Town says goodbye to retiring Thornton

Sam Nickerson Staff Reporter

Feb. 6 marked the end of an era for the Town of Norwood, as it marked the retirement of longtime Town Clerk and Accountant Robert Thornton.

Thornton served as Town Clerk and Accountant for the last 36 years and was only the fourth person since the update of the Town Charter in 1914 to hold that position. Thornton himself pointed out that 2014 was the 100th year of that Town Charter as well.

Thornton's colleagues and friends held a small gathering for him on Feb. 6, but Town officials have spent the better part of a month wishing him well in retirement.

Selectman Allan Howard said that he had also applied for the Town Clerk and Accountant job that Thornton was eventually hired for, but believed he could not have done a better job.

"I am very, very happy with Bob's efforts on behalf of the Town all these years," Howard said.

As a member of both the Finance Commission and the Board of Selectmen, Howard developed a strong working relationship with Thornton, which eventually became a friendship.

"From the first day I met the guy, I liked him. He got more and more of my respect for being the person he is," Howard said of Thornton, who is known for his "no-frills, right to business" attitude. "We've gotten to be good friends over the years...and I can count on him, even though he's younger than me, to give me advice."

Norwood Fire Department faced a difficult test as it battled a two-alarm blaze in the Norwood Commerce Center on Feb. 5 and into the early hours of Feb. 6.

Firefighters were called to 61 Endicott St. - a former mill converted into industrial and commercial space - just before noon on Thursday, and found heavy fire already be showing from building 51, at the back of the industrial complex, Norwood Fire Department spokesman Lieutenant George Morrice said.

But the fire was only one of the challenges the firefighters would face.

"When our apparatus arrived, there was immediately a problem trying to access the building," Morrice said. "Access was blocked because snow that had been plowed to clear the complex was pushed up against the building, and cars that had been snowed in around the building had not been dug out."

Engine crews first tried to get through the windows to attack the fire, Morrice said, but were blocked by the depth of snow between them and the building, as well as the amount of fire and smoke coming from the building.

The smoke would end up being among the main problems for the firefighters on the scene, and was believed to contain chemical agents.

"We did have very thick, backwards smoke," Morrice said. "It was reported to me that it was changing different colors, black, brown, green, vellow. It was an exterior attack, but the wind would shift to blow back at the firefighters, who got exposed to that smoke."

Norwood Police apprehended a man suspected of breaking and entering at Osprey Wireless during the early morning of Feb. 5.

Officers Mazzola, Payne and O'Brien responded to two triggered security alarms at the shop - located at 895 Providence Highway - at around 4:12

German Colon, 40, of 116 Southgate St. in Worcester, was arrested after a short chase and charged with felony breaking and entering of a building in the nighttime and felony larceny from a building.

Upon arrival at Osprey Wireless, O'Brien discovered an open door near the garage and some footprints inside, but saw no signs of disturbance. The officers requested the manager of the store to come down to the shop.

In the meantime, police officials said, patrol supervisor Sgt. McDonagh approached the scene from the neighborhood behind the store. McDonagh noticed a figure take cover from his cruiser in some bushes by Froggy's Pond.

After McDonagh approached, the suspect fled, but was eventually caught as he became stuck in the snow. Assisted by officers Gamel, Shore, Bishop and O'Brien, the suspect - Colon - was checked for weapons and questioned. Officials said Colon lied to the officers about his address, place of employment and location of his car.

Colon - who is an employee at Osprey Wireless - is believed to have taken around $500 from the store and a lesser amount of cash from another employee's toolbox. Two car stereos were located in Colon's vehicle - located at Jack Madden Ford - as well.

Norwood Police were in action earlier in the day too, as they tracked an alleged serial liquor thief in Norwood Center to the Olde Colonial Cafe. Officer Fundora the suspect had matched the description of an individual who had been caught stealing liquor from businesses before.

The suspect was stopped by Sgt. Flanagan and officers Baker, Gover and Costa and arrested on Cottage Street, where police officials said he lives. The individual was charged with two counts of felony larceny from a building.

"We're not going to name him or provide a photo because neither serves a law enforcement purpose," police officials said. "We're hoping that this individual is given that combination of treatment and supervision which will not only prevent him from placing the employees of our local businesses at jeopardy ... but that he be freed by his dependence on liquor."

Winter takes toll on NFD budgets

Sam Nickerson

Staff Reporter

The Board of Selectmen heard about one of the busiest months the Norwood Fire Department has ever had during a meeting on February 10.

