SAKMANN

Founded in 2001, Sakmann Golf's owner Chuck Sakmann has a long career in the golf apparel business.

Starting in the late 1970's Chuck worked as a sales executive for the legendary Ernie Sabayrac, the man who introduced the Izod Lacoste brand to American golf and tennis pro shop. During the 1980's and 90's Chuck ran two of Golf's biggest apparel businesses—Izod Club Golf and Tennis and Tommy Hilfiger Golf.

Staying close to the game has always been important in designing the most compelling product and Chuck has outfitted some of the games most accomplished players, including Tom Watson, Payne Stewart, Nancy Lopez, Julie Inkster, Betsy King, David Toms, and David Duval.

Sensing an opportunity 16 years ago for upscale outerwear, he launched the Bob Timberlake collection of rustic, outdoor apparel which eventually was sold to Bass pro shops. As the golf market evolved with the use of more technical fabrics, the company created the Sakmann blue label collection of performance knits.

New this year, we are expanding our selection of classic knits, sweaters and outerwear to include enhanced embroidery designs, appliqués and custom labeling and packaging for in stock and corporate and club events.
