Summary

Nanuq: Life with Polar Bears features gorgeous wildlife photography of polar bears alongside firsthand accounts of experiences of living alongside the great sea bear. From close encounters with angry bears to the beauty of watching a polar bear climb an iceberg with its claws and traditional mythology surrounding life with polar bears, this book gives readers outside the Arctic a firsthand look at what life with polar bears is really like.

Contributor Bio

Paul Souders is a professional photographer, traveling around the world and across all seven continents for more than thirty years. His images have appeared around the globe in a wide variety of publications, including National Geographic, Geo in France and Germany, Time and Life magazines as well as hundreds of publishing and advertising projects. His recent photography work in the arctic has drawn wide acclaim, including first place awards at the BBC Wildlife Photographer of the Year competition in 2011 and 2013, the National Geographic Photo of the Year contest in 2013 and Grand Prize in the 2014 Big Picture Competition. Over the last three decades he has visited more than 65 countries and has been slapped by penguins, head-butted by walrus, terrorized by lions and menaced by vertebrates large and small.

Those Who Run in the Sky

Aviaq Johnston

Summary

A coming-of-age story that follows a young shaman named Pitu as he learns to use his powers and ultimately finds himself lost in the world of the spirits. After a strange and violent blizzard leaves Pitu stranded on the sea ice, without his dog team or any weapons to defend himself, he soon realizes that he is no longer in the world that he once knew. The storm has carried him into the world of the spirits, a world populated with terrifying creatures—black wolves with red eyes, ravenous and constantly stalking him and water-dwelling creatures that want nothing more than to snatch him and pull him into the frigid ocean through an ice crack—as well as beings less frightening, but equally as incredible, such as a lone giant who can carry Pitu in the palm of her hand and keeps caribou and polar bears as pets. After stumbling upon a fellow shaman who has been trapped in the spirit world for many years, Pitu must master all of his shamanic powers to make his way back to the world of the living, to his family, and to the girl that he loves.

Akilak's Adventure

Chalene Chua, Deborah Webster

Summary

When Akilak must travel a great distance to another camp to gather food, she thinks she will never be able to make it. With a little help from her grandmother's spirit, and her own imagination to keep her entertained, Akilak manages to turn a long journey into an adventure. Even though she at first feels that she will never be able to reach her destination, she keeps her grandmother's assurance that her "destination is not running away; it will be reached eventually" in mind and ends up enjoying the journey that at first seemed so daunting.

Leah's Mustache Party

Nadia Mike, Charlene Chua

Summary

Four-year-old Leah loved being a pirate for Halloween. She never considered being a princess or a fairy. But once Halloween has come and gone, Leah misses so many things about her costume. She misses her sword. She misses saying "Arrrr!" But most of all, she misses her silly moustache. But Leah knows that it doesn't have to be Halloween to play dress up. She can wear a moustache whenever she wants! She can wear one while she's watching a movie, or riding her bike, or playing her favorite game. And when Leah's birthday finally arrives, she knows exactly what she wants to do: have a party where everyone must wear a moustache! At Leah's moustache party, everyone gets in on the dress-up fun, even Grandma!

Contributor Bio

Nadia Mike is an Inuit educator, who recently graduated with a bachelor of education from the University of Regina. Although Nadia has lived in many communities across the North, she considers Iqaluit, Nunavut, her home. Nadia has two daughters, Leah and Jaime, who constantly teach her to be less serious and enjoy every day. These two girls have also reminded Nadia of the importance of children's literature, and having stories with settings, characters, and themes, that show children that their lives and cultures are important enough to be in books. Nadia loves to travel, cook, sew, and drink strong coffee. In 2014, Nadia published her first book, an Inuktitut-language first words board book. Leah's Mustache Party is her first picture book. Charlene Chua's work has appeared in the American Illustration, Spectrum and SILA's Illustration West, as well as several art books. The Spirit of the Sea

Rebecca Hainnu, Hwei Lim

Summary

The creation story of one of the central figures in Inuit mythology

This illustrated picture book tells the story of the spirit of the sea, known by many Inuktitut names including Nuliajuq, Sedna, and Takannaaluk, who is a key figure from the pantheon of Inuit lore. Sedna was once a young woman who refused to marry, but the lies and deception of a treacherous bird and her own father's cowardice lead her to a life of solitude at the bottom of the ocean as the powerful, and at times vengeful, spirit of the sea. Steeped in Inuit traditional values and lifestyle, this book serves as an ideal introduction to the mythology of the first peoples to inhabit North America.

Contributor Bio

Rebecca Hainnu is the coauthor of A Walk on the Tundra, which was a finalist for the 2013 Canadian Children's Round Table Information Book Award, and the coauthor of Walking with Aalasi: An Introduction to Edible and Medicinal Arctic Plants. She lives in Clyde River, Nunavut, Canada. Hwei Lim is the illustrator of the Boris and Lalage short stories series and Spera.

Tuniit

Mysterious Folk of the Arctic

Rachel Qitsualik-Tinsley, Sean Qitsualik-Tinsley, ...

Summary

An intriguing book that interweaves anthropological evidence with Inuit traditional knowledge

Tuniit: Mysterious Folk of the Arctic introduces young readers to the huge, shy, powerful, ingenious race of Tuniit, the people who populated the Arctic even before modern Inuit. Young readers will be fascinated to discover the great impact these former giants of the Arctic had on some of the most well-known and practical aspects of Arctic life. By presenting the factual basis for many of the Inuit traditional beliefs about the Tuniit, this book provides readers with a blend of myth and fact.

Inuit Kinship and Naming Customs

Pelagie Owljoot, Louise Flaherty

Summary

Traditionally, Inuit do not call each other by their given names. Instead, they refer to each other using a system of kinship and family terms, known as tuq&urasiit (turk-thlo-raw-seet). Calling each other by kinship terms is a way to show respect and foster closeness within families. However, as more and more Inuit refer to each other by their English first names, rather than their traditional kinship terms, the tradition of tuq&urasiit is slowly disappearing. This book presents interviews with four Inuit elders from Kivalliq Region, Nunavut, about how names were chosen, the importance of using kinship terms, and how the practice of tuq&urasiit has changed over the years. Inuit Kinship and Naming Customs helps to preserve the knowledge of this tradition for younger generations, both Inuit and non-Inuit.

Contributor Bio

Pelagie Owljoot is a manager of curriculum development at Nunavut Arctic College in Arviat, Kivalliq Region. She has facilitated Nunavut-wide elders' conferences and Inuktitut terminology workshops, and has also worked as a translator and interpreter for Council meetings. Kiviuq's Journey

Oral History from the Arviat Region

Henry Isluanik, Germaine Arnaktauyok

Summary

Kiviuq's Journey presents the legend of Kiviuq, one of Inuit mythology's most important and well-known stories about a traveling hunter's quest to find his home. Providing the legend just as it has been told for centuries in the Kivalliq Region of Nunavut, this book includes an unfiltered record of this important, harrowing tale. A preface that contextualizes the story within the Inuit mythological canon is also included.

Contributor Bio

Henry Isluanik is a carver, a hunter, and a storyteller. He lives in Arviat, Nunavut, Canada. Germaine Arnaktauyok is an Inuit artist and the illustrator of A Sled Dog for Moshi. She is best known for her prints and etchings depicting Inuit myths and traditional ways of life and in 2000, she designed the special edition two-dollar coin commemorating the inception of the territory of Nunavut. She lives in Yellowknife, Northwest Territories, Canada.

The Walrus Who Escaped

Rachel Qitsualik-Tinsley, Sean Qitsualik-Tinsley, ...

Summary

A cheerfully illustrated tale with Inuit roots

In the time before animals were as they are today, Walrus, who had spiraled, curly tusks and not the long, straight tusks we recognize today, spent his time diving for clams. One day, Walrus was about to surface with a mouthful of tasty clams, when Raven cast a spell on the ocean, freezing Walrus in place under the water. Walrus's curly, twisting tusks became frozen in the enchanted ice, but Raven soon discovered that his magic was no match for Walrus's great physical strength as he managed to escape, but his tusks would never be the same. This fun, dynamic animal tale pits two of the Arctic's most popular animal characters against each other in an amusing battle of wits and brawn.