Chief Anthony Greeley, who gave his regular monthly report, said that his department responded to 512 incidents and had around 230 medical transports. The department also participated in out of town mutual aid for surrounding communities - including in Dedham on January 28 for a two-alarm fire and in Walpole on the January 30 for two fires - a total of 22 times.

Between the number of incidents at the end of the month - when the snow storms began to hit around January 26, bringing over 71 inches of snow in a matter of weeks - and the two-alarm fire at the Norwood Commerce Center, Greeley and Town Manager John Carroll said that the department is close to draining its overtime and recall budget accounts.

Carroll said the account was budgeted around $92,000. Greeley said they had around half of that balance left in the account until January 26, when the successive snowstorms began to hit.

Between work in the Town during the storms and the three major "out of town fires" Norwood participated in, Greeley said the account only had around $12,000 left.

Carroll indicated that the department would not be able to sustain that amount until May, when municipal transfers could take place. As a result, he put forward a request to allow them to approach the Finance Commission for a reserve fund transfer, which was not a substitution.

While Carroll initially estimated the amount needed to be between $10,000 and $20,000, Greeley said he would likely need around Howard of the Norwood Historical Commission to the

"Typically, the last two budget years, we made that line work pretty good. Even in the middle of the month ... I had well over half on January 26," Greeley said. "It doesn't take much to really bleed them down."

Greeley said it wasn't an issue of substitution, but it was "for when we go out of town on mutual aid or have multiple alarm fires."

"That's how we bring guys back in acute situations, and then for storm coverage also," Greeley said.

Plasko forecasted how the Finance Commission would handle the request at this time of year

"Fincom is likely to want to give you a little bit, so they don't just totally wipe out the reserve, as it's needed, and then go to Town Meeting when we get there for the rest of the year," Selectman Bill Plasko said.

Greeley said that if it was closer to May 1, he could have tried to "make it work inside, but we're too far out."

The Selectmen unanimously approved the request to approach the Finance Commission in order to seek the funds.

Later, Arthur Buckley of the Lottery Commission submitted correspondence that the Commission received an application for a Keno license from Bamboo Café.

If the Town objects to the license, the Commission requires both parties to come in for a hearing within 21 days.

The Town requested and extension until March 5 so that the Selectmen could hold a hearing with the Bamboo Café. Selectman Paul Bishop motioned to schedule a meeting with the Bamboo Café, which was approved.

The Selectman also discussed a request from Judith Howard of the Norwood Historical Commission to the Capital Outlay Committee regarding the reinstatement of "$100,000 to the Norwood Pumping Station Budget."

Plasko said that the amount Howard referenced was actually appropriated "into a budget at one point to make repairs to the roof" when the building was being used for Public Works storage.

At that time, the Town had a local architect look at the building, who said the roof would cost more than the

The road less taken

A couple of weeks ago at a Board of Selectmen's meeting, member Bill Plasko asked those watching the telecast to get involved with the town and run for public office. He lamented the fact that incumbents were seemingly running unopposed year after year and that Norwood was the lesser for it. He also took a small shot at the media, making the claim that we didn't do enough to promote elections and get out the vote. He's right, to a certain degree.

Newspapers, at least this one, take satisfaction in seeing the fruits of their labors through public response to our columns. For example, when charitable organizations come to us and ask for help in promoting fundraisers with the end result being they raise a lot of money, we feel good about what we do. And being able to highlight the good work of those who give of themselves for the betterment of others without expecting something in return helps us get through the muck and mire of having to report the nefarious deeds of some and the sufferings of others. Because to do our job properly, it all comes with the territory.

We have been reporting in Norwood under two mastheads now for over twenty years and in all those years, with the exception of the last couple, we have pleaded for others to join the fight and get involved, either through seeking an elected seat on one of the many boards, at town meeting, or through volunteer committees. And, quite frankly, the results have been far less than rewarding.

We've written articles detailing the abysmal attendance records of town meeting members, and called some out by name in opinion columns in the hopes that they will either get their acts together and start attending, or spur others on the sidelines to step up and challenge those members who treat their responsibilities like a joke.

And, as public participation continued to slide, we reconsidered and thought we may be part of the problem so, for the last couple of years, we backed off and toned down the volume of exhortation to see if things would improve. We believe this backing off is perhaps what Mr. Plasko was referring to.

We're not sure what the best way is to improve public participation, and we will continue to experiment. We only want what's best for this Town we care so much about. It's where we got our start, and have been able to both do some good and support our families at the same time. It really is a nice way to make a living, at least most of the time.

