

TRANSFORMING OUR COMMUNITIES

Hard Stuff Done Right™

Huntington Ingalls Industries is America's largest military shipbuilding company and a provider of professional services to partners in government and industry. For more than a century, HII's Newport News Shipbuilding and Ingalls Shipbuilding divisions in Virginia and Mississippi have built more ships in more ship classes than any other U.S. naval shipbuilder. HII's Technical Solutions division provides a wide range of professional services through its Fleet Support, Mission Driven Innovative Solutions, Nuclear & Environmental, and Oil & Gas groups. Headquartered in Newport News, Virginia, HII employs more than 40,000 people operating both domestically and internationally.

MESSAGE TO OUR COMMUNITIES

At Huntington Ingalls Industries, we've invested a lot of time and energy in talking about transformation: the need to change what we do and how we do it. While it has obvious connotations for our business, the transformation mind-set is also critical to our relationship with our communities.

Here are just a few examples of the many ways HII worked to transform people's lives in 2018:

- Our Newport News Shipbuilding division launched the "One Community Transformational Grant" program and awarded $300,000 to the Fort Monroe Foundation to help establish the National Center for Freedom.
- Our Ingalls Shipbuilding division partnered with three high schools in Mississippi and Alabama to construct talent development labs to bolster each of the school's technical programs, especially in shipbuilding. Additional labs are already planned.
- Our Technical Solutions division solicited ideas from its 5,300 employees through its Community Engagement Program and awarded more than $320,000 in grants to 33 organizations across the United States and around the world.
- Our corporate office launched the "HII Cares" program, which allowed employees to volunteer up to eight hours on company time at the Downtown Hampton Child Development Center, VersAbility Resources, the Virginia Peninsula Foodbank and the Capital Area Foodbank in Washington, D.C.

While I am proud of these accomplishments, it's our employees—now more than 40,000 strong and spread across 42 states and 13 countries—that have an even greater impact. Thousands of our employees go from their very demanding full-time jobs to volunteer commitments that are as diverse as they are and help make their communities great places to live.

"While I am proud of these accomplishments, it's our employees—now more than 40,000 strong and spread across 42 states and 13 countries—that have an even greater impact."

Unfortunately, some of our employees will remember 2018 as a year of hardship. In September, Hurricane Florence dumped record amounts of rain on North Carolina and South Carolina, including more than 1,200 HII employees who call those states home. A few weeks later, Hurricane Michael made landfall just a few miles from a Technical Solutions facility in Florida. While we made two donations totaling $150,000 to the American Red Cross Disaster Relief Fund—and employees added $76,000 more—we were most proud of the way we rallied people and resources to protect and recover our facilities in Panama City Beach and support our colleagues who work there.

Our response following those storms—indeed, the way we achieved every accomplishment in 2018—is a testament to HII's "Hard Stuff Done Right" trademark and, above all, our commitment to creating value for all of our stakeholders, including the communities where we do business.

I hope this "Report to the Community" demonstrates the breadth and depth of HII's charitable efforts in 2018. More importantly, I hope it is evidence of our commitment to transform not only our business, but the communities where our employees live and work.

Mike Petters

President and CEO, Huntington Ingalls Industries

EDUCATION

At HII, we believe education is the foundation of our nation's security. We proudly support a variety of early education initiatives; STEM (science, technology, engineering and math) projects at elementary, middle and high schools; and two- and four-year college programs that support our workforce development needs. We also offer the HII Scholarship Fund. In its first three years, the fund has awarded 395 scholarships totaling over $1 million, including more than 130 awards for pre-K education programs.

HII and its three divisions also have long-standing relationships with organizations like the American Red Cross, Habitat for Humanity, Special Olympics and local food banks. Hundreds of our employees give their time, talent and money in support of many other organizations—large and small—that strengthen their communities.

HII's environmental stewardship and sustainability efforts are recognized nationally and regionally. As a company, we are committed to waste reduction and recycling and to preserving and improving air and water quality in all of the communities in which we operate. We are also pleased that many of our employees volunteer their own time and energy to preserving our greatest natural resource—our environment—for future generations.

MILITARY & VETERANS

Hill has a commitment to the men and women of the Armed Forces—and their families—that extends well beyond the ships we build and maintain for the U.S. Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard. We employ more than 7,100 military veterans—about 18 percent of our workforce—as well as current members of the Reserves and National Guard, and we are also committed to filling more than 20 percent of new jobs with veterans. We are also proud to support a variety of USO events.

"As part of our 80th anniversary, Ingalls not only celebrated 80 years of building the finest ships the world has ever known, we also renewed our commitment to being a good corporate citizen by opening new talent development labs in local high schools to prepare future generations of students to lead productive lives. Our commitment to our communities was also expressed through the hundreds of shipbuilders who volunteered their time and efforts to improve the places where we live and play. Wherever you go on the Gulf Coast, you will find our shipbuilders giving their time to such causes as Habitat for Humanity, United Way, the Boys and Girls Club, Special Olympics and so many other organizations that have a direct, positive impact on all our lives."

