Concept Vocabulary

As you perform your first read of these poems, you will encounter these words.

perspective entitled interactions

Base Words If these words are unfamiliar to you, analyze each one to see whether it contains a base word you know. Then, use your knowledge of the “inside” word, along with context, to determine the meaning.

Unfamiliar Word: extrasensory

Familiar Base Word: sensory, which means “of or relating to the senses”

Context: I wrote down the address and took a taxi driven by one of those cabdrivers with extrasensory memory.

Conclusion: Cabdrivers are known for their exceptional memories for directions. Perhaps extrasensory means “beyond the ordinary perception of the senses.”

Apply your knowledge of base words and other vocabulary strategies to determine the meanings of unfamiliar words you encounter during your first read.

First Read POETRY

About the Poets

Sherman Alexie (b. 1966) grew up on the Spokane Indian Reservation in Washington State. As a child, Alexie suffered from seizures and spent much of his time in bed reading. After college, his career as a writer took off. Since then, Alexie has won numerous awards for his novels, stories, screenplays, and poems, including a PEN/Hemingway Award and the National Book Award.

Harryette Mullen (b. 1953) grew up primarily in Texas and now teaches English at the University of California, Los Angeles. Mullen’s poetry has been described as “crossing lines” between the political and the personal. Mullen credits much of her success to attending poetry readings in which she realized that poetry is “not just something on the page” but instead something that has to be heard out loud to be fully appreciated.

Pat Mora (b. 1942) grew up in El Paso, Texas, and became a teacher, museum director, and university administrator before turning to writing. Mora writes poetry in both English and Spanish, often including Spanish words and phrases in her English-language poems. Her transcultural style gives a voice to her Mexican American heritage of the Southwest.

Backgrounds

Sonnet, With Bird

The sonnet form is one of the most enduring poetic forms, having survived five centuries essentially unchanged. A sonnet follows a strict fourteen-line arrangement in a specific rhyme scheme. The final two lines of a sonnet resolve or summarize the preceding lines. In this poem, Sherman Alexie reinvents the sonnet, presenting one of our most traditional forms in an entirely new way.

Elliptical

Ellipsis—often represented with punctuation marks known as ellipsis points (. . .)—is the omission, often intentional, of a word or words that would be needed for a thought to be complete. Sometimes, the missing word or words are understood from context. Other times, they are left to the reader’s imagination. This poem, whose title means “involving ellipsis,” plays with both of these ideas.

Fences

This poem was inspired by Puerto Vallarta, a beach resort city in Mexico. Many places, including Puerto Vallarta, rely on tourism as a major income source. This tourist economy, however, means that many locals must accommodate tourists who enjoy an affluent lifestyle that they themselves cannot afford.

NOTES

1. Seventeen months after I moved off the reservation, and on the second plane flight of my life, I traveled to London to promote my first internationally published book. 2. A Native American in England! I imagined the last Indian in England was Maria Tall Chief, the Osage¹ ballerina who was once married to Balanchine.² An Indian married to Balanchine! 3. My publishers put me in a quaint little hotel near the Tate Gallery. I didn't go into the Tate. Back then, I was afraid of paintings of and by white men. I think I'm still afraid of paintings of and by white men. 4. This was long before I had a cell phone, so I stopped at payphones to call my wife. I miss the intensity of a conversation measured by a dwindling stack of quarters. 5. No quarters in England, though, and I don't remember what the equivalent British coin was called. 6. As with every other country I've visited, nobody thought I was Indian. This made me lonely. 7. Lonely enough to cry in my hotel bed one night as I kept thinking, "I am the only Indian in this country right now. I'm the only Indian within a five-thousand-mile circle." 8. But I wasn't the only Indian;

1. Osage Native American tribe based in the Midwestern United States.

2. Balanchine George Balanchine (1904–1983), dance choreographer who founded the New York City Ballet and is considered the father of American ballet.

I wasn't even the only Spokane Indian.³ 9. On the payphone, my mother told me that a childhood friend from the reservation was working at a London pub. So I wrote down the address and took a taxi driven by one of those cabdrivers with extrasensory memory. 10. When I entered the pub, I sat in a corner, and waited for my friend to discover me. When he saw me, he leapt over the bar and hugged me. "I thought I was the only Indian in England," he said. 11. His name was Aaron and he died of cancer last spring. I'd rushed to see him in his last moments, but he passed before I could reach him. Only minutes gone, his skin was still warm. I held his hand, kissed his forehead, and said, "England." 12. "England," in our tribal language, now means, "Aren't we a miracle?" and "Goodbye." 13. In my strange little hotel near the Tate, I had to wear my suit coat to eat breakfast in the lobby restaurant. Every morning, I ordered eggs and toast. Everywhere in the world, bread is bread, but my eggs were impossibly small. "What bird is this?" I asked the waiter. "That would be quail," he said. On the first morning, I could not eat the quail eggs. On the second morning, I only took a taste. On third day, I ate two and ordered two more. 14. A gathering of quail is called a bevy. A gathering of Indians is called a tribe. When quails speak, they call it a song. When Indians sing, the air is heavy with grief. When quails grieve, they lie down next to their dead. When Indians die, the quail speaks.