DRUMMEY ANNOUNCES CANDIDACY

To the Editor:

Denis M. Drummey, Sr. has announced that he will be a candidate for the one seat open on the Town ballot this April 6. Drummey previously served as Selectman from 2002-2005. He estimates that he put in at least 3,000 hours to the town over that time.

"I felt my largest accomplishment was embedding the town in the Quincy Economic Target Area with express intent of filling vacant commercial buildings that, for the most part, had gone bankrupt. This program (which I founded and was Chairman through creation of the Norwood Economic Development Committee) brought millions of dollars of tax revenue into the town, with several successes such as Instron, LTX, UTI, and Mystic Scenic Studios to name a few. The program works because the town can use leverage to entice businesses to Norwood."

"Regrettably, I spent much time as Chairman of the YMCA Complex Committee slated for University Ave. This would have been a fabulous addition to Norwood but unfortunately our "lead donor" backed out at the last minute. I was also Chairman of various other committees and feel that the board and the town is best served by thinking ahead about what we want Norwood to look like in 10 or 20 years. I believe that is the main role of the Selectman - not to just act as day to day functionary."

"Presently, I have worked on several other initiatives in town, such as the new rink. Although I know, some people are unhappy with its location, our group was adamant that we would not go to the Norwood taxpayer for any money. We simply did not have sufficient money to acquire a multi-million dollar parcel anywhere else and still build the rink".

"My wife, Sandi, and I are proud to be among a group of dedicated citizens who donate their time every year to set up the Christmas Manger scene on the Town Common. We also have donated time to our Parish Council, the Norwood Food Pantry, St. Vincent DePaul for the needy, and various other activities - such as helping Ted Mulvehill in the fundraising event for wounded veterans, Craig and Carl Brady."

There are several things happening or not happening in town that are irksome not only to myself but a large group of people in town. A few examples:

Two selectmen voted not to allow a "non-binding" referendum on the ballot after over 100 citizens duly sign a valid petition for the 2014 ballot. The pro-Christmas Recess side carried the vote 76-24 percent. Who are two selectmen to impose their thinking on the people's ability to express their desires? One said: 'nobody cares about Christmas anymore.' I guess not based on the

The Campanelli fiasco never should have happened. First of all, town officials neglected to request certification with the state of the town's contract with Campanelli for exclusive commercial development. Doing so would have prevented a hostile 40B development to which we will have to provide schooling and all other services. Further, a second group filed a 40B two weeks later and offered a $3 million mitigation payment to the Town versus $15,000 by Campanelli - and it did not encroach on any neighborhoods, as does the Campanelli development. Why so fast with Campanelli? By the way, I asked State Representative John Rogers to file legislation for relief from 40B in 2004. It came close, but not by enough in the legislative vote. In the interim 10 years, town officials have not done anything about 40B since and now we are in a pickle.

The final straw is to take one of our prime commercial properties - Plimpton Press - and turn it into a large, densely packed affordable housing complex. The last thing Norwood needs with home ownership hovering just above 50 percent. Further, the Chairman of the Economic Development Committee presently decided the committee should not be consulted about valuable commercially zoned land. Apartment complexes versus commercial entities simply means that our older citizens on fixed incomes get pinched much harder on their tax bill.

Since I stepped down in 2005, people have continuously asked me to run for the Board again. This is very humbling but makes me feel that I must have done a good job. I hope I can count on your vote on April 6 and we can get the best town in the Commonwealth back on

> Denis Drummey, Sr. Norwood

EXPERTS HAVE NO CREDENTIALS

To the Editor:

It's always timely to recall events as things unfold so mistakes are not repeated. Why does this not take place as our town prepares to defend its people and preserve our community using the 1.5 percent initiative? The latest offering is to build more housing to resolve the issue at hand. Does this make any sense? Of course it doesn't. It is just the latest round of eyewash from Town Hall. People have had it with the lies. We have way more than our fair share of housing right now. Let's just go back to the 10 percent housing goal, and dismiss the well being of our inhabitants. Any volunteers for the silver shovel team? Don't worry folks. Our Town Manager has plenty of shovel support from our Board of Selectmen, Planning Board, and Town Council. They are all very capable of welcoming in developers with open arms. They are working overtime to welcome Mr. Duffy's Regal 40R scam to town. What drives this? We're all big boys and girls. We all know what drives developers and politicians.