Common Rocks and Minerals of Nunavut

Jurate Gertzbein

Summary

The fascinating world of Nunavut's diverse rocks and minerals is vividly presented in this richly visual, informative book. Through beautiful photographs and a broad range of information—each account includes an absorbing "Did You Know?" section with facts—readers will learn about the appearances, traditional and modern uses, and environments of eastern Arctic rocks and minerals. The book covers everything from diamond to granite, from the most precious to the most common stone. The distinct geology presented in this guide will show readers that, far from a barren land of ice and snow, Nunavut hosts a vibrant environment.

Inuit Lives

Kenn Harper

Summary

Arctic historian Kenn Harper gathers the best of his columns about Inuit history in this exciting collection. Harper shares the life histories of several Inuit living in precontact times, pulling back the curtain on the harsh and at times politically fraught conditions with which they had to contend. The result of extensive interviews, research, and travel across the Arctic, these amazing, short life histories are tales of survival, struggles against adversity, and triumph, and provide readers with a detailed understanding of each person's specific time and place.

Contributor Bio

Kenn Harper is a columnist for Nunatsiaq News in Iqaluit, Nunavut. He is the author of Give Me My Father's Body: The Life of Minik, the New York Eskimo. A resident of the Canadian Arctic for 30 years, Harper is fluent in Inuktitut and has written extensively on northern history and the Inuktitut language. He lives in Iqaluit, Nunavut.

Skraelings

Clashes in the Old Arctic

Rachel Qitsualik-Tinsley, Sean Qitsualik-Tinsley

Summary

A historical coming-of-age story set in the arctic landscape

In this adventurous novel—set in the ancient Arctic, but told by an inquisitive and entertaining contemporary narrator—a wandering Inuit hunter named Kannujaq happens upon a camp in grave peril. The inhabitants of the camp are Tuniit, a race of ancient Inuit ancestors known for their strength and shyness. The tranquility of this Tuniit camp has been shaken by a group of murderous, pale, bearded strangers who have arrived on a huge boat shaped like a loon. Unbeknownst to Kannujaq, he has stumbled upon a battle between the Tuniit and a group of Viking warriors, but as the camp prepares to defend itself against the approaching newcomers, Kannujaq discovers that the Vikings may have motivations other than murder and warfare at the heart of their quest. This lush historical fiction is steeped in Inuit traditional knowledge and concepts of ancient Inuit magic.

Contributor Bio

Of Inuit ancestry, Rachel Qitsualik-Tinsley was born into the traditional 1950's culture of iglu-building and dog-sledding, later becoming a translator, writer, and activist. She is a scholar of world religions, and considered an authority on Inuit language, mythology, and pre-colonial religion. She has published several hundred articles, as well as many mythic retellings and works of original fiction. Her current projects focus on utilizing fiction to discuss unique Inuit mystical and philosophical concepts stemming from Inuit cosmology of the pre-contact period. Her goal is to reveal, for all readers, the secret thought and sophistication behind Inuit cosmology. She has published for a wide range of ages, her work having been accessed as university course content. In 2012, she received a Queen Elizabeth II Diamond Jubilee Award for her written contributions to Canadian culture.

Of mixed heritage, Sean Qitsualik-Tinsley enjoyed a multicultural background steeped in naturalism, before training as a writer in Toronto. He is a literatist of world religions, comparative esoterism, and my...

The Blind Boy & the Loon

Alethea Arnaquq-Baril

Summary

Rich and sweeping illustrations buttress this origin tale unique to Inuit mythology

Based on an acclaimed National Film Board of Canada animated short, The Blind Boy & the Loon is a retelling of a traditional Inuit story that explains the origin of the narwhal, an arctic whale known for its distinctive spiral tusk, while cautioning listeners against the dangers of seeking revenge. In this story, a boy who has been blind for many years is approached by a loon who says she can help him regain his sight. Before restoring the boy's sight, the loon tells the boy that it was his own mother who blinded him while she was grieving over the death of her husband. Filled with a desire of vengeance, the boy tricks his mother into harpooning a large whale and allows her to be dragged into the sea by the animal. As the mother is pulled to the bottom of the ocean, her hair twists into a tight tusk and she becomes the first narwhal. The boy's need for revenge leaves him and his heartbroken sister alone on the land. Alethea Arnaquq-Baril's mystical, brooding animation has been adapted to a picture boo...

The Raven and the Loon

Rachel Qitsualik-Tinsley, Sean Qitsualik-Tinsley, ...

Summary

A cheerfully illustrated tale from traditional Inuit mythology

In the time before animals were as they are today, Raven and Loon were both white. Their feathers had no color at all. Raven spent his days swooping through the sky trying to fight off his incessant boredom, while loon spent her days in her iglu working away on her sewing. One day, too bored to even fly, Raven visited Loon and suggested a sewing game that would give their feathers some much-needed color. The results led to Raven and Loon acquiring their now-familiar coats. This retelling of a pan-Arctic traditional story features lively, colorful illustrations and the whimsical storytelling of two of the Arctic's most gifted storytellers.

Contributor Bio

Discovering Arctic Ecology

Mia Pelletier, Sara Otterstätter

Summary

The Arctic is not a barren, frigid landscape filled with only ice and snow. It is a complex ecosystem that contains many thriving habitats, each supported by dozens of ecological relationships between plants and animals. From the many animals that live and hunt at the floe edge to the hundreds of insects that abound on the summer tundra, this book gives a detailed bird's-eye view of the fascinating ways that animals, plants, and insects coexist in the Arctic ecosystem.

Contributor Bio

Mia Pelletier grew up exploring the lakes and forests of the Canadian Shield. Drawn to shorelines and wild places, Mia studied ecology and lived in California and the Magdalen Islands before moving to Baffin Island, Nunavut, in 2010. In Nunavut, she works with Arctic seabirds and with Inuit on the co-management of protected areas. Mia enjoys exploring the Arctic tundra and learning about the fascinating plants, animals, and people that call this region home. Sara Otterstätter is a freelance artist and illustrator.

Kamik

An Inuit Puppy Story

Donald Uluadluak, Qin Leng

Summary

When Jake finally gets a puppy to call his own, all he can think about is the fast, strong sled dog that his puppy will become. But Kamik is far from an obedient sled dog. He won't listen, he tracks mud all over the house, and he's a lot more work than Jake ever thought a puppy could be. But after a visit with his grandfather, who raised many puppies of his own while living out on the land, Jake learns that Inuit have been raising puppies just like Kamik to be obedient, resourceful, helpful sled dogs for generations.

Contributor Bio

Donald Uluadluak is an elder from Arviat, Nunavut. He was raised on the land by his grandparents, who hunted game for survival. He was an elder advisor for the Nunavut Department of Education for several years. Caribou Skin Clothing of the Igloodik Inuit

Sylvie Pharand

Summary

Caribou Skin Clothing of the Igloodik Inuit outlines the various steps involved in the creation of traditional Inuit caribou skin clothing, namely the hunt, preparation, and sewing. In addition to diagrams and practical instructions, this book is filled with historical information and insights from elders of the Igloodik region. Meticulously researched by former Arctic resident and anthropologist Sylvie Pharand, this book can be used as a practical guide to creating caribou skin clothing, as well as a general-interest text for those interested in traditional skin clothing.

Contributor Bio

Sylvie Pharand is an anthropologist who visited Iglulik, Nunavut, for the first time in 1971 to study the traditional clothing of the Iglulingmiut. After having carried out research in social and community development in Quebec, she returned to the Arctic to continue her interest in the protection and promotion of Inuit culture and knowledge.

Under the Ice

Rachel A. Qitsualik, Jae Korim

Summary

Winter can be cruel in the Arctic, and food quickly grows scarce for those who cannot hunt. In these difficult times, the grandmother of an orphaned boy wishes aloud for the qallupaluit—strange, monstrous creatures that live under the sea ice—to take her grandson away forever. The old woman soon regrets her hasty words when the little boy is snatched and carried away. After enlisting the help of her fellow villagers, the old woman learns that her grandson may be happier with the qallupaluit than he ever was with her.

