CHAIRMAN'S MESSAGE

“I seek to know more and yet more all through life. With increasing knowledge, life expands and flourishes. When I cease to learn I cease to grow”

(Sri Ramakrishna Paramahansa)

Life rests on continuous learning either in the form of seeking information or acquiring experience from the criss – cross patterns of living in groups. All Educational Institutions from schools to colleges primarily focus on offering knowledge which has a horizontal growth. But any process of learning which is merely bookish or theoretical is like a loose piling of brick on brick with no cohesive or cementing matter in between. On the contrary, emulation of elders, mighty minds and men of exemplary characters refashions life and illuminates the learners who are either children or adults.

I am immensely happy that Paavai Group of Schools provide a strong basement and a worthy super structure enabling all children to actively participate and learn from academic events and experience. The number of activities which are hitherto held in the calendar year affirm that the faculty members are facilitating the learners to identify what type of intelligence each one belongs to. In addition to the track record of scholastic achievement of the students, my joy knows no bounds to observe that club activities have brought out the logical intelligence, kinesthetic intelligence, visual – spatial intelligence, interpersonal intelligence, musical intelligence and verbal-linguistic intelligence of many a pupil. Paavai Group of Schools keep nurturing natural abilities and strength of students with a view to creating successful leaders who will have a vision, a drive and a commitment to achieve that vision and the skills to make it happen.

I am sure the children of Paavai Schools would definitely have the desire and will-power to become good leaders who, through a never ending process of self-study, education training and experience, would bring laurels to themselves, their institution and to the nation. I wish success in all their endeavors.

Regards

Shri. N.V. Natarajan, B.Com., F.C.A.

From the desk of Director and Senior Principal....

Tell them before it is too late...

The density of people in our society is so thick that we forget the reality that life will end one day but we are uncertain of that one day. So, tell the people you love and care that they are special and important to you.

Here, I am reminded of an incident about a teacher who made a remarkable difference in the lives of her students. The teacher one day during class hours asked the student of her class to list the names of the other students on two sheets of papers and write the nicest things about them. The entire class had done it and left the class room after handing over the papers to the teacher. That evening the teacher jotted down the name of each student in a paper and the list of things said about them individually. The next day she gave this list to her students individually. The students' excitement had no bounds while they read about the comments written by their friends. They were happy with themselves and one another. After a few years this group of students moved on from the school to various parts of the world.

Several years later one of the students who became a military officer was killed in Vietnam War and this teacher attended the funeral service of that special student. The church was packed with his friends from school and college. Every one present there took a last walk by the coffin. The teacher was the last one to bless. As she stood there controlling the tears, one of the soldiers approached and asked her, "Were you his Maths teacher? She nodded yes, then he continued saying "my friend 'Mark' who is in the coffin used to talk about you a lot" and after the funeral, Mark's mother approached the teacher and said I wish to share with you something. She took her by the side, opened Mark's wallet which had the picture of this particular teacher and two worn out pieces of note book papers that had been taken folded and refolded many times. The teacher sensed by a glance that these papers were the ones in which she had listed all the good things each of Mark's class-mates had written about him.

"Thank you very much for being his favourite teacher and doing this", Mark's mother continued. "As you see Mark treasured it". At this time the teacher wept uncontrollably feeling the love and respect Mark had for her.

Let us remember my friends Our Life is a journey and we travel only once on this way. We may or may not pass this way again. So just practice and experience the power of love and compassion with all your dear ones.

DATE: 13th September, 2013

Harvest festival of Kerala which unites people and an attraction to many was beautifully depicted by our students in the form of Onam celebration. The floral mat called as pookkalam was a colourful treat to all the viewers. The legendary history of Onam was elaborately depicted through a speech and dance drama. The dances performed by the students brought forth the cultural heritage of Kerala. Our children were blessed by the presence of Our Chairman Shri. CA. N.V. Natarajan, Correspondent Madam Mrs.Mangai Natarajan, Director Dr.C.Satish, Economist, leader, writer Mr.Gurumurthi, Principal Mrs.Jamuna Ramani, Academic co-ordinators Mrs.K.Indu and Mrs A. # Race for seats makes principals run for cover

Parents Threaten School Heads With Suicide, Law To Get Seats In Class 11

M Ramya | TMI

Schools in and around the city no longer wait for the Class 10 results to be released to decide on Class 11 admissions. So, two weeks after the board exam results were published, few schools have seats left. Some have started classes for Class 11 students. But, there was high drama in some schools as parents tried to wrest Class 11 seats from school managements.