I recall walking to school cutting though woods along the way. I recall riding dirt bikes in the woods. I enjoyed having woods in this town as a boy. Today's youth has been robbed of that pleasure. This town has been over developed, and neighborhood integrity has been destroyed forever. We will pay the ultimate price with our town's future well-being if we do not act now. Do you think Town Council has the answers? They will maintain that Dick Heaton and Dan Hill are not experts in 1.5 percent. Why? Seems funny to me that Newton is willing to use their services on 1.5 percent as Brian Hardiman chose to do with his Norwood sent 10 firefighters to the hospital for smoke inhalation to test for different gases in their blood. One firefighter was kept overnight, while the others were eventually released. Morrice said that four Walpole firefighters who were providing mutual aid were also sent to the hospital for smoke inhalation, but were all released.

Building 51, which Norwood Fire Chief Tony Greeley said was over 22,000 square feet, may have housed a roofing or insulation company as one of its two tenants. These businesses would have materials - rigid foam insulation - that could lead to the high levels of petrochemical and synthetic chemicals in the smoke, Morrice said.

Firefighters were also challenged by the temperature, as trucks, equipment, and water all began to freeze. Firefighters on the scene also reported "dead hydrants" that weren't pulling water effectively, and others that had been buried under snow. Morrice said there was no drainage area for the water, either, which began to pool and disrupt the attack.

Chief Greeley - who was present at the fire - has urged residents to help clear some of the 900 hydrants located in town to avoid such problems during the continuing winter weather.

Morrice said the firefighters did not finish battling the fire until around 1:30 a.m. on Feb. 6, and had been at the scene for over 12 hours.

Plasko recommended that the Historical Commission speak to an architect or structural engineer about the cost of a serious study of the building and "what it would take to restore it."

Carroll, who expressed his opposition to the request, said the $100,000 in question "doesn't exist any more." He also said the building, which was actually a "water treatment plant," was an "extremely complicated building."

Chairman Michael Lyons said that the building was found to be beyond repair, and any project to renovate it was shelved.

Bishop questioned the structural integrity of the building and motioned to have the Board say they were not in favor of the request. The motion passed unanimously.

Thornton continued from page 1

During a Board of Selectmen meeting on Feb. 3, chairman Michael Lyons also spoke highly of Thornton, thanking him personally and on behalf of the Board.

Lyons said Thornton had done a "spectacular and amazing job for the Town of Norwood."

"Anybody whose worked on the Town wide Budget Subcommittee saw his knowledge, how well he prepared for every task he took on and his passion for finance and making sure the people of Norwood got the best bang for their buck," Lyons said.

During the same meeting, Selectman Helen Abdallah Donohue said Thornton was not just a great Town Clerk and Accountant, but also an "outstanding member of this community," citing his role as a founding member of the Friends of St. Nick charity.

Selectman Bill Plasko told an anecdote about being on the Board of Selectmen that hired Thornton to the position of Town Clerk and Accountant.

"I actually voted against him," Plasko said. "I think it was within the first nine months that he was here, I ... apologized ... (I) saw how great of a job obviously he was doing for the town."

Plasko said that during an interview for Norwood Public Access Television, he was asked about his biggest regret as a member of the Selectmen. Plasko said "without a second of hesitation" that his biggest regret was not voting for Thornton during the hiring process.

"I couldn't be more pleased to experience the last 36 years (with Mr. Thornton)," Plasko said. "It's been nothing but an extraordinary relationship and I thank him for everything."

Finance Commission chairman Alan Slater also had a unique perspective on Thornton's tenure in Norwood, as the Town Clerk and Accountant works closely with the Finance Commission as its clerk.

"It's tough to say in a few words, I've enjoyed working with Bob for all those years, in both professional and personal relationships with Bob over that period," Slater said. "One thing that always impressed me about Bob is his knowledge of the budget, the numbers, and about what happened in the past."

Slater also referenced Thornton's personality at work and focus on getting things done.

"As much as anything, at Town Meeting, when Bob speaks, people listen," Slater said.

Slater cited Thornton's work with retirement funds and pensions in the town as one of the biggest parts of his legacy.

"You look over the years, particular in one area, which is retirement, we paid much less in retirement costs over the years because of Bob's work," Slater said. "Particularly for a period of time, we put more money into the retirement accounts, such that we're now close to 100 percent paid up in our retirement. Not many cities and towns are. Because of that, it saves us a considerable amount of money."

In addition to bidding Thornton farewell from his post, officials also welcomed Norwood resident and former Selectman and Finance Commission member Tom McQuaid, who replaced Thornton as Town Clerk and Accountant.