A Walk on the Tundra

Rebecca Hainnu, Anna Ziegler, Qin Leng

Summary

A Walk on the Tundra follows Inuujaq, a little girl who travels with her grandmother onto the tundra. There, Inuujaq learns that the tough little plants she sees are much more important to Inuit than she originally believed. In addition to an informative storyline that teaches the importance of Arctic plants, this book includes a field guide with photographs and scientific information about a wide array of plants found throughout the Arctic.

The Legend of the Fog

Qaunaq Mikkigak, Joanne Schwartz, Danny Christophe...

Summary

In this traditional Inuit story, a simple walk on the tundra becomes a life or death journey for a young man. When he comes across a giant who wants to take him home and cook him for dinner, the young man's quick thinking saves him from being devoured by the giant and his family, and in the process releases the first fog into the world. Written by Cape Dorset elder Qaunaq Mikkigak and Marilyn Baillie Picture Book Award-nominated author Joanne Schwartz, this action-packed picture book brings a centuries-old traditional tale to life for modern readers.

Contributor Bio

Qaunaq Mikkigak is an elder, artist, and throat singer from Cape Dorset, Nunavut. She was featured in the books Inuit Women Artists: Voices from Cape Dorset and Cape Dorset Sculpture. Joanne Schwartz is a children's librarian and the author of the children's picture books City Alphabet, City Numbers, and Our Corner Grocery Store, which was nominated for the 2010 Marilyn Baillie Picture Book Award. She lives in Toronto. Danny Christopher is an illustrator and painter based in Toronto. A couple months a year in different communities in the arctic, he teaches for the NTEP program of Arctic College and the University of Regina.

The Orphan and the Polar Bear

Sakiasi Qaunaq, Eva Widermann

Summary

In the world of Inuit traditional stories, animals and humans are not such different creatures. Animals can speak to, understand, and form relationships with humans. In The Orphan and the Polar Bear an orphaned boy who is abandoned on the sea ice by a group of cruel hunters is discovered and adopted by a polar bear elder. While living in the polar bear's village, the orphan learns many lessons about survival, but most importantly, he learns something about himself and his own place in the world.

Contributor Bio

Sakiasi Qaunaq has lived most of his life in the Arctic Bay area. His grandmother told him stories as a child and fostered in him a love for traditional legends. In his youth the stories were told for entertainment, but today he feels their retelling is crucial to sustaining Inuit traditions and culture. Eva Widermann is a freelance illustrator and concept artist whose work has been published in a wide variety of books, magazines, and games. Her work has become renowned for its realistic and evocative edge.

The Shadows that Rush Past

A Collection of Frightening Inuit Folktales

Rachel A. Qitsualik

Summary

The Shadows That Rush Past introduces young readers to some of the creepiest, scariest stories from Inuit mythology. These tales, told by critically acclaimed writer Rachel Qitsualik, bring to life four creatures from Inuit mythology: the amautalik, akhla, nanurluk, and mahaha. These tales are filled with child-stealing ogresses; half-man, half-grizzly bear monsters; ice-covered polar bears 10 times the size of normal bears; and a smiling creature that surprises unsuspecting campers and tickles them to death.

Contributor Bio

Rachel A. Qitsualik was born and raised in the traditional Inuit culture. After working as a language specialist and consultant, she found success as a writer. She has published hundreds of articles on Inuit culture and folklore and has also contributed to books, including Ring of Ice, Our Story, America is Indian Country, and Canada in 2020.

Ilagiinniq

Interviews on Inuit Family Values from the Qikiqtani Region

Niutaq Cultural Institute, Qikiqtani Inuit Associa...

Summary

Through interviews with current elders from three regions of Nunavut, Ilagiinniq: Interviews on Inuit Family Values provides a wealth of information on traditional family life. Covering relationships between siblings, elders and grandchildren, uncles and aunts, husbands and wives, and in-laws, this book is an indispensable resource of information on how Inuit families traditionally lived and how traditional ways can be implemented in the modern world.

Contributor Bio

The Niutaq Cultural Institute preserves Inuit culture and beliefs and has published collections of oral histories in collaboration with the Qikiqtani Inuit Association. They are located in Igloolik, Nunavut and serve the 13 communities of the Baffin Region. The Qikiqtani Inuit Association is aimed at representing the interests of the Inuit of the Baffin Region, High Arctic, and Belcher Islands in a fair and democratic way. They formed as a nonprofit land-claim and community organization in 1996 and registered as a society in 1997.

The Qalupalik

Elisha Kilabuk, Joy Ang

Summary

All Inuit know about the qalupaliit, strange creatures that live under the sea ice and carry away unsuspecting children on their backs. But when one bright young orphan strays too close to the ice, he soon learns that while qalupaliit may be very scary, they are also easily tricked. The Qalupalik is a beautifully illustrated children's book based on the work of a celebrated contemporary Inuit storyteller.

Contributor Bio

Elisha Kilabuk is the youngest of 14 siblings born and raised in Iqaluit. He is a celebrated cultural performer and storyteller who learned traditional Inuit stories from his mother. Joy Ang is a freelance illustrator. She lives in Edmonton, Alberta.

Arctic Giants

Neil Christopher, Eva Widermann

Summary

In ancient times, giants ruled the Arctic. For hundreds of years, Inuit stories of these creatures have been carried down from generation to generation, whispered in the night. Arctic Giants is the only full-length volume to chronicle the legends of these giants of the North. Based on Inuit oral tradition and extensive, meticulous research, Arctic Giants unsparingly tells each horrifying legend. Written in the vein of the Brothers Grimm and illustrated in an evocative, gothic style, this book is bound to become part of Canada's fairy-tale canon.

Contributor Bio

Neil Christopher moved to Resolute Bay, Nunavut, and worked as a high school science teacher. He currently works as an editor for Inhabit Media Inc. Eva Widermann is a freelance illustrator and concept artist whose work has been published in a wide variety of books, magazines, and games. Take a Winter Nature Walk

Jane Kirkland

Summary

Packed with fun and interesting sidebars, color photographs, and artwork by other kids, this award-winning series is as useful in the classroom as it is fun to readers. Designed to educate, entertain, and help create environmental stewards for our planet, the format presents science in a way that helps teachers address both national and state science and literacy standards. Topics are presented in convenient spreads that enable readers to flip throughout the books, and they provide definitions, resources, poetry, and quotes by celebrated people. The entire series is recommended by the National Science Teachers Association.

Examining what happens to the environment during the winter season, this take-along guide helps children observe and understand the habits of the wildlife in their locale. They will discover how various plants and animals adapt to survive, where the insects, reptiles, and amphibians retreat to, and when they might expect to see them again. Differences between cryptic coloration and camouflage as well as hibernation and torpor are identified and explored, along with...

Arctic Animals

Summary

A simple primer on animal names and image recognition that displays each animal in its natural surroundings

This book introduces babies to eight common animals of the Arctic land, sea, and air. With images that show each animal in its environment and against a single-color, high-contrast background, this book helps babies easily identify each animal covered. Text appears in English and Inuktitut syllabics and Roman orthography, meaning that even non-Inuktitut speakers can sound out the Inuktitut names for each animal.

A Children's Guide to Arctic Birds

Mia Pelletier, Danny Christopher

Summary

A children's introduction to the avians of the Arctic

With a simple layout and easy-to-follow format, this beautiful book introduces young readers to a dozen birds that call the Arctic home. From the Long-tailed Duck and the Red-throated Loon to the Snowy Owl and the Rock Ptarmigan, this picture book features migratory birds as well as those that live in the Arctic year-round and is filled with fun, useful facts, including where to look for eggs and nests during the short Arctic summer and how to recognize each bird's call. Northern-specific elements, such as Inuktitut names for various birds and migratory patterns told from an Arctic perspective, are also included.

