Course Description:

Philosophy 151 is an introductory survey course designed to expose students to the teachings and traditions of a wide variety of faiths. These include, but are not limited to Islam, Christianity, Judaism, Buddhism, Taoism, Hindu traditions, indigenous religious practices, and emerging faiths. In addition to foundational information about each tradition, we will be focusing on a number of themes: defining “religion”, theory vs. practice, moral codes, gender roles, asceticism, science and religion, and contemporary issues related to religious expression. The eclectic and ecumenical approach we will be using, combining anthropological, philosophical, and sociological perspectives, should allow us to investigate all of these issues in some depth. Students will have the opportunity to explore their own cosmologies and cosmogonies in any way they feel to be appropriate. The goal of the course is not to discredit or judge any belief system, but rather to provide an understanding of each in context.

The two philosophical ideas below are also VERY important in terms of how you approach this course.

World religion is a VERY broad area

This is an introductory course in world religions, so we will only be scratching the surface of some of the major, enduring traditions around the world as well as some that are perhaps less well known. Because the scope of the course is VERY broad, I will be using ideas from a number of academic fields to help clarify the discussion on particular traditions and their unique features. Some weeks, our discussions might seem more sociological; other weeks, the themes might have a more historical or anthropological tone. Just be prepared for this kind of approach.

Religious studies is NOT theology

One of the key distinctions I like to make at the start of the course is the difference between the fields of religious studies and theology. In a nutshell, a religious studies perspective attempts to look at all religious systems as being internally cohesive and viable; they work for the participants in a given tradition regardless of how that tradition appears to outsiders. An individual outside a tradition could take the position that some belief systems seem to have more easily verified components, but that does not invalidate a particular belief or viewpoint. We will try to look at all traditions with an equal amount of skepticism and acceptance.

The religious studies viewpoint is not about “proving” or “disproving” any particular perspective on divinity, morality, or human nature. It is focused on the similarities or universals amongst traditions in terms of common metaphors, orientations, rituals, symbols, or other facets of religious experience. Theology, on the other hand, starts with the assumption that divinity exists (i.e. God is real) and then focuses on the systematic analysis of the belief structure that springs up around that reality. For example, Christian theology concerns itself with discussions of the attributes of God, the true message of the Gospels, how to lead a redeeming Christian life, etc...

Learning Outcomes:

- Demonstrate an understanding of the diversity of global religious practice
- Interpret and analyze primary source religious literature from the historical-critical perspective

- Demonstrate understanding of the relationships between specific texts produced by different religious traditions and the teachings that arise from them.
- Demonstrate an understanding of the relationship between religious studies and other fields of academic endeavor (i.e. sociology, anthropology, history, etc...)
- Collaborate with others on presenting specific religious studies topics from a phenomenological perspective
- Use various critical thinking strategies to analyze and synthesize information from a variety of sources (i.e. primary texts, secondary texts, multi-media presentations, experiential learning, etc...)

Required Text/Stuff:

Religion Today: A Critical Thinking Approach to Religious Studies, most recent edition, by Ross Aden
World Religions: The Great Faiths Explored and Explained, most recent edition, by John Bowker
 Ability to access a computer/the Internet regularly during the course of the term

Attendance:

I will be checking attendance for the first couple of meetings, but after that, it is up to you to attend regularly. We will also be doing in-class writings just about every meeting; I will use those to determine participation grades. One missed class will probably not result in any kind of huge deficit, but excessive absences (two or more) will most likely impact your work negatively. If you miss a session, please check out Blackboard course site for archived materials.

Grading:

Grading- The grading for this course is flexible, and the grading contract for the class will be decided during our first meeting. The categories below indicate all the aspects that will be assessed. The weight that is assigned to each one is up to the class as a whole. There are only a few limitations:

- the point total for the exams is not changeable
- no category can be worth less than 50 points
- fractional totals or those not rounded to the nearest ten points are not acceptable
- the total number of points must equal 1000.

Please remember that if one category is given fewer points, then another category must be weighted more heavily.

Mid-term and final exams (250 points each) -----	500	points
Response papers (5) -----	100	points
In-class writings and discussion -----	150	points
Group wiki project -----	50	points
Short content quizzes (10) -----	200	points

Letter grades are then generated at the end of the term based on a strict percentage scale. Grades with an attached "+" or "-" will be given for those point totals which fall within the top or bottom 2% of each grade category (there is no "A+"). For example, a student with 860 points would receive a straight "B" grade. A different student, who had accumulated only 820 points, would receive a "B-" (820= the lowest 2% of the "B" category or .82x1000=820).

A=	900-1000 points
B=	800-899 points
C=	700-799 points
D=	600-699 points
F=	below 600 points

Due Dates:

Due dates are included in the syllabus and are not generally flexible. Late papers will not be accepted unless a student is experiencing/has experienced a personal tragedy, emergency, or some other extreme situation. In such cases, try to speak to me privately as soon as possible.

Please remember: It is your responsibility to keep up with assigned readings and paper due dates as presented in the syllabus. Check with me or a classmate to keep up with syllabus changes. Many resources (i.e. lecture slides, handouts, etc...) will be available on the class Blackboard page.