"I've known Tom for a number of years, from when he served on the FinCom for several years before he joined the Selectmen, and I have tremendous respect for Tom as person and professionally," Slater said. "I'm sure he will do an outstanding job. Of course, there will be a transition period, with the different personalities and ways of doing business, but I have no doubt he will do an outstanding job as Town Clerk and Accountant, as well as clerk for the FinCom - one of the jobs that Bob had and Tom will continue."

Lyons also said he was happy to begin working with McQuaid, who has worked as a controller for a construction company, before moving to public accounting, and eventually working as a chief financial officer and vice president of finance in he biomedical research field - most recently at The Forsyth Institute in Boston.

"I'd like to welcome Tom McQuaid to fill that position ... obviously large shoes to fill, but I really look forward to working with Tom, the whole board is," Lyons said. "(I'm) very excited about that appointment and looking forward to working with him for next six months at least and many years to come from there, let's hope."

McQuaid joins the Town at a crucial time, as Norwood is in the midst of preparing its budget for the new Fiscal Year, though Thornton will be available to serve as a consultant for McQuaid and has promised to fulfill his duties to the Finance Commission through the budget balancing period.

"Bob has never let his town down. He truly never let his town down," Howard said.

While McQuaid said that Thornton is likely "the best" Town Clerk and Accountant the Town has had, he was also eager to get to work and make his own mark on the Town of Norwood.

"I've invested a lot of time in my life in the town ... I love the town, I'd love the opportunity to serve it in a professional capacity," McQuaid said during his interview with the Selectmen on Jan. 20.

Masons hold TONY Award banquet

Sam Nickerson

Staff Reporter

Some of Norwood's brightest youth and their families gathered for a special ceremony at the Orient Masonic Lodge on Jan. 29.

The 27 nominees for the 2015 Ten Outstanding Norwood Youth (T.O.N.Y.) were served a special banquet by members of the lodge and treated to a keynote speech by journalist Joe Fitzgerald.

Members of the lodge and the selection committee each introduced several members of the 2015 nominee class and highlighted their commitments to charity, education, athletics, faith and other causes.

The T.O.N.Y. awards has an over four-decade history in Norwood, as residents in grades 10-12 are recognized each year for their "contributions of time, effort, and talent to volunteerism, their church or other charitable causes," the T.O.N.Y. program website reads.

The 2015 winners included: James O'Donnell, NHS '15, Shannon Geary, NHS '15, Deepti Kamma, NHS '15, Manuel Escobar, NHS '15, Saloonee Adhikari, NHS '15, Charlotte Rivard, NHS '15, Claudia Marchionda, NHS '15, Elizabeth Coughlin, Ursaline '15, Hanna Icuspit, NHS '15, and Amber Chisholm, NHS '16.

"It's a really big honor, there's lots of students in Norwood who are involved in so many service activities and community activities and our town is a very tight-knit community, so being recognized tonight is an honor," said Geary.

All of the winners said they planned to continue to do community service and stay involved in their communities through college and beyond, but not because they are looking to win any awards.

Icuspit said that it was a surprise to be a T.O.N.Y. winner, especially because none of the winners expect to be recognized for their service.

"When you're actually doing the work, you're not like, 'oh I'm going to get rewarded for this,'" said Marchionda, who plans to attend Salem State University. "It's nice to get an award that you don't expect to receive anything for."

Kamma, who is considering studying psychology in college, agreed, adding that it was "cool" to listen to the activities and organizations her peers were involved in, since community service was not always something that came up in school.

Coughlin, who sees a possible future in psychology or medicine, also said, "it's awesome to listen to everyone's credentials and everyone had the experience to win it," and said it was an honor to be nominated alongside them and actually win.

Escobar felt that Norwood's role as a "small, tight-packed town" was in part responsible for how involved each of the students ended up being.

"When it's this small, it's easy to see how to get involved and people know each other and want to help," said Escobar, who wants to someday become a professional pilot.

He was credited the lodge for putting on such a terrific banquet.

"I also feel honored, but I'd like to thank the Masons for putting on a great event tonight. They did a very nice job," he said

Also among the nominees were James Campbell, Daniel Chiaravalloti, Christopher Cierello, Sabrina Cubelli, Jennifer Damoah, Isabella Frabrizrio, Patrick Fitzgerald, Katherine Gillis, Prem Griddalur, Samantha Hayes, Zachary Kimmett, Isabella LeSavage, Andrew Millin, Ramses Ngachoko, Jake O'Rourke, and Nancy Sangini.

