Title: Assistant Director
Email Address: viviannagoh@gmail.com
About the Organization
A child's mindset begins to develop at birth. We believe that enrichment can plant positive seeds in the minds of growing youth. This is our "Busy hands = Busy minds" concept: providing activities that encourage kids to explore their limitless creativity, and absorb knowledge about the world around them. We serve youth (ages 4-14) by engaging them in gardening, art, and STEM. Our hands-on enrichment opens minds to a complete potential for learning all while having fun, laughter, and excitement. We believe every youth who attends our program leaves with the inspiration to Dream big and Believe they can achieve anything in life. Busy hands = Busy minds can be seen in every part of our program, to help kids create and develop a positive mindset.

OPPORTUNITY: Traditional Placement
Organization Name
American Planning Association (APA), California Chapter	Placements available = 5
Supervisor Information
Name: Stephanie Roxas, AICP
Title: Vice President of Professional Development, APA California
Email Address: profdev@apacalifornia.org
About the Organization
OUR MISSION: Creating great communities for all. OUR VISION: The American Planning Association will lead the way to equitable, thriving communities by creating unique insights, as well as innovative and practical approaches that enable the planning community to anticipate and successfully adapt to the needs of a rapidly changing world. Planners help communities thrive in a changing world — APA serves to elevate and unite their efforts, advancing a diversity of thought and representation in the profession. The California Chapter of the American Planning Association (“APA California”) is the largest chapter of the largest professional planning organization in the country. APA California has over 7,000 members comprising a network of practicing planners, citizens and elected officials committed to urban, suburban, regional and rural planning in the State of California.
Remote Placement Information
APA California is currently organizing its annual State planning conference, which will be held online in a live virtual format from September 13-15, 2021. More information is available online: https://apacalifornia-conference.org/. The Conference Planning Committee is composed of a group of volunteers from across the State working in the public, private, non-profit, and academic sectors of planning. Field Study Interns will provide broad support and assistance to support the Conference Planning Committee and Executive Board of APA California. Duties will focus on preparing for the 2021 APA California Virtual Conference. Tasks may include, but are not limited to, researching potential speakers and topics for educational sessions, note taking during meetings and researching follow-up tasks assigned by the Subcommittee Chairs, creating marketing materials for social media outreach and email communications, and providing technical support to stream live recorded webinars. Field Study Interns will participate in various meetings for the Conference Planning Committee and its multiple Subcommittees. Interns will meet planners from many disciplines, expertises, and sectors working throughout the State, and there will be opportunities to connect with professionals that closely align with the student's career interests.
Requirements (subject to change)
The ideal candidate will have a keen interest in urban planning and pursuing a career in planning practice. Priority will be given to students majoring in Urban Studies. Through their volunteer activities and/or professional experience, the student should demonstrate their experience in organization, management, and taking initiative.

Strong communication ability is key. The ideal candidate will be enthusiastic about the planning field and self-motivated to meet other planners and make the most out of their internship.

How to Apply

Interested students should email their resumes to Stephanie Roxas, AICP, Vice President of Professional Development, at: profdev@apacalifornia.org. In the email, please describe your specific planning interests, short-term career goals, and why you are interested in becoming an APA Intern. Please also summarize your skills, abilities, and any relevant background information that would help us assess your candidacy for this internship. Applications will be reviewed one week after the release of the UCI Field Study Catalog, and as such, interested students are encouraged to apply immediately. Priority will be given to early applicants. Students will be contacted for a follow-up Zoom meeting to gauge fit for the position.

Community Education Fellows Program: An Initiative at UCI to connect Undergraduate mentors with families and schools	Placements available = 1
Supervisor Information
Name: June Ahn
Title: Community Education Mentor
Email Address: junea@uci.edu
About the Organization
The COVID-19 pandemic has disrupted school learning and families. Currently, we are partnering with local schools and non-profits to identify families in need of support with remote learning. We are then matching students with UCI undergraduates, known as Community Education Fellows, to facilitated supportive learning pods. Learning pods are small groupings of students for socialization, education, and play. Learning Pods have the potential to be an innovative solution for families faced with remote learning in the COVID era. Learning pods are designed to support students' social-emotional needs an facilitate small group learning. Many caregivers and schools are searching for ways to provide personal attention and support to students as they attend virtual or hybrid schooling options. While many private options are proliferating at this time, we believe equitable and community-driven approaches are vital to help each other in this critical moment. This initiative arose through the combination of support from many individuals and programs. The UCI Office of Inclusive Excellence awarded a seed grant to Dr. Ahn (and colleagues) of the Orange County Educational Advancement Network to create research and response projects to aid local communities impacted by COVID-19. Dr. Ahn and doctoral candidate Yenda Prado created a work group focused on helping families in need, searching for extra support for their child's virtual learning. The goal of mitigating the extreme inequality that is arising from the pandemic and developments such as learning pods and hiring tutors, was a prime aim for this working group.
Remote Placement Information

These will include the ability to develop skills to (1) build relationships and community with students and their families, (2) provide supportive academic and remote learning support to students, and (3) collaborate with partner schools and teachers. This course aims to inspire undergraduates in engaging with local communities and schools in the provision of supportive remote learning experiences for students.
Requirements (subject to change)
Community Education Fellows will attend weekly Professional Development Meetings to discuss work progress. Community Education Fellows will participate in education trainings focusing on community building, instructional, and remote learning best practices. Community Education Fellows will conduct supportive small group learning sessions for their assigned learning pod of students under the supervision of partner school staff and/or Community Education Mentor. Community Education Fellows will collaborate with school partners, teachers, and families. Community Education Fellows may be asked to complete other small administrative tasks that will vary in nature. These tasks will be assigned and explained when necessary. Community Education Fellows will be required to attend weekly meetings. Community building, instructional, and remote learning best practices will be discussed. Meetings will take place once weekly with a Community Education Mentor.