Contributor Bio

Mia Pelletier grew up exploring the lakes and forests of the Canadian Shield. Drawn to shorelines and wild places, Mia studied ecology and lived in California and the Magdalen Islands before moving to Baffin Island, Nunavut, in 2010. In Nunavut, she works with Arctic seabirds and with Inuit on the co-management of protected areas. Ice Captain
The Life of J.R. Stenhouse
 Stephen Haddelsey

Summary

The gripping story of J.R. Stenhouse, whose ship, the Aurora, was supposed to give support to Shackleton during his Antarctic expedition—but instead found itself caught in an ice floe and drifting out to sea

As Shackleton watched his ship Endurance become trapped in the ice floes of the Weddell Sea, on the other side of Antarctica the expedition's second ship, Aurora, suffered an equally terrifying fate. Under the command of J.R. Stenhouse, the Aurora was torn from her moorings and driven out to sea, becoming trapped in pack ice. For 10 months the ice sawed at her hull, until, with her rudder smashed and water cascading from her seams, she broke free and embarked upon her own extraordinary voyage to safe harbor. In Ice Captain, Stephen Haddelsey reveals both the story of Stenhouse's achievements aboard the Aurora, but also his many adventures in later life, from serving as a U-boat hunter in WWI, to digging for pirate gold, and commanding Scott's Discovery. A captivating book about a fascinating man.

Everest
Reflections From The Top
 Christine Gee, Garry Gee, Margaret Weare, Doug Sco...

Summary

The best climbers in the world offer reflections on reaching the summit of Everest in this pocket-sized inspirational book

On May 29, 1953, Edmund Hillary and Tenzing Norgay were the first ever to set foot on the highest point on earth: the summit of Everest. It was a magical moment. Since then many men and women have striven to reach the top of this awesome mountain, which can be at once beautiful and mystical, unpredictable and highly dangerous, never straightforward and always incredibly tough. In this remarkable book, mountaineers from around the world tell what motivated them to make their own summit bids. They highlight how it felt to reach the top and the impact it made on them, ranging from practical comments to spiritual reflections to philosophical statements on the future of our planet. Contributors include such climbers as: Chris Bonington, Alan Hinkes, Eric Simonson, Reinhold Messner, Jamling Tenzing Norgay, Bear Grylls, Greg Mortimer, Junko Tabei, Peter Hillary, Doug Scott and Stephen Venables.

A Short History of Polar Exploration

Nick Rennison

Summary

An absorbing history, bringing explorers' tales vividly to life

Apsley Cherry-Garrard, one of the men who went to Antarctica with Captain Scott, said "Polar exploration is at once the cleanest and most isolated way of having a bad time that has ever been devised." Yet there has never been a shortage of volunteers willing to endure the bad times in pursuit of the glory that polar exploration sometimes brings. This compelling book tells the memorable stories of the men and women who have risked their lives by entering the white wastelands of the Arctic and the Antarctic, from the compelling tales of Scott, Shackleton, and Amundsen, to lesser known heroes such as Fridtjof Nansen and Robert Peary. This history also looks at the hold that the polar regions have often had on the imaginations of artists and writers in the last 200 years examining the paintings, films, and literature that they have inspired.

Living the Life

Tales From America's Mountains & Ski Towns

David J. Rothman

Summary

Featuring 38 true-life stories of adventure and self-discovery, adrenaline, and honesty, a former professional NCAA downhill competitor reveals the soul skier's raison d'être: finding exhilaration, faith, grief, love, and everything that truly matters amid the gloriously tangible, tactile, break-your-leg-if-you're-not-careful rocks, trees, and gullies of the alpine world. These essays, collected from numerous glossy ski and lifestyle journals, including Powder, Couloir, and Telemark Skier, celebrate the land of winter and the author's roles as mountaineer, ski racer, father, and all-around life enthusiast. His stories will appeal to anyone who has ever hit the slopes and felt the adrenaline rush of perching atop a steep precipice, knowing that skiing is the physical, emotional, and spiritual place where deep truths are explored and the graceful interaction of body and terrain answers back.

Birdie Bowers

Captain Scott's Marvel

Anne Strathie

Summary

Now in paperback, the story of Birdie Bowers—one of the four men who reached the South Pole with Captain Scott—and his indefatigable spirit

Described by Captain Scott as "a marvel" and "indomitable to the last," Henry "Birdie" Bowers (1883–1912) realized his life's ambition when he was selected for Scott's Terra Nova Expedition to the Antarctic, yet he was only asked to join the team that would actually reach the South Pole at the last moment. He died on the return journey, caught in a blizzard with Scott and Edward Wilson. Born to a seafaring father and adventurous mother on the Firth of Clyde, Bowers' boyhood obsession with travel and adventure took him round the world several times and his life appears, in hindsight, to have been a ceaseless preparation for his ultimate Antarctic challenge. Only 5'4", he was nevertheless a bundle of energy: knowledgeable, determined, and the ultimate team player. This new biography, drawing on Bowers' letters and journals and previously neglected material, sheds new light on his achievements and tells the full story of the hardy naval officer who ...

Pole to Pole

One Man, 20 Million Steps

Pat Farmer

Summary

The incredible story of Pat Farmer's inspiring run from the North Pole to the South Pole

In January 2012, Pat Farmer accomplished one of the greatest feats in human history. He'd arrived at the South Pole after the longest and arguably most dangerous run ever made, a physical and mental triumph that put him in the company of the world's greatest adventurers—Sir Edmund Hillary, Robert Falcon Scott, and Thor Heyerdahl. Pat Farmer's Pole to Pole Run, dedicated to raising funds for the Red Cross, began at the North Pole in April 2011 and took him through Canada, the United States, Central America, and South America to his ultimate destination in the Antarctic, the South Pole. In total, Farmer had covered more than 13,000 miles. He ran an incredible average of 52.8 miles every day, and some days up to 62 miles or more. The epic trek saw Pat brave blizzards; nearly lose his life when he became lost in the blazing deserts of Peru; and evade polar bears, snakes, crocodiles, armed bandits, and rogue militias. He defied unimaginable pain, suffered dehydration and stress injuries, and destroyed ...

Pat Farmer's passion for ultra-marathon running began in the late 1970s. He set a number of ultra-marathon Australian and World records, and before becoming a politician in 2001, he raised over $3 million for charity.

The Last Expedition

R. F. Scott, Ranulph Fiennes

Summary

Includes the British Antarctic track chart and Ponting's glass plate negatives of the photographs that he took while on the British Antarctic Expedition, 1910-13

Captain Scott's gripping account of his expedition to the South Pole in 1910-12 tell of a journey that was meant to be a voyage of scientific discovery and a heroic exploration of the last unconquered wilderness. Scott's expedition, carried in the Terra Nova, pitted him and his team not only against the elements but also against the Norwegian explorer Amundsen. Ultimately, Scott was beaten by both. The journals are full of incident and drama, courage and endurance, hope and bitter disappointment. These journals were found, along with Scott's body, several months after his death and just 11 miles from base camp and safety.

Mawson

And the Ice Men of the Heroic Age: Scott, Shackleton and Amundsen

Peter FitzSimons

Summary

Now available in paperback, the incredible story of Australia's most famous polar explorer and the giants from the heroic age of polar exploration

Douglas Mawson, born in 1882 and knighted in 1914, was Australia's greatest Antarctic explorer. This is the incredible account of an expedition he led on December 2, 1911, from Hobart, to explore the virgin frozen coastline below, 2000 miles of which had never felt the tread of a human foot. After setting up Main Base at Cape Denison and Western Base on Queen Mary Land, he headed east on an extraordinary sledging trek with his companions, Belgrave Ninnis and Dr Xavier Mertz. After five weeks, tragedy struck—Ninnis was swallowed whole by a snow-covered crevasse, and Mawson and Mertz realized it was too dangerous to go on. Dwindling supplies forced them to kill their dogs to feed the other dogs, at first, and then themselves. Hunger, sickness, and despair eventually got the better of Ninnis, and he succumbed to madness and then to death. Mawson found himself all alone, 160 miles from safety, with next to no food. This staggering tale of his...