During his speech, Fitzgerald said that all the nominees deserved the title of T.O.N.Y. winner.

"By being here, you are a winner. You've already established that," he said.

Fitzgerald reflected on how fast life seems to pass by, and that the parents and nominees alike must all be wondering, "how did we get here so fast?"

"The things you did, not for applause, not for attention, and that speaks really of your character," said Fitzgerald, who said that the best way to determine someone's character was to find out "how you act when nobody's watching."

Fitzgerald called each of the nominees heroes because heroes don't just come in the physical sense, but also in the mental. The nominees were heroes because of their strength of character, he said.

And in this age, Fitzgerald recalled the notion that there aren't as many heroes, only celebrities. The difference between the two, he said, was that "a hero doesn't practice being a hero."

"This is what really matters," Fitzgerald said.

Mary Connolly, a member of the now-defunct civic organization, Norwood Jaycees, presented the Father Robert Dwyer Award, given for work in their faith, to James Campbell.

The award is traditionally given by a former member of the Jaycees and is named after a priest at St. Timothy's church in Norwood, who was involved in mentoring the ministry program, before his untimely death at age 39.

A full 32-minute effort remains elusive for Norwood after its latest setback to Wellesley, 63-48 on Friday night at Norwood High School.

Natanael Foncesa-Castro led the Mustangs in scoring with 15 points, including the first eight points of the game for Norwood. But with the score essentially Wellesley 8, Foncesa-Castro 8, the sophomore from Puerto Rico went to the bench and the Raiders went on a 37-14 run, which extended into the third quarter. The Mustangs would never recover and despite an 11-0 run of its own in response, the team never got closer than an 11-point deficit.

"No coach would be upset with the way they [Norwood] came out in the third quarter,"

PHOTO BY JAKE LEVIN said head coach Rich Cormier, whose team fell to 3-13 (3-7 Bay State Conference). "That's what I just said to them in the locker room, that third quarter was fun to watch. Their effort, their attitude, the way they played together...that's the team we should be all the time."

Norwood trailed 15-10 after the first quarter, but hung around in the opening moments of the second before the wheels fell off. Kevin Perry hit a threepointer on the Mustangs' first possession, followed by a Chris Bell jumper from the elbow on the next. But on each made basket, the Raiders responded with points of their own, a testament to their relentless attacking in the paint for second-chance points.

"We don't have height in any game," said Cormier, refer-

Once again, a city of champions

Jake Levin Staff Reporter

Both literally and figuratively, we were all on Cloud Nine two Sunday nights ago.

Nine, as in nine championships won by Boston teams since Adam Vinatieri split the uprights from 48 yards out in February 2002 to win Super Bowl XXXVI.

Using the year 2000 as a cutoff, no metropolitan area in the country has won more than seven championships, Los Angeles being the closest (five NBA Championships for the Lakers, two Stanley Cups for the Kings). If you want to get really technical, and consider the Anaheim Ducks or Anaheim Angels part of the greater LA area to get to nine championships in southern California, fine. But you can't root for both the Ducks and Kings, so at least some of those titles would cancel out. And even if we're just in LA proper, you think they're happy about no Dodgers World Series wins?

New York, far and away our biggest rival, has won only five championships since 2000 (two Yankees World Series', two Giants Super Bowls, one Devils Stanley Cup). Again, that's considering Newark, N.J. as part of the greater New York area, which may be somewhat of a cheat until you remember both the Giants and Jets play their home games in East Rutherford, N.J.

What makes the New York victories difficult is that two of them were directly at our expense, the Giants wins in Super Bowl XLII and XLVI. Which got me thinking a little

The Patriots won their fourth Super Bowl last week, but just their first since 2004. Opportunities were there in 2007 and 2011, only to be crushed both times by two miracle throws from Eli Manning.

Would you trade this Super Bowl win for one of those games back?

It's a nonsensical, silly question up front, but think about it. Would you rather have the whole 19-0 thing on your résumé? Are you happy living in a world where the statement, "Tom Brady is the they scored. greatest quarterback of alltime, but even Superman had kryptonite. Tom Brady had Eli Manning?"

It's dumbfounding. Brady is 11-5 against Peyton Manning, far and away the superior quarterback to his younger brother, but 1-3 vs. Eli, and 0-2 in Super Bowls. It still looks confusing when I read that.

