Program Guide 2011-12

Important Changes for 2011-12

No increase in Exam Fees for 2012

The exam fee remains $87. The fee is $117 per exam at schools outside the United States, U.S. territories and Canada (with the exception of DoDDS schools). The fee is $143 per exam at College Board–authorized testing centers outside the United States.

Exam Inserts Discontinued

Beginning in May 2012, AP Exams will no longer include free-response questions inserts that have typically been retained by schools and returned to students 48 hours after the exam. All materials containing exam content, such as exam booklets and master CDs, must be returned to the AP Program. Note: Students and educators may only discuss the specific free-response questions that are released on the College Board website 48 hours after the exam administration.

Service Enhancements

New Online AP Score Reports for Schools and Districts

School and district administrators can now access the following new AP score reports online: five-year school score summary, AP Scholar roster, student datafile, and district summary reports (districts only). More information about the new reports is available at www.collegeboard.org/onlineapscores.

AP Coordinator Rebate

Rebates for schools with large AP programs are now based upon the number of exams administered, with additional tiers of rebates available for schools with significant AP Exam participation: $250 for schools giving 150–499 exams; $500 for schools giving 500–749 exams; $1,000 for schools giving 750–999 exams; $1,500 for schools giving 1,000–1,999 exams; and $3,000 for schools giving 2,000 or more exams.

Course and Exam Changes

Revised AP Courses and Exams

Revised courses and exams in French Language and Culture, German Language and Culture, and World History launch this year. Visit AP Central® (apcentral.collegeboard.org) for important information and resources for these courses. Art History

Beginning with the 2012 exam, five-minute essay questions will no longer be included in the AP Art History Exam. Section II, Part B will consist of six 10-minute essay questions based on color images and/or text. Section I, Part A will now contain five sets of multiple-choice questions based on an image or pair of color images to be completed in 20 minutes. The total time for the exam remains unchanged. Please see the AP Art History Course Description for more information.

Italian Language and Culture

The AP Italian Language and Culture course and exam have been reinstated this year, with the exam administered in May 2012. Visit apcentral.collegeboard.org/italian for more information.

2012 AP Exam Schedule..... back cover

AP® enables students to pursue college-level studies while still in high school. Through 34 college-level courses, each culminating in a rigorous exam, AP provides willing and academically prepared students with the opportunity to earn college credit, advanced placement or both. Taking AP courses also demonstrates to college admission officers that students have sought out the most rigorous curriculum available to them.

Talented and dedicated AP teachers help students in AP courses develop and apply the skills, abilities and content knowledge they will need later in college. Each AP course is modeled upon a comparable college course, and college and university faculty play a vital role in ensuring that AP courses align with college-level standards.

Each AP course concludes with a college-level exam developed and scored by college and university faculty members as well as experienced AP teachers. AP Exams are an essential part of the AP experience, enabling students to demonstrate their mastery of college-level course work. AP is accepted by most two- and four-year colleges and universities worldwide for college credit, advanced placement or both on the basis of successful exam scores. Universities in more than 60 countries recognize AP Exam scores in the admission process and/or award credit and placement for qualifying scores.

Performing well on an AP Exam means more than just the successful completion of a course. Research consistently shows that students who score a 3 or higher typically earn higher GPAs in college and have higher graduation rates than their non-AP student peers.

Obtain a College Board School Code

A school must have an active six-digit school code to order and administer exams and receive students' exam scores. Educational Testing Service® (ETS®) assigns these codes to schools that complete the High School Code Request Form and meet certain criteria.

Three College Board programs — AP, PSAT/NMSQT and SAT® — share the same school codes; a school that has participated in any of these programs will already have a code. Schools can contact AP Services at 877-274-6474 to check whether they have an active code or to request a High School Code Request Form. Schools in Canada should call the College Board office in British Columbia at 800-667-4548. Schools outside the United States and Canada can contact International Services at international@collegeboard.org or 001 212-373-8738.

Offer Authorized AP Courses

Schools wishing to use the “AP” designation on their courses must participate in the AP Course Audit. The AP Course Audit was created at the request of College Board members who sought a means for the College Board to provide teachers and administrators with clear guidelines on curricular and resource requirements for AP courses, and to help colleges and universities more clearly interpret secondary school courses marked “AP” on students' transcripts. For more information on the AP Course Audit, visit www.collegeboard.org/apcourseaudit.

Enroll AP Students

The College Board strongly encourages educators to make equitable access a guiding principle for their AP programs by giving all willing and academically prepared students the opportunity to participate in AP. We encourage the elimination of barriers that restrict access to AP for students from ethnic, racial and socioeconomic groups that have been traditionally underserved. Schools should make every effort to ensure their AP classes reflect the diversity of their student population. The College Board also believes that all students should have access to academically challenging course work before they enroll in AP classes, which can prepare them for AP success. It is only through a commitment to equitable preparation and access that true equity and excellence can be achieved.