The Snowy Tower

Belinda Murrell

Summary

The adventure is far from over as Ethan, Lily, Saxon, and Roana ride for the snowy mountains to rescue a prince—and save the kingdom

Even with the Sun Gem and the Moon Pearl safely sewn into the hem of Roana's cloak, the quest is far from over. Lord Lazlac is planning to marry Queen Ashana to secure his rule of Tiregian, and the queen cannot escape or rebel against him—not when her young son, Caspar, is being held captive by Sedah priests in the snow-covered mountains to the north. It is up to Ethan, Lily, Saxon, and Roana to travel deep into the mountains to find Roana's brother before it is too late. But have they forgotten about the uncanny tracking abilities of the persistent Sniffer, who would stop at nothing to find his prey?

Scott's Last Expedition: The Journals of Robert Scott

Robert Scott, David Horovitch

Summary

A fascinating, intimate look at a legendary expedition

Robert Scott's final journey to the South Pole has been called one of history's greatest tales of adventure, and in his journals this extraordinary mission is recorded in vivid detail; readers are carried with Scott and his companions until the final entry on March 29th, 1912. Scott's writing is a harrowing narration of an expedition filled with drama and cruel disappointment. In his conversational entries there is fascinating insight into the character of an icon of courage and adventure. Abridged.

Call of the White

Taking the World to the South Pole

Felicity Aston

Summary

An inspirational account of eight women on one very unique expedition

Felicity Aston challenged women in many countries, asking if they could ski to the South Pole, as she set out to create the most international all-female expedition ever to the Pole. The team would not be experienced explorers but "ordinary" women who want to inspire others to follow their dreams. She received more than 800 applications and led a team from places as diverse as Jamaica, India, Singapore, and Cyprus—some of whom had never even seen snow or spent the night in a tent before joining the expedition—on one of the toughest journeys on the planet. Eighty-mile-an-hour winds ripped through base camp, frostbite and injuries were an everyday occurrence, and deadly crevasses cracked beneath their feet. This is their story of newfound strength, persistence, and friendships.

Contributor Bio

Felicity Aston is an expedition leader, public speaker, and freelance travel writer. Her past achievements include leading the first British women's team across Greenland, completing the infamous Marathon Des Sables across the Sahara, as well as working as a meteorologist in the Antarctic for three years.

Captain Scott's Invaluable Assistant Edgar Evans

Isobel Williams

Summary

The first biography of one of the lower-deck members of Scott's fatal Antarctic expedition

Edgar Evans was described by Robert Falcon Scott as "a giant worker . . . an invaluable assistant." He explored more miles of Antarctica than any other member of the Terra Nova Expedition, but his contribution has been largely overlooked because of the implication that, as he was the first to die, he slowed up the progress of the return journey. This biography corrects this false impression, as well as redresses the balance of the attention paid to the upper- and lower-deck members of the expedition. Having joined the Royal Navy as a boy sailor at the age of 15, Evans rose rapidly to the rank of chief petty officer, serving with a young Scott on board HMS Majestic along the way. He took part in the Discovery Expedition of 1901–04, and was awarded the Polar Medal on Scott's recommendation.

Snow, Sleds and Silence

The Story of the Nordkapp Expedition

Rona Cant

Summary

A Norwegian ex-Special Forces dogsled racer, a British round-the-world yachtswoman, and a South African mountaineer set off on an "impossible" mission to the northernmost tip of Europe. This motivational account describes a 373-mile dogsledding journey that encapsulates the magic, tedium, and sheer endurance of working in unfamiliar terrain. Recounting the harshness of the climate, the beauty of being far from the civilized world, the trust that must be earned of the dogs, and the realities of working on a daily basis with an ancient mode of transport, this is a story of triumph over disaster and of three different cultures working as one.

With Scott in the Antarctic

Edward Wilson: Explorer, Naturalist, Artist

Isobel Williams, Michael Stroud

Summary

The first full biography of the Antarctic hero who accompanied Robert Falcon Scott on his celebrated expeditions

This first full account of the last exploration artist traces his life from childhood to his tragic death. Edward Wilson (1872–1912) accompanied Scott on both the Discovery Expedition of 1901–1904 and the Terra Nova Expedition of 1910–1913. Wilson served as junior surgeon and zoologist on Discovery and, on this expedition, with Scott and Ernest Shackleton he set a new Furthest South on December 30, 1902. He was chief of scientific staff on the Terra Nova Expedition and reached the South Pole with Scott, Lawrence Oates, Henry Robertson Bowers, and Edgar Evans on January 18, 1912, arriving there four weeks after the Norwegian explorer Roald Amundsen. Wilson and his four companions died on the return journey. Trained as a physician, Wilson was also a skilled artist. His drawings and paintings lavishly illustrated both expeditions. He was the last major exploration artist; technological developments in the field of photography were soon to make cameras practical as a way of re...

True North
Travels in Arctic Europe
 Gavin Francis

Summary

The stark, vast beauty of the remote Arctic Europe landscape has been the focus of human exploration for thousands of years. In this striking blend of travel writing, history and mythology, Gavin Francis offers a unique portrait of the northern fringes of Europe. His journey begins in the Shetland Isles, takes him to the Faroes, Iceland, Greenland, Svalbard and on to Lapland. Following in the footsteps of the region's early pioneers, Francis observes how the region has adapted to the 21st century, giving an observed insight into the lives of people he encounters along the way. As with all the best travel writing, True North is an engaging, compassionate tale of self-discovery, whilst blending historical and contemporary narratives in the tradition of Bruce Chatwin and Robert Macfarlane.

Contributor Bio

Gavin Francis was born in Fife and currently lives in Edinburgh. His interest in history and travel has seen him pass through Europe, India, Africa and South America as well as spending a year on a remote base in Antarctica. His latest travel plan is to travel by motorbike from Edinburgh to New Zealand with his wife.

Tomaž Humar
 Bernadette McDonald

Summary

In August, 2005, Tomaž Humar was trapped on a narrow ledge at 19,000 feet on the formidable Rupal Face of Nanga Parbat. He had been attempting a new route, directly up the middle of the highest mountain face in the world—solo. After six days he was out of food, almost out of fuel, and frequently buried by avalanches. Three helicopters were poised for a brief break in the weather to pluck him off the mountain. Because of the audacity of the climb, the fame of the climber, the high risk associated with the rescue, and the hourly reports posted on his base-camp website, the world was watching. Would this be the most spectacular rescue in climbing history? Or a tragic—and very public—death in the mountains? Years before, as communism was collapsing and the Balkans slid into chaos, Humar was unceremoniously conscripted into a dirty war that he despised, where he observed brutal and inhumane atrocities that disgusted him. Finally he did the unthinkable: he left and eventually arrived home in what had become a new country—Slovenia. He returned to climbing, and within very few years, he was ...

Last Place On Earth

Scott and Amundsen: Their Race to the South Pole

Roland Huntford, Tim Pigott-Smith

Summary

This acclaimed dual biography charts both British Robert Scott's and Norwegian Roald Amundsen's race to the South Pole during 1911–12. Bizarrely, Scott died in his quest and became a tragic hero, whereas Amundsen, the victor, was largely forgotten. Reassessing the two explorers and their methods of exploration, the book examines the driving ambitions of the era, recounts the race in detail, and explores the flaws of and differences between the two men. Tim Pigott-Smith evokes all the power and pathos of this enduringly fascinating slice of history.

With Scott in the Antarctic

Edward Wilson: Explorer, Naturalist, Artist

Isobel Williams

Summary

Edward Wilson (1872–1912) was Junior Surgeon and Vertebrate Zoologist on the British Antarctic Expedition of 1901–1904 and Chief of Scientific Staff on Captain Scott's last ill-fated Antarctic expedition of 1910–1912. The only officer with Scott, he formed a close and influential partnership with him and became his loyal confidant. He was part of the Southern Party with Shackleton and Scott on the 1901 expedition; they reached the furthest point south, and Scott named the Cape after Wilson.

Contributor Bio

Isobel Williams qualified as a doctor in St. Georges Hospital Medical School London, where Edward Wilson had trained 65 years earlier. She is a former consultant in respiratory medicine at the National Health Service.