The Giants haven't won a playoff game in any other year under Eli Manning other than those two Super Bowl runs. From a point-differential standpoint in the regular season, the 2007 and 2011 Giants were the worst Super Bowl winners in NFL history (plus-22 in '07, minus-6 in '11). They've made the playoffs exactly one time in the last six seasons, and won the Super Bowl despite being a 9-7 team that gave up more points than It's impossible to say how history would have been altered if the Patriots finished 19-0 in 2007, or at the very least avenged the loss in 2011. There's no guarantee they would even have played in Super Bowl XLIX on Feb. 1. There's a great Simpsons Halloween episode about time traveling, where if something as simple as killing a bug in prehistoric times happens, the entire future changes.

So here I am, complaining that we should perhaps have six Super Bowl wins instead of just four with Tom Brady. And I haven't even mentioned Tuukka Rask giving up two goals in a 17-second span to possibly blow a Stanley Cup, or how Kendrick Perkins' injury may have cost the Celtics a second title. Boston should easily have a lucky 13 championships since 2000. Good times never seemed so good, huh?

ANIMAL CONTROL OFFICER TALKS ABOUT LIVING WITH WILDLIFE

Come to a presentation and discussion at the Morrill Memorial Library on Thursday, March 12 at 7 p.m. with Norwood's Animal Control Officer Henry Cerqueira about living peacefully with wildlife in the suburbs. This event is part of the Spring 2015 Sustainability series sponsored by Together Yes. Mr. Cerqueira will talk about the importance of co-existing with Norwood's nonhuman residents such as raccoons, skunks, coyotes, hornets, deer, and other critters that share our ecosystem. He will also explain some animal behaviors that may puzzle or annoy us, as well as some that amuse. In addition, Mr. Cerqueira will address our responsibility to the local wildlife and offer advice on solving pesky animal problems. Popcorn and cider will be served. To sign up, please stop by the library Reference or Information Desk, call 781-769-0200, x110 or 222, or email norprograms@minlib.net.

LANG

Melissa M., 29, of Norwood on Jan. 30. She began as a loving daughter, born on July 4, 1985 to her parents Mary Jane (Clark) Lang of Norwood and Philip G. Lang of Falmouth. Throughout her short life Melissa was to everybody exactly what they needed, which was something different to each person. We will always remember her infectious smile and loving and caring personality. Melissa leaves behind many aunts, uncles, cousins, lifelong friends, and her beloved ferrets. Preceded in death by her grandparents, Mason and Marie Clark and Phil and Irene Lang. Funeral arrangements by the Kraw-Kornack Funeral Home, Norwood. Burial will be Highland Cemetery Norwood. She was an avid lover of ferrets and was a volunteer at South Shore Ferret care. In lieu of flowers donations may be made in her name to South Shore Ferret Care, 3 Hollis St., S. Weymouth, MA 2 1 www.southshoreferretcare@comcast.net

NORFOLK COUNTY RR CLUB MEETS AT LIBRARY WED. FEBRUARY 25

The Norfolk County Rail Road Club (NCRRC) will meet Wednesday, Feb. 25, in the Simoni Room of Norwood's Morrill Memorial Library at 7 p.m. The video program has been postponed from the NCRRC snowed -out January meeting. Viewers will see a combination of stories about the growth and demise of Pennsylvania's Knox & Kane Railroad (K&KRR), the illfated Kinzua Viaduct built in 1882rebuilt in 1900-and which was recognized at one time as "the world's highest and longest railroad bridge," and its incredible destruction by a tornado in 2003. The K&KRR operated tourist scenic trains over the viaduct for a number of years. The story continues about the K&K engine house, including its recently built Chinesebuilt steam locomotive destroyed shortly after by a ferocious fire, and how that locomotive's fire-blackened hulk was purchased by Connecticut's Valley Railroad in Essex, Conn., and rebuilt into a modern steam locomotive, now the star of the Valley Railroad's Essex Steam Tourist Train fleet. The meeting is free and open to the public. Details from Ed Sweeney, NCRRC Program Organizer at 781-762-5587.