3. Spokane Indian Native American from the northeastern part of Washington State.

NOTES

Mouths full of laughter,
the turistas come to the tall hotel
with suitcases full of dollars.

5 Every morning my brother makes the cool beach new for them.
With a wooden board he smooths
away all footprints.

10 I peek through the cactus fence
and watch the women rub oil sweeter than honey into their arms and legs
while their children jump waves
or sip drinks from long straws, coconut white, mango yellow.

15 Once my little sister
ran barefoot across the hot sand
for a taste.

My mother roared like the ocean,
“No. No. It’s their beach.
It’s their beach.”

Comprehension Check

Complete the following items after you finish your first read. Review and clarify details with your group.

SONNET, WITH BIRD

1. Why does the speaker go to London?
2. Whom does the speaker meet in London?

ELLIPTICAL

3. How does each sentence of “Elliptical” end?
4. What pronoun appears in the first nine sentences of the poem?

TIP

GROUP DISCUSSION

Take turns reading portions of each poem aloud. Discuss how listening to a poem read aloud helps you hear rhythm, rhyme, and other sound devices. Discuss the connection between the sound of the poem and its meaning.

WORD NETWORK

Add words related to outsiders from the texts to your Word Network.

STANDARDS

RL.9–10.5 Analyze how an author’s choices concerning how to structure a text, order events within it, and manipulate time create such effects as mystery, tension, or surprise.

L.9–10.4.b Identify and correctly use patterns of word changes that indicate different meanings or parts of speech and continue to apply knowledge of Greek and Latin roots and affixes.

L.9–10.4.c Consult general and specialized reference materials, both print and digital, to find the pronunciation of a word or determine or clarify its precise meaning, its part of speech, or its etymology.

Close Read the Text

With your group, revisit sections of the text you marked during your first read. Annotate details that you notice. What questions do you have? What can you conclude?

Analyze Craft and Structure

Author's Choices: Poetic Form Poems can be written in any number of different poetic forms. A poetic form is a set pattern of poetic elements. For example, a poetic form may call for a fixed number of lines, a particular pattern of rhyme or meter, or any combination of those elements. Some poems, however, avoid the use of fixed patterns altogether. For example, free verse poems do not follow any set patterns. Instead, they present carefully crafted lines that re-create the rhythms of natural speech or present unexpected combinations of language. To create these effects, free verse poets often play with line breaks, or the ways in which lines end.

- End-stopped lines are lines that complete a grammatical unit; they usually end with a punctuation mark, such as a comma or period.
- Enjambed lines do not end with a grammatical break and do not make full sense without the line that follows.

The prose poem is a poetic form that looks like prose, or a non-poetic work, but sounds like poetry. Prose poems lack the line breaks most often found in poetry, but they may contain other poetic techniques such as repetition or rhyme.

to support your answers.

Work together as a group to answer the following questions.

1. In "Fences," which lines are end-stopped and which are enjambed? Explain how the different types of lines emphasize meaning or affect how a reader hears and understands the poem.
2. (a) What type of poem is "Elliptical"? Explain. (b) In what ways does the choice of form affect how the reader experiences the poem? (c) Rewrite the poem, adding line breaks that make sense to you. Compare with the original. What is lost and what is gained by the poet's choice of form?
3. (a) What poetic techniques does "Sonnet, With Bird" use that make it a poem rather than prose? (b) How does the combination of poetic and prose-like elements affect its meaning?

Author's Style

Author's Choices: Poetic Form A traditional, Shakespearean sonnet is a fourteen-line poem that contains three four-line stanzas, or quatrains, and a final two-line stanza, or couplet. It has a regular meter and set pattern of rhyme, or rhyme scheme.

Shakespeare's "Sonnet 18" features three quatrains that develop a theme and follow an abab, cdcd, efef rhyme pattern. Here is the first quatrain.

Shall I compare thee to a summer's day? (a)
Thou art more lovely and more temperate. (b)
Rough winds do shake the darling buds of May, (a)
And summer's lease hath all too short a date. (b)

The final two lines in the sonnet form a rhyming couplet.

So long as men can breathe or eyes can see, (g)
So long lives this and this gives life to thee. (g)

Traditionally, the rhyming couplet that ends a sonnet dramatically redefines or twists the thematic ideas expressed in the earlier lines.

Read It

In "Sonnet, With Bird," Sherman Alexie uses the sonnet form as a starting point, then changes it drastically. Work individually to reread the poem. Chart how Alexie's poem reimagines the Shakespearean sonnet.