The Ambitions of Jane Franklin

Victorian Lady Adventurer

Alison Alexander

Summary

Winner of the 2014 National Biography Award in Australia. In a period when most ladies sat at home with their embroidery, Jane Franklin achieved fame throughout the western world, and was probably the best traveled woman of her day. Alison Alexander traces the life of this inimitable woman, from her birth in late 18th-century London, her marriage to Sir John Franklin, the famous Arctic explorer, and her many trips to far-flung locations. Arriving in Tasmania in 1837 when Sir John became governor, she swept like a whirlwind through the colony: attempting to rid the island of snakes, establishing a scientific society, adopting an Aboriginal girl, and sending a kangaroo to Queen Victoria. When her husband disappeared in the Arctic on an expedition to discover the Northwest Passage, she single-handedly turned him from a failure into one of England's noblest heroes. She continued traveling well into her 70s and died at age 84, refusing to take her medicine to the last.

Contributor Bio

Alison Alexander is a historian and the author of Tasmania's Convicts.

Going Up Is Easy

The First Woman to Ascend Everest Without Oxygen

Laurence Fearnley, Lydia Bradey

Summary

In 1988, Lydia Bradey became the first woman to climb Mount Everest without supplementary oxygen. She made the ascent alone and to date she is the only New Zealander to have made an oxygen-free ascent. Her climb was a truly remarkable achievement but also an internationally controversial one. Going Up Is Easy details for the first time the events surrounding Bradey's historic feat, as well as her many hair-raising expeditions through Alaska, Bhutan, Nepal, Pakistan, India, China, Europe, and New Zealand. In the spirit of John Krakauer's Into Thin Air or Joe Simpson's Touching the Void, this book celebrates a life lived on the edge. Through her stories, we encounter a woman propelled by curiosity and passion to become one of the greatest female high-altitude adventurers of recent times. Co-written with acclaimed novelist Laurence Fearnley, a long-time friend of Bradey, and stunningly illustrated throughout, Going Up Is Easy is a life story by turns dramatic, tender, funny, frank and inspiring.

Contributor Bio

Lydia Bradey is one of Australasia's foremost high-altitude mountaineers. She made her first ascent of Aoraki/Mount Cook while still a teenager. She then traveled to Alaska, Nepal, Bhutan and Pakistan, where, in 1987, she became the first Australasian woman to climb an 8000-meter peak. In 1988, she made a historic ascent of Mount Everest, becoming the first woman to reach the summit without supplementary oxygen. Employed as a professional mountain guide, she has made two further ascents of Everest as well as climbed and guided extensively throughout Nepal, Pakistan, Antarctica, South America, Africa and Europe. Laurence Fearnley is the author of The Hut Builder.

Moonwalker
Adventures of a Midnight Mountaineer
 Alan Rowan

Summary

When Alan Rowan finished his shifts as a sub-editor at a national newspaper at midnight, he knew he was too jacked up on deadline adrenaline to attempt sleep. At the same time, he was starting to worry if he would ever complete his ambition: to reach the summit of every "Munro" in Scotland—those peaks of over 3000 feet. One crazy night, he decided upon a single solution to both problems. He would begin his ascents in the middle of the night, see the sun rise above the clouds and then come down the mountain just as everyone else was going up, before arriving home to have breakfast with his unsuspecting family. Moonwalker is part guide to the magnificent Munros of Scotland, part memoir, part comedy, part adventure yarn, part tragedy. We see Alan's transformation from desk jockey to midnight mountaineer, meet dodgy car salesmen, rabid sheepdogs, charging deer, superstitious Germans and crooked confectioners—all the while seeing the best of Scotland in a unique light.

Contributor Bio

Alan Rowan has been a journalist for more than 30 years and a mountaineer for almost as long. He writes a nationally syndicated column in the UK as Moonwalker and lectures on journalism.

Grandma Gatewood's Walk
The Inspiring Story of the Woman Who Saved the Appalachian Trail
 Ben Montgomery

Summary

Emma Gatewood told her family she was going on a walk and left her small Ohio hometown with a change of clothes and less than two hundred dollars. The next anybody heard from her, this genteel, farm-reared, sixty-seven-year-old great-grandmother had walked 800 miles along the 2,050-mile Appalachian Trail. By September 1955 she stood atop Maine's Mount Katahdin, sang "America, the Beautiful," and proclaimed, "I said I'll do it, and I've done it." Driven by a painful marriage, Grandma Gatewood not only hiked the trail alone, she was the first person—man or woman—to walk it twice and three times. At age seventy-one, she hiked the 2,000-mile Oregon Trail. Gatewood became a hiking celebrity, and appeared on TV with Groucho Marx and Art Linkletter. The public attention she brought to the trail was unprecedented. Her vocal criticism of the lousy, difficult stretches led to bolstered maintenance, and very likely saved the trail from extinction. Author Ben Montgomery interviewed surviving family members and hikers Gatewood met along the trail, unearthed historic newspaper...

High Altitude

Mountaineer, Airline Pilot, Modern-day Adventurer

Mike Allsop

Summary

Mountaineer, pilot, ultra runner, and ordinary guy, Mike Allsop is an adventurer of the truest kind

Most people who survived an almost unsurvivable plane crash would be tempted to sit back, take a good hard look at life, and take things a little bit easier. Mike Allsop is not most people. Almost losing his life in a Twin Otter crash off the coast of Hawaii awakened Mike's zest for life and his thirst for adventure. Mountaineering became Mike's passion and climbing led to him almost getting shot in Russia, narrowly missing a fatal avalanche in Peru, returning a replica of a stolen Yeti hand to a Nepalese monastery, and then attempting the biggest climb of them all—Everest. Not content with being an exceptional climber, Mike then decided to take up running. But he was never going to be a weekend jogger, he soon cooked up plans to run seven marathons, in seven continents, in seven days—The 777 Project—and also to run the world's highest marathon on the slopes of Mt. Everest.

Eating Appalachia

Rediscovering Regional American Flavors

Darrin Nordahl

Summary

Dozens of indigenous fruits, vegetables, nuts, and game animals are waiting to be rediscovered by American epicures, and Appalachia stocks the largest pantry with an abundance of delectable flavors. In Eating Appalachia, Darrin Nordahl looks at the unique foods that are native to the region, including pawpaws, ramps, hickory nuts, American persimmons, and elk, and offers delicious and award-winning recipes for each ingredient, along with sumptuous color photographs. The twenty-three recipes include: Pawpaw Panna Cotta, Pawpaw Whiskey Sour, Chianti-Braised Elk Stew, Pan-Fried Squirrel with Squirrel Gravy, Ramp Linguine, and Wild Ginger Poached Pears, among others. Nordahl also examines some of the business, governmental, and ecological issues that keep these wild, and arguably tastier, foods from reaching our tables.

Eating Appalachia profiles local chefs, hunters, and locavores who champion these native ingredients and describes food festivals—like the Pawpaw Festival in Albany, Ohio; the Feast of the Ramson in Richwood, West Virginia; and Elk Night at Jenny Wiley State Park in Presto...

Touch the Sky

Tess Burrows

Summary

The peace activist and founder of Climb for Tibet attempts a peace climb to the top of Kilimanjaro

For Tess Burrows climbing to the Roof of Africa was to be the final step to fulfill her dream. This gutsy and compassionate grandmother has spent more than a decade pushing herself to incredible limits. She has climbed the world's highest summits and trekked to both the North and South Poles to call out the thousands of peace messages she's collected from every nation on earth. On this latest journey, share in Tess's experiences of the vibrancy and colors of Africa and its people. Be with her on the profound challenges of the climb. A climb where as a metaphor for people to pull together, she attempts to pull a tire packed with peace messages up the famed summit of Africa's highest mountain, Kilimanjaro. Is passion alone enough to make something happen?

Contributor Bio

Tess Burrows is the author of Cold Hands, Warm Heart and Cry From the Highest Mountain. A peace activist, she set up the charity Climb for Tibet to raise money for schooling in Tibet.