VOLUNTEER SPOTLIGHT

Marie Lohman

Marie Lohman, an employee at Technical Solutions' Mission Driven Innovative Solutions group, volunteers for a number of organizations in Orlando, including the Friends of the Osceola Library, Light of Life Rescue Mission and the St. Thomas Aquinas Thrift Store. One of the most meaningful to her is Friends of Nosara, which delivers rice, beans and other necessities to families in Nosara, Costa Rica.

"I am not very good about speaking about my volunteering because I don't do it for me or to enhance people's opinion of me," she said. "I just do what I do because my blessings outweigh my struggles, and hopefully my giving a token of all that I have to someone who could use it will allow them to see that at that moment, their blessings outweighed their struggles as well."

VOLUNTEER SPOTLIGHT

Robin Poppenhouse

Ingalls Shipbuilding employee Robin Poppenhouse supports a number of charitable events every year, but she is best known for her volunteer work at Special Olympics Mississippi. 2019 will be her 10th year organizing Ingalls' Olympic Village at the Summer Games.

"When you ask me about the rewards of volunteering," she said, "it's all about the smiles, hugs, love, laughter and sometimes heartbreak, but I wouldn't change it for anything. ... It's just something you do and don't think twice about it."

Poppenhouse shares this spotlight with her fellow shipbuilder volunteers. "We have some wonderful employees here at Ingalls," she said. "If I could reach out to every one of them I would say, 'Thank you for supporting me in the past, and I look forward to more adventures in the future.'"

VOLUNTEER SPOTLIGHT

Cynthia Allen-Whyte

Cynthia Allen-Whyte, an employee in HII's corporate office, joined the Women in Shipbuilding Enterprise (aka the WiSE employee resource group) when she started working at Newport News Shipbuilding in 2012. She's now a member of the WiSE board.

"I have strived to continue to make a difference with each thing we do as an organization," she said, "whether that is providing resources for our members or contributing to the community by helping with filling Christmas wishes for children in the court system or working with middle school girls to help change the world."

Allen-Whyte is also an active member of the Christopher Newport Alumni Society and the East End Flyers Track & Field Club. "If you don't have the capability to contribute to a cause financially," she said, "there are other ways to make a difference—by giving your time and your talent."

"Each day, Technical Solutions employees give 110 percent to provide world-class services to our customers. It's no surprise that their giving spirit continues during their off-hours in support of the communities where they live. Technical Solutions employees are feeding the homeless in Florida, removing graffiti in California, collecting backpacks for underprivileged children in Virginia, cycling for orphans in Trinidad and Scotland, and donating personal time and money for other non-profit organizations around the world. I am very proud of our employees' dedication to help our communities flourish!"

"The ability to contribute to something much greater than ourselves inspires a shipbuilder's way of life. But it's not only who we are as shipbuilders; it is who we are as parents, grandparents, volunteers and good neighbors, because giving back is the right thing to do as human beings."

Jennifer Boykin

President
Newport News Shipbuilding

VOLUNTEER SPOTLIGHT

Terence Wood & Phil True

Terence Wood and Phil True

were among the Newport News Shipbuilding employees recognized in 2018 for their work with Habitat for Humanity Peninsula and Greater Williamsburg.

"I volunteer for construction projects because I enjoy making saw dust, pounding nails and building things," True said, "but I also enjoy the back-and-forth banter and camaraderie with the other volunteers and, of course, helping families in need of assistance."

True also volunteers with the Appalachia Service Project and the TATOO (Taking Action To Overcome Obstacles) tutoring program. Wood, a member of The Apprentice School Jaycees, also volunteers at the St. Paul's Episcopal Church soup kitchen.

"I find that donating and volunteering locally to support and assist our Newport News neighbors, where you can actually see the good that you are doing, is not only the right thing to do but spiritually satisfying as well," he said.

"Making a difference in the lives of others is constantly on the hearts and in the minds of hundreds of our employees. They want to make life better for others, and they do that through volunteer service. I get calls all the time from employees who just want to find a way to give back to their community. It's refreshing to know that in a world where there are so many opportunities to just do nothing, our employees still want to reach out and touch lives, do things that matter and be useful. They want to be positive influences and they use their voices, their skills and their desire to serve to support many great causes in the communities that surround us. I am always proud of the volunteer service rendered by the employees of Ingalls Shipbuilding. They are truly helping make this a better place for everyone."

"For Newport News' shipbuilders, engagement occurs both inside and outside the shipyard gates. The 'can do' spirit and commitment that allows our employees to build great ships on the job also inspires them to create transformational change in our community. The impact of their efforts resounds throughout the region—in schools, clinics, museums, parks and neighborhoods. Those listed in these pages are to be commended for their selfless contributions that ensure their communities are and will remain great places for all people to live and work."