CELEBRATE NATIONAL CHILI DAY WITH A DONATION TO THE FOOD PANTRY

For such a short month, February certainly has its share of holidays. But if you're one of those people who are always looking for one more reason to celebrate, you'll be happy to learn that Thursday, Feb. 26, is National Chili Day. And fortunately for all of you whose mouths are already watering in anticipation, that steaming bowl of beef, beans, and magic is actually good for you: Packed with protein, fiber, Vitamin A, C, and iron. Plus capsicum that can help clear nasal congestion, regulate blood sugar, boost your immune system, even put you in a better mood by raising endorphin and serotonin levels. At the Norwood Food Pantry, canned chili is a very popular item - especially in cold-weather months like February and March. "It's so satisfying and nutritious," says Executive Director Ruth Taeger. "It really flies off the shelves. And it's wonderful when we have enough for all the families who'd like to take some home for dinner." Some clients like to make their chili from scratch, so gifts of canned tomatoes and beans are also extremely welcome. The pantry is usually able to provide the hamburger-and-cheese basics; and occasionally a donor will bring in boxes of corn bread mix, which enables them to distribute the perfect side dish for this classic comfort-food meal. "We haven't received too much chili lately," says Bill Discepolo, the pantry's Stock and Rotation Manager. "So we're hoping National Chili Day will inspire shoppers to pick up a can or two - or even a case or two - next time they're in the supermarket, to share with their neighbors in need. A lot of stores have sales at this time of year, so if you watch the papers, you can get some real bargains." Anyone wishing to make a donation can drop it off at the food pantry (located at the rear entrance of Grace Episcopal Church, 150 Chapel St. in Norwood) Thursday mornings between 8:30 and 9:30 or Saturday mornings between 7:30 and 11. Plentiful parking is available, and volunteers are on hand to assist in carrying bags and boxes. For those who prefer, convenient drop-off boxes are located in the Morrill Memorial Library and Hannaford's Supermarket, both on Route 1A/ Walpole Street, as well as Stop & Shop on Route 1/Providence Highway. Checks and cash donations are always greatly appreciated, as well. Checks should be made out to "Ecumenical Community Food Pantry of Norwood" and sent to 150 Chapel Street, Norwood, MA 02062. "We thank you in advance," adds Taeger. "And we want you to know that your generosity will warm a great many people's hearts, few community newspaper groups left that still publishes Opinion columns, and we don't tread lightly when we do. It would be so much easier to take the path chosen by so many and establish no position on issues. Here's a little industry secret. The reason they don't is because it costs money. Multiple newspapers are run by one editor to save on the budget and there is no way he or she can get personally in-

NRMC NEWS

Finally, we are one of the volved enough to formulate an need to thin the workforce opinion. Quite frankly, most of them aren't experienced enough to know how to write them or what to write about, and this is why they have such a poor product and limited circulation. Editorials and opinion columns are the soul of a publication, and without them you cease to matter.

Should The Norwood Record or any of The Bulletin Newspapers not care enough to step up and be heard, or be financially strapped where we so that the product suffers, we will not hesitate to close the doors. Better to care and make a difference than to just exist because we can get away with it. Love us or hate us, as long as everyone wants to continue reading us we will continue to deliver the goods. We believe the path of least resistance is the path of no existence and life is way too short for that. Thank you, for your continued support.

own cash for Norwood. Let's just continue with our Town Managers' "home grown" approach and continue to welcome in the developers with what little land we have left.

Our current 1.5 percent experts have no credentials. None at all, in fact. The GIS studies are cited as justification for town reports, yet comments such as "our GIS studies are flawed" and "I'm no GIS expert" have also been made. What is the real truth? So let us just dismiss real expert credentials. Let's not pay just $10,000 dollars for the future well being of our community! Let's hire more housing consultants. The Town always can come up with cash when it supports their argument and claims against the wishes of the citizens. Can you justify that hypocrisy? Our Board of Selectman surely can't. We have done nothing with our two years of Safe Harbor that runs out in September, so let's build more housing to get another year of Safe Harbor from 40B's. I recall a time when you could count on our elected officials. I recall a time when citizens were listened to and respected. I recall a time when appointed officials would be dismissed for poor performance. I don't recall a time when Town employees dictated policy and made themselves experts. You have to go way back to recall happier days here in town. But we don't have to wait long to recall officials who wish to continue to side with developers, and betray our beloved town.

What can the average citizen do? Do your best to follow current events. Then VOTE! Run for elected office! I'm happy to say I'm once again doing just that. I plan on making real change to our Planning Board, and humbly ask for your vote this upcoming election. You will see huge changes there if I win. Go down to the Town Clerk's office at town hall and get nomination papers and run for Town Meeting! It only takes 10 signatures and you're on your way to voicing your family's concerns to make real change. The deadline is Feb. 17 to file your paperwork. Civic involvement is very rewarding. I am a very proud citizen made prouder by being a Town Meeting Member. For those about to join us at Town Meeting, I commend you and say, "Welcome to the fight," the fight to preserve this town. This fight will be won. I promise