Shipton & Tilman

The Great Decade of Himalayan Exploration

Jim Perrin

Summary

Making use of unpublished diaries, journals, and extensive correspondence, the extraordinary story of two British mountaineers who single-handedly mapped out much of the Himalayas—including Everest—and the mountains of Africa

In the 1930s, Tilman and the younger Shipton pioneered many routes in Africa and the Himalayas and found the key to unlocking Everest. They crossed Africa by bicycle, explored China with Spender and Auden, journeyed down the Oxus River to its source and, with no support, opened up much of the Nepalese Himalaya. In the words of Jim Perrin, "The journeys of discovery undertaken through two decades by this pair of venturesome ragamuffins are unparalleled in the annals of mountain exploration." This is a fresh and original portrait of one of the greatest exploring partnerships in history, and of the quirky, humorous friendship that underpinned it.

Contributor Bio

Jim Perrin is a travel writer and was one of the best British rock-climbers. He is a regular contributor to the Climber, the Daily Telegraph, the Great Outdoors, and the Guardian. His biography, Menlove, was the first outright winner of the Boardman Tasker Prize, for which all of his subsequent books have been shortlisted. His previous book, The Villain, was joint winner of the Boardman Tasker Prize and winner of the Mountain History Prize at the Banff festival.

Rocky Mountain Summer Blank Note Card Set

Michael Schafbuch

Summary

This set of 10 beautifully designed note cards depicts quintessential scenes that capture the look and feel of the Rocky Mountains during summer. The cards feature a grove of Aspen trees sheltering the shadowed outline of a black bear; a balloon race in progress in a colorful mountain valley; a raft bouncing down rapids in a warm mountain canyon; cyclists riding down dusty hills with mountain bikes and tour riders trekking up a steep mountain grade; a lone fly fisherman in a beautiful morning on the river. Each 4 x 6 card is blank on the inside, and the set includes a pair of each of the five designs.

A Passion for Mountains

Hannah Burrows-Smith, Iain Peter

Summary

A Passion for Mountains presents a compilation of stories written by members of the British Mountain Guides. Documenting both personal climbing and mountaineering adventures as well as those shared with clients, the stories in this book represent the diversity of the mountain activities these professionals thrive on: from first ascents on British winter cliffs to thought-provoking ascents of north faces in the European Alps, and from the big walls of Yosemite and Patagonia to endurance when facing the challenges of the high Himalaya. This fascinating account of mountaineering gives an insight into the climbing adventures that contribute to every Guide's experience, and explores the difficulties that even some of the world's most experienced mountaineers encounter when making decisions in the mountains. It gives us a unique perspective into what motivates and drives climbers; where they find fulfilment and reward, and at the same time how they deal with failure.

Contributor Bio

Hannah Burrows-Smith is a British Mountain Guide who has spent many years climbing and skiing in the Scottish Highlands and widely throughout Europe.

Mountain of the Dead

The Dyatlov Pass Incident

Keith McCloskey

Summary

The Dyatlov Pass incident resulted in nine unsolved, mysterious deaths; Keith McCloskey attempts to decipher the bizarre events that led up to that night and the subsequent aftermath

In January 1959, 10 experienced young skiers set out to travel to a mountain named Mount Otorten in the far north of Russia. Otorten translates to "don't go there" in the local Mansi language. During the trip, one of the skiers fell ill and returned. The remaining nine lost their way and ended up on another mountain slope known as Kholat Syakhl, or "Mountain of the Dead." On the night of February 1, 1959, something or someone caused the skiers to flee their tent in terror, using knives to slash their way out instead of using the entrance. When they failed to return home, search parties were sent out and their bodies were found, some with massive internal injuries but all without external marks. The autopsy report showed that the injuries were caused by "an unknown compelling force." Subsequently, the area was sealed off for years by the authorities and the deaths and events of that night remained unexplai...

Spenser and the Rocks

Lawrence F. Lowery

Summary

As he begins to discover the interesting rocks all around him, Spenser has many questions about what he finds. Given the differences in the rocks' colors, sizes, shapes, and textures, there is much to learn about rocks! But that's not all the curious child learns in this tale of discovery. Spenser's fascination grows as he sorts and re-sorts his rock collection and asks questions about what he observes. For Spenser—as well as young readers—the experience is an engaging introduction to scientific procedures such as classification and research. Spenser and the Rocks is part of the I Wonder Why book series, written to ignite the curiosity of children in grades K–6 while encouraging them to become avid readers. These books explore the marvels of geology, land forms, weather, environments, and other phenomena related to science and nature. Included in each volume is a Parent/Teacher Handbook with coordinating activities. The I Wonder Why series is written by an award-winning science educator and published by NSTA Kids, a division of NSTA Press.

Contributor Bio

Voices of the American West

Meredith Ogilby, Corinne Platt

Summary

"...A collection of narratives and photographs that begins a dialogue about the convergence of past, present and future in our region."—Vail Daily

This documentary-style collection of photographs and narratives profiles a wide range of prominent figures of the West as they engage in candid discussions about the region and its identity. A diverse group of visionary men and women, they may differ in politics but remain united in their belief that the West requires inspired action if it is going to endure challenges posed by political, cultural, and environmental pressures. Allowing those on each side of the issues to speak freely, this important work tackles such topics as education, recreation, immigration, ranching, alternative energy, wildlife habitat protection, oil and gas extraction, urban development, and water conservation. Exemplifying photography and journalism at its best, Voices of the American West provides a panoramic view of today's evolving West. The collection features Terry Tempest Williams, Stewart Udall, Katie Lee, Dave Foreman, and many others.

Himalayan Portfolios

Journeys of the Imagination

Kenneth Hanson, PhD

Summary

Dramatically immortalizing the breathtaking beauty and remote wilderness of one of the planet's last untamed frontiers, this intriguing photographic exploration of near inaccessible landscape and culture illuminates the starkly beautiful but often inhospitable Himalayan regions. Religiously documented over a 20-year period, these glorious, panoramic black-and-white images—including one breathtaking, 48-inch panorama—are the remarkable result of a dedicated and passionate fascination with the history and vistas of the Himalayas. Complemented by trekking maps of mountains, glaciers, and rivers—from the peaks of Kashmir, the Hidden Realm, and the Great Cleft of the Kali Gandaki to mighty Mount Everest in Tibet and Nepal—and accompanied by scholarly essays penned with scientific, geological, and spiritual analysis of the region, this stunning visual journey illustrates the Himalayas as an enduring emblem of man's ultimate challenge in nature.

Colorado's Best (2nd Edition) The Essential Guide to Favorite Places

Bruce Caughey, Doug Whitehead

Summary

Completely redesigned and updated, Colorado's Best is still the only guide visitors and residents of the state will need to find the best that Colorado has to offer. New to this edition are expert picks, where some of Colorado's most colorful characters will guide you to their favorite places: Eric Warner, Lead Dog (a.k.a. Brewmaster) for Flying Dog Brewery, signs off on his favorite microbrews, and world-class mountaineer Gerry Roach will let you in on the secret of his favorite Colorado climbs. This edition also contains expanded information for the Western Slope and southern Colorado

Contributor Bio

A fourth-generation Coloradan, Bruce Caughey has had a lifelong interest in the state. These days, he can be found hiking, fishing, skiing, and biking in the mountains of Colorado or spending time at his family's cabin near Deckers. Doug Whitehead is the writer and producer of the award-winning program Colorado Getaways, for KCNC-TV Channel 4 in Denver. Both he and co-author Bruce Caughey have two young daughters, the four of whom have helped their fathers explore, recreate, and rate many of the Colorado adventures in this book.

Colorado's Lost Creek Wilderness

Classic Summit Hikes

Gerry Roach

Summary

Now, in Colorado's Lost Creek Wilderness: Classic Summit Hikes, Gerry Roach, one of the world's most renowned mountaineers and an authority on Colorado's fourteeners, and Jennifer Roach, an expert on the Lost Creek Wilderness, provide outdoor enthusiasts with the first-ever hiking guide to this beautiful area. The hikes in this guide all lead to the summit of peaks, and the summit hikes vary in difficulty from short romps to all-day efforts. The highest summits in the Lost Creek Wilderness rise only a few hundred feet above treeline, but the summit plateaus are special places. You can hike for hours through tree-filled meadows that eventually burst upon a private universe far above roads and cities.

