TAD JAMES CO.

Foreword by Drs. Tad & Adriana James

We often begin our Trainer's Training & Evaluation with this question: "What does it take to be a trainer of NLP?" There are a variety of reasons for coming to a NLP Trainer's Training and there are a variety of Trainer's Trainings available. In our opinion, when you achieve the level of NLP beyond the Master Practitioner, your method of evaluating and choosing a NLP training must change. You must examine the people and the organisation behind the training even more carefully. Choose your trainers wisely - it is a big decision.

NLP TRAINER'S TRAINING

Achieve the ultimate

NLP Trainer's Training is the ultimate that NLP has to offer, teaching you how to present to groups and how to function masterfully in group environments. Whilst the most direct beneficiaries may be those interested in teaching NLP themselves, the skills and behaviours you will learn are useful and applicable in a wide variety of contexts.

Whether you want to give presentations or speeches, work more efficiently in team environments, handle meetings more effectively, lead groups or conduct professional trainings, seminars or workshops, you will find this course invaluable.

In short, NLP Trainer's Training is the difference between being a good presenter and an industry leading presenter.

Customised topics

During the training you will participate in group presentations, which will focus on a specific context of NLP Training – usually chosen from business and sales, education or healthcare, although additional areas may also be covered depending on the interests of other attendees. The content of individual presentations are on specific areas of NLP, so you have the opportunity to completely integrate the NLP information you already know, while also mastering new material and skills.

Learn to be comfortable and confident as a presenter

Public speaking is a more common fear for many Australians than dying! NLP Trainer's Training gives you the knowledge and tools you need to become a highly polished presenter and a comfortable, confident, resourceful speaker.

Our entire training is based upon gently guiding you, step by step, through a supportive and enjoyable process. Therefore, you can learn and experience just how to turn any fear you may have into excitement, energy and confidence that all contribute to your success.

"I have been in various Trainer's Trainings (at least 4 times before) and have taught in the computer industry for 16 years. I have never experienced such incredible in-depth teaching before."

Frank Tralongo, Los Gatos, California