Parents of students who passed out of Class 10 this year can still be seen waiting outside the principal's office in some schools. School heads said that despite informing them that all the seats are filled and no more admissions can be made, parents continue to wait hoping for a change of heart in the management.

School principals said that parents come to them with recommendations from everybody ranging from the local area inspector to senior officials in the school education department, MLAs, ministers and dignitaries. There are reports of parents threatening to sue schools for not giving them a seat or the group of their choice.

"Some living advocates, who claim to hold positions in the Bar Council of India. This year, we had a power threatening to commit suicide if we didn't give his son admission," said a school correspondent.

CEO of Kalpi, Ramaprasad Group of Schools, P. J. Sivasankar said he encountered a similar situation last year. The school had offered one group but the parents were set on another. "Our career counselor, who is also a psychologist, spoke to the student and parents for two days. Finally, they agreed to take the group offered to them," he said.

One young school correspondent said he was horrified when a desperate couple fell at his feet to coax him into giving their child a seat. Quite a few principals go into hiding during the admission season, and some change their mobile numbers or ask their secretaries to screen calls before responding.

"It's not easy to say 'no' to persistent parents, department officials, MLAs and even ministers. So, avoiding them is the best approach," said a school correspondent. One principal said that he always takes a vacation during admission time and keeps his phone off, he leaves his spouse's number with the school management to contact him in times of emergency.

Parents know these tricks too. "When we realised that we couldn't contact the headmaster or teachers, we wracked down the members of the school's board and approached them. We had to give in our best shot," said Prabha, a parent.

A school that has started classes for plus one students said that it was the safest way to avoid such unpleasant circumstances. "If you tell them that classes have begun they take it to be final and try their luck elsewhere," an official added.

FACING THE TEST

The difference between the number of students who took the state board exams for classes 10 and 12 is narrowing, which shows that fewer students are dropping out after Class 10 (figures in lakh)

SUBJECT WISE

Based on number of students who wrote Class 12 exams in different subjects this year, it's clear that maths, physics and chemistry are the most popular (figures in lakh) for students who took exams

Schools short on seats for Class 11

TIMES NEWS NETWORK

Chennai: With every passing year students are finding it harder to get admission in Class 11. Basic arithmetic can tell you why: More students are passing the Class 10 board exams and fewer are dropping out. But, schools seem unprepared and haven't increased the number of seats in Class 11 to match the demand.

In 2012, the pass rate in the Class 10 board exams increased 4% from the previous year. About 8% more students who took Class 11 boards this year compared to the last. The rate of increase in the number of students who sat for Class 11 state board exams over seven years is 13%, while the increase in those taking the Class 11 state board exams is more than 25%.

"Earlier many students in government, aided and small private schools joined polytechnic colleges or looked for jobs after Class 10. Now, most of the class wants to get a degree," said Pratyaksh, who taught maths in a government aided school till last year.

Of the 40 lakh students who took Class 11 boards in 2012, 70% enrolled in Class 11. In contrast, 80% of those who did Class 10 in 2011 reached Class 11 in 2012.

It's clear that the gross enrolment ratio in higher secondary classes is going up, but seats in schools aren't. This month, the Govt government threatened to school education department to increase the Class 11 seats by 10% to accommodate the large number of students who passed the Class 10 exams. No such arrangements have been made in Tamil Nadu.

Some CBSE schools, like Sri Srivastava Kanya Senior Secondary, ask students in Class 10 whether they want to opt for higher secondary or take the board exam and leave. The state has tried to ease pressure on students by directing schools to give preference to their own students. "But, some officials keep a cut off for students in Class 11. This has resulted in migration to rural areas," said C. Ganesh, senior principal of Prasad Group of Institutions, Schools in Namakkal, Tiruchengode, Erode, Salem and Uttarakal have 15 higher secondary sections, and take in these students.

Wise words

Mahatma Gandhi once said, "What we are doing to the forests of the world is but a mirror reflection of what we are doing to ourselves and to one another."

Trees are vital for our existence. They take in carbon dioxide and give out oxygen. And we require oxygen for respiration, don't we? Trees hold the soil together and prevent soil erosion. They also provide shelter to many animals and birds and are also essential for rainfall.

The presence of trees ensures the longevity of the planet. Deforestation only leads to increase in the level of carbon dioxide, in temperature and soil erosion. So we must save trees in order to save life!