Contributor Bio

Gerry Roach started climbing in Colorado in 1955. Among his numerous accomplishments, Gerry is the second person ever to climb the highest peak on each of the seven continents. In more than 50 years of mountaineering, he has climbed in dozens of states and countries. Jennifer Roach is an expert on Colorado's mountains. She has climbed Colorado's 500 highest peaks and is close to finishing all of Colorado's thirteeners. She has climbed Colorado's mountains for 20 years and knows all about places most of us have never heard of.

Doubling Back

Ten Paths Trodden in Memory

Linda Cracknell

Summary

In 1952, Linda Cracknell's father embarked on a hike through the Swiss Alps. It was the last walk he would ever take. Linda retraces that fateful journey 50 years later, following the trail of the man she barely knew. This collection of walking tales take their theme from that pilgrimage. The walks trace the contours of memories, following friends, writers, and relations along trails across mountains, valleys, and coasts from the Highlands of Scotland to Kenya. Each walk is about the reaffirming of memories, beliefs, and emotions, and especially of the connection that one can have with the past. This book celebrates life, family, friendship, and walking through mountain landscapes richly textured with stories. A masterwork of travel writing in the vein of Robert Macfarlane and Roger Deakin, this lyrical, poignant book contains stunning landscape descriptions.

Contributor Bio

Linda Cracknell was shortlisted for the Scottish First Book Award for her story collection Life Drawing and the Robin Jenkins Literary Award for environmental writing.

The Art of Skiing

Vintage Posters from the Golden Age of Winter Sport

Jenny de Gex

Summary

From the 19th to 20th century, skiing underwent great changes as it rose in popularity—as did the advertisements and art of the sport, which have since become collectors' items

Immigrant Scandinavian gold miners chasing the Gold Rush mid-19th century introduced skiing to the United States. By the turn of the 20th century, skiing had emerged from its utilitarian origins to become a fashionable sport in both Europe and North America, and a wave of new, stylish resorts emerged. By the 1930s, skiing was by far the most popular winter pastime for the rich and famous—combining adventure, fashion, and exclusivity. The graphic art of the posters advertising this burgeoning sport have become collectors' items. The Art of Skiing is a beautiful collection of the finest examples of poster art. Organized by country and resort, it uses posters from the Beekley Collection—the largest private collection of ski art in the world—to reflect the changing trends in skiing fashion and technique, and investigates the most popular resorts, their establishment, and their development.

Contributor Bio

Jenny De Gex has brought her expertise as a visual interpreter to more than 100 books, on subjects from 17th century food to modern travel and interior design.

High Altitude

Mountaineer, Airline Pilot, Modern-day Adventurer

Mike Allsop

Summary

Mountaineer, pilot, ultra runner, and ordinary guy, Mike Allsop is an adventurer of the truest kind

Most people who survived an almost unsurviveable plane crash would be tempted to sit back, take a good hard look at life, and take things a little bit easier. Mike Allsop is not most people. Almost losing his life in a Twin Otter crash off the coast of Hawai'i awakened Mike's zest for life and his thirst for adventure. Mountaineering became Mike's passion and climbing led to him almost getting shot in Russia, narrowly missing a fatal avalanche in Peru, returning a replica of a stolen Yeti hand to a Nepalese monastery, and then attempting the biggest climb of them all—Everest. Not content with being an exceptional climber, Mike decided to take up running. Before long he was attempting to run the world's highest marathon on the slopes of Mt. Everest. Then an even bigger challenge—seven marathons, in seven continents, in seven days. He's currently planning his next big adventure – a journey to the North Pole. Whatever happens, one thing's for sure—he won't be sitting on the couch wondering...

Running to Extremes

Lisa Tamati

Summary

Lisa Tamati takes on some of the world's most extreme ultraraces in an inspiring look at the reality of a long-distance runner

Lisa Tamati gets asked one question more than any other: why do you do it? Here she attempts to answer that question and many more about ultramarathon running. In the past few years, Lisa has taken part in some of the most grueling races on earth. Not content with having run the Badwater Ultramarathon once, she's been back and done it a second time. She's also completed the Gobi March and a race in the Egyptian Sahara. However, none of these could have prepared her for her greatest challenge to date—La Ultra, a 138-mile, nonstop race over the two Himalayan mountain passes. This book tells the stories behind these races and provides plenty of advice for runners of all levels and distances. Filled with training tips, gear lists, information on nutrition and supplements, advice on mental preparation and, most importantly, a focus on how to keep healthy while training and racing, it will inspire and motivate runners and nonrunners alike.

Contributor Bio

Lisa Tamati is the author of Running Hot. She has completed most of the world's toughest endurance races.

Trail and Mountain Running

Sarah Rowell, Wendy Dodds

Summary

Trail and Mountain Running is a practical guide for runners designed to help those who are already running off road and wanting to improve their performance, to try longer or rougher terrain with confidence, and those who simply want to venture from roads onto trails and mountain paths for the first time. Divided into three sections, the book covers training fundamentals—giving you all the knowledge you need to run off road in terms of training program, looking after your body, kit, and equipment and staying safe in the environment; racing—providing more detailed advice about what to do pre, during and post race to maximize performance; and optimizing performance—more advanced information on training and racing, and supplementary areas such as altitude training, which can help performance. Throughout the book advice is given relative to four "typical races" of different lengths and terrain; all of which is interspersed by real life anecdotes and stories from the authors.

Contributor Bio

Sarah Rowell is an Olympic marathoner turned off-road runner who has enjoyed international success on the mountains and trails. She now spends time helping others to do the same.

Adventure Grossglockner High Alpine Road

Herbert Gschwendtner

Summary

According to travel writers, nature-lovers and globetrotters, this is one of the most magnificent panoramic roads worldwide – the 30-mile road that winds its way over the Hohe Tauern mountain range. This challenging route, where in bygone times traders and smugglers risked their lives, is now frequented by tourists, bikers, mountaineers and glaciologists. Many people don't realise that what a world of adventure lies on either side of the Grossglockner High Alpine Road, from which all the most splendid areas of the Hohe Tauern National Park are accessible. Herbert Gschwendtner shows us around, describing hiking trails, flora and fauna against the spectacular backdrop of the Grossglockner mountain and the Pasterze glacier.

Contributor Bio

Herbert Gschwendtner, born 1948 in Schwarzach, Austria, comes from a mining family; he spent his childhood in Mühlbach am Hochkönig. Following his apprenticeship as painter and decorator, he went travelling and tried out various occupations. After an operation, he endeavored to overcome cancer by writing poems and short stories.

Colorado's Fourteeners, 3rd Ed. (3rd Edition)

From Hikes to Climbs

Gerry Roach

Summary

A classic guidebook known for its accuracy and comprehensiveness, Colorado's Fourteeners has been updated to include GPS coordinates, revised topographic maps, expanded route details, and new descriptions reflecting alterations to trail access. Besides the often-climbed standard routes, the guide describes many alternative and technical routes.

Contributor Bio

In more than 50 years of mountaineering, Gerry Roach has climbed in dozens of states and countries, including 12 Alaskan expeditions, 10 Andean expeditions, and 7 Himalayan expeditions. After climbing Mt. Everest, he became the second person to climb the highest peak on each of the seven continents. Closer to home, Roach has climbed more than 1,200 named peaks in Colorado, including all the fourteeners, which he completed for the first time in 1975. Roach lives in Boulder, Colorado, with his wife and climbing partner, Jennifer Roach.

Great Road Rides Denver

Jay P.K. Kenney

Summary

Metro Denver is one of the great road-biking areas in America. This guide shows riders how to link the best streets and bike lanes with dedicated trails to create truly interesting rides that take you along rivers and creeks, through the best park system in the country, and to the foothills where the plains meet the Rockies.

Jay P. K. Kenney is an avid outdoorsman and road biker who thought, during the gas crisis of 2008, that it seemed crazy to drive someplace to ride when Denver offers numerous possibilities to the curious cyclist.

Contributor Bio

Jay P. K. Kennedy is a lawyer and an avid outdoorsman and road biker. Among other pursuits, he has worked as a private investigator, a public defender, and a Colorado Supreme Court prosecutor of lawyers. He is also a kayaking guide, telemark skiing instructor, and a cartographer. He lives in Denver.
