

HARPER LEE American Masters

With the impending publication of To Kill a Mockingbird author Harper Lee's newly discovered novel Go Set a Watchman on July 14, NJTV will air a newly updated broadcast of Harper Lee: American Masters by filmmaker Mary Murphy. The film offers an unprecedented look into Lee's rise from small-town Alabama girl to famous author, her tumultuous friendship with Truman Capote and the origin of her most memorable characters: Atticus Finch, his daughter Scout, her friend Dill, and Boo Radley.

"Go Set a Watchman was written before To Kill a Mockingbird and believed to be lost or destroyed. Its remarkable discovery allows readers of Lee's beloved classic the chance to see Atticus and Scout again. How and why this happened is a mystery we unravel in the new version of the documentary," said Murphy. She interviews Lee's friends and family, including her centenarian sister Alice (now deceased), who share intimate recollections, anecdotes and biographical details previously unknown about the author's life.

The documentary also explores the context and history of the novel's Deep South setting and the social changes it inspired after publication and through the Oscar-winning 1962 film

NJTV CELEBRATES FOUR YEARS ON-AIR

July 1st marks NJTV's fourth anniversary as New Jersey's public television network. We've worked hard and come a long way in a short time. Most notably, we've gone from borrowed production spaces to two full studios, the Agnes Varis NJTV Studio in Newark and the Trenton Statehouse studio. We also plan to use another studio, now under construction at New Jersey City University, plus our growing number of university content bureaus across the state.

We produce more Jersey-centric programming than ever before, from our keystone weeknight newscast, NJTV News with Mary Alice Williams and On the Record with Michael Aron to Driving Jersey and American Songbook at NJPAC, with a new Treasures of New Jersey series coming soon. A robust website and social media outposts help us interact daily with viewers like you. With your continued support, there's no telling how much farther the next four years will take us! – John Servidio, General Manager, NJTV
