989 is available at SPENCERS-Fanny Skis. Fanny Skis attach to the gluteus maximus muscles also called the derriere and according to the manufacturer's promise, they are "perfect for any skier who is not always in control." Remember last year's winter olympics when British ski champion Eddie Edwards surprised an entire world and proved he really could ski? You, too, can show the world you are a skier regardless of age, size, or level of incompetence with Fanny Skis from Spencers.

Until next time see you at the mall!

From the Left Hand

Along the way Jack served the communities of Ocean City and Newark. New Jersev Chapel Hill, North Carolina Hartford, Connecticut and Howard County, Maryland.

Similarly to what happened when he came to Niles in 1983, Jack was chosen unanimously ov the Teaneck officials to serve in their community, being selected from a field of nore than 80 applicants.

When Hadge came to Niles ne had a tough act to follow. le succeeded Ken Scheel, a ocal boy, who was Niles nanager for about 20 years. Ken was always active in Niles, was deeply involved in his church and came to the manager's job after serving as a village trustee. His ousiness background was in private industry, where Ken was co-owner of a Northlake Scheel was not a professional. And he ran the comnunity in conjunction with Niles public officials on a very personal basis. When Hadge eplaced him he almost created a revolution in town. Unlike ex-Marine Scheel, ladge demanded his ship be run as a tight one. He egimented an outfit which had previously lived in a laid back environment. Unnecessary socializing became aboo. If you worked down a the hall you towed the mark. I caused an uproar which resulted in some early Niles village president, Nick Blase, must have been bombarded with complaints about Jack's style of operation. When anyone in town cared to drop in and spend time talking to anyone down at the hall during the Scheel years, they just dropped down and chewed the fat with whomever was around. With Jack, that wasn't the way the book was written and Jack went by the book. Morale in Niles headed straight down when Jack took over what he obviously considered was a loose ship.

Nick Blase backed his man all the way. Jack came to Niles with high marks and Blase and company gave him 100% support. The revolution among the village guard never got started because Blase backed his man.

Hadge has always been his own man. He's a lousy public relations man but probably doesn't consider P.R. part of his job. Ken Scheel's more relaxed attitude used to include regular visits down to The Bugle office. Jack's next visit to The Bugle will be his

Hadge is a serious young man who has loosened up only slightly during his years in Niles. Last year at a luncheon for new police chief Ray Giovannelli, Jack was needled by village officials because he had hosted a luncheon and took the recipients to a hot dog stand for lunch. Matter of fact. Jack has an overdue luncheon date with us and we promised he would be fed only hot dogs when he finally gets around to fulfilling the date.

The Hadge years have proven interesting. He ran a rough, tough ship taking over from a gung ho former marine who ran a much looser ship. The former Family Service head left Niles after he felt Hadge was too difficult to deal with. Hadge scored his points while leaving a body count

How well did he do? We'll never really know. He was a very good numbers man. He was a whiz when it came to operating a budget. But his relations with those who worked under him were very businesslike. That is the

Jack has obviously pushed most of the right buttons. He's gone to the right schools, gotten all the right degrees and seems to be in demand by first rate communities which chose him over many other

Similarly to Niles officials, it is difficult to measure how well Jack performed. Niles has so much money coming into its comers from taxes from industry and shopping centers, it is easy to conclude anyone would look good with so much money available. There is much room for errors when there's loads of money to cover-up any mistakes in the

We can only guess that Jack is very efficient and has given Niles a first rate operation in administering village affairs. And since Jack will be leaving in February he'll be going before most of Nilesites are sending out valentines. And while he probably doesn't care, his valentine count from Niles employees this year is not likely to be substantial. But I'm sure he'd say he was hired to run a community.. not to run in a popularity con-