Writing Papers:

Write papers for this class as if you were submitting them for an English course. Grammatically sound language and an academic tone will be expected of all out-of-class assignments. Any exceptions to that will be made explicit when writing tasks are assigned.

MLA format- All out of class assignments must be typed and double-spaced with realistic margins according to MLA format. I will outline this format in class prior to your first written assignment. Any up-to-date English/writing reference will have a section on how to use this set of writing conventions. These are two of the best online resources to use:

The Purdue Online Writing Lab: <http://owl.english.purdue.edu/>

University of Wisconsin Writing Center: <http://www.writing.wisc.edu/Handbook/DocMLA.html>

Proofing and revision- All papers should be proofed thoroughly by a human. Computer spell-checks and grammar checks are notoriously fallible. You can also take advantage of the writing tutors in TASC/Writing Center by making a face-to-face appointment or submitting a paper via e-mail at TRWritingCenter@trcc.comnet.edu

Paper submission- Please submit electronic copies of all out of class papers through Blackboard. I will review this process in class. Acceptable file formats are .doc, .docx, .txt, .rtf, .pdf and .odt. Making documents accessible through cloud storage sites is not an alternative; I will not log in to Google Docs or other similar sites to read or download papers. In addition, Apple product users should be aware that the default file format for documents (.pages) is not readable by MS Word, so please convert and save your files appropriately.

Returned Papers- Graded copies of papers will usually be returned within one week of the due date. Sometimes that doesn't happen due to circumstances beyond my control, so please be patient. I try to include both content and style comments on returned papers for you to use as suggestions for future assignments.

Campus Policies:

Plagiarism- Plagiarism is the unacknowledged use of another person's words or ideas in your writing. Conscious plagiarism is an unacceptable academic behavior that will result in a "0" for the plagiarized assignment, with no re-write possibilities. Any repeat offense will result in a failing grade in the course. Plagiarism by omission or "unconscious" plagiarism will be dealt with on a case-by-case basis. To review definitions of plagiarism and strategies of how to avoid it, I recommend these resources:

Purdue OWL Plagiarism Tutorial: <https://owl.english.purdue.edu/owl/resource/589/01/>

University of Southern Mississippi: <http://www.lib.usm.edu/legacy/plag/plagiarismtutorial.php>

Student e-mail accounts- All students have a TRCC account that will be used as the default e-mail contact for communications. If you would like to set up that address to forward to one you check more frequently, that is easily done online. Go to this web site for detailed information:

http://www.trcc.commnet.edu/Div\_StudentServices/Registrar/documents/studentemail.pdf

myCommNet Alerts- myCommNet Alert is a system that sends text messages and emails to anyone signed up in the event of a campus emergency. Additionally, TRCC sends messages when the college is delayed or closed due to weather. All students are encouraged to sign up for myCommNet Alert. A tutorial is available on the Educational Technology and Distance Learning Students page of the web site:

http://www.trcc.commnet.edu/div\_it/educationaltechnology/Tutorials/myCommNetAlert/MIR3.html

Digication- All students are required to maintain an online learning portfolio in Digication that uses the college template. Through this electronic tool students will have the opportunity to monitor their own growth in college-wide learning. The student will keep his/her learning portfolio and may continue to use the Digication account after graduation. A Three Rivers General Education Assessment Team will select and review random works to improve the college experience for all. Student work reviewed for assessment purposes will not include names and all student work will remain private and anonymous for college improvement purposes. Students will have the ability to integrate learning from the classroom, college, and life in general, which will provide additional learning opportunities. If desired, students will have the option to create multiple portfolios. Go here to view video tutorials and log in to the system:

http://www.trcc.commnet.edu/Div\_IT/EducationalTechnology/Digication.shtml

Withdrawal policy- A student who finds it necessary to discontinue a course once class has met must provide written notice to the registrar. Withdrawal forms are available at the Registrar's office. No punitive "W" grades are assigned to any withdrawal requested before the unrestricted withdrawal deadline for the semester. Withdrawal requests received after this deadline must bear the signature of the instructor. No withdrawals are permitted after the last class preceding the final exam. Those who do not obtain an official withdrawal, but simply stop attending classes, run the risk of receiving an "F" grade for the course

Students with disabilities- If you have a disability that may affect your progress in this course, please meet with a Disability Service Provider (DSP) as soon as possible. You can make an appointment with a DSP by calling (860) 215-9016. Please note: 1.) For academic adjustments, you will have to provide documentation of your disability to the DSP. 2.) Instructors cannot provide adjustments until you have delivered written authorization (from a DSP) to the instructor. 3.) Adjustments take effect when you deliver your written authorization to the instructor in person (provided there is adequate time for the instructor to make necessary arrangements). 4.) Adjustments do not apply to tests/assignments that were due prior to your delivering written authorization to your instructor in person.

Sexual discrimination and harassment- Title IX Statement of Policy: "Title IX of the Education Amendments Act of 1972 protects students, employees, applicants for admission and employment, and other persons from all forms of sex discrimination, including discrimination based on gender identity or failure to conform to stereotypical notions of masculinity or femininity. All students are protected by Title IX, regardless of their sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, part or full-time status, disability, race, or national origin, in all aspects of educational programs and activities."