For more information about building an equitable AP program, visit www.collegeboard.org/apequity.

AP Potential™

AP Potential is a Web-based service that can help schools identify potential AP students. Studies have shown that performance on the PSAT/NMSQT can be used to identify students who are likely to be successful on AP Exams. Using such data, AP Potential provides school and district offices with a roster of potential students by name and suggested AP course, giving administrators useful information for expanding AP opportunities at their schools. For more information about AP Potential, visit appotential.collegeboard.org.

Designate an AP Coordinator

Each participating school designates an AP Coordinator who takes primary responsibility for organizing and administering that school's AP program. The AP Coordinator manages the receipt, distribution, administration and return of AP Exam materials. The AP Coordinator may be a full- or part-time administrator or counselor, or a faculty member who does not teach an AP course.

To avoid any perceived conflict of interest, an AP teacher may not serve as the AP Coordinator. An AP Coordinator may not be involved in the handling of any exam materials that an immediate family or household member may take.

See pages 30–31 for resources and support available for AP Coordinators.

Complete the AP Participation Materials

In September, each school principal receives AP participation materials. These materials include an AP Participation Form, a participation survey and other information needed for the upcoming school year. Schools that do not receive participation materials by late October should contact AP Services. Participating schools must complete these materials annually and should submit them no later than Nov. 15. Signed by both the school's principal and the AP Coordinator, the AP Participation Form serves as an agreement by the school to follow all AP Exam administration policies outlined in the AP Coordinator's Manual. Completing this form does not obligate the school to administer AP Exams in May.

Final Deadline: No orders will be accepted after this date. Orders placed by April 13 will be delivered by April 27.	April 13

Order AP Exams

Coordinators must order all regularly scheduled and late-testing AP Exams online at www.collegeboard.org/school. Schools may also order Braille and 14- and 20-point large-type exams and large-block (enlarged) answer sheets online. Instructions for ordering are emailed in January to the address provided on the school's AP Participation Form.

After an order is placed it cannot be decreased once it has been processed for shipment, which can be as soon as 6 p.m. ET on the day the order is placed. Schools are charged a $13 fee for each unused exam. This fee is not assessed for an exam that is replaced by an alternate exam for late testing unless the alternate exam itself goes unused. Additional orders can be placed for no fee, as long as they are submitted before the extension deadline.

Before placing an order, Coordinators should:

- Consult with AP teachers and students to determine the number of exams that need to be ordered for each AP course.
- Check with the appropriate AP teachers to be sure the correct exams are ordered — AP Calculus, Economics, English, Government and Politics, History, Physics, Spanish, and Studio Art each have more than one exam.
- Consult with your school's Services for Students with Disabilities Coordinator to ensure that you are ordering the appropriate materials for these students.
- Consider ordering preadministration materials with the initial exam order. A preadministration session, during which students complete the personal identification sections of their registration answer sheets for the regularly scheduled exams, will save students time on exam day.

Guidelines on Students' Choice of Exams

The AP Program does not require students to take an AP course before taking an AP Exam. Students may take as many AP Exams as they want, with the following qualifications:

- Students may not take both Calculus AB and Calculus BC within the same year.
- A student may not take an exam more than once in the same year; however, a student may repeat an exam in a subsequent year. In such cases, both scores will be reported unless the student requests that one be withheld or canceled.

Ordering AP Exams

- If a student wants to take two exams scheduled at the same time, he or she must take an alternate form of one of the exams during the late-testing administration.
- A student may submit more than one AP Studio Art portfolio as long as they are not the same type of portfolio. (For instance, a student may not submit two Drawing portfolios in the same year.) There must be no duplication of works among the portfolios, and portfolios cannot be combined. If a student plans to submit more than one type of portfolio, one AP Studio Art Exam must be ordered by the AP Coordinator for each portfolio that will be submitted, and separate fees must be paid for each portfolio.

Order Exams for Students with Disabilities

Students with documented disabilities may be eligible for accommodations on AP Exams. Some examples of accommodations include extended time, alternate formats and use of a computer for essays. In order to use accommodations on AP Exams, students must request and receive approval for accommodations from the College Board Services for Students with Disabilities (SSD). Nonstandard exam formats, such as Braille or large type, must be ordered by the AP Coordinator.

The SSD eligibility process is a critical first step that must be taken well before the AP Exam administration. All students requesting accommodations must submit a request for accommodations to SSD and, in many cases, additional documentation supporting the need for accommodations. In most cases, the students work with their school to submit the request and gather the documentation. Schools request and manage accommodations online. Detailed information regarding SSD processes is available at www.collegeboard.org/ssd. Information about requesting accommodations online is available at www.collegeboard.org/ssdonline.

Please note that it takes approximately seven weeks from the receipt of all necessary documentation for the College Board to determine a student's eligibility for accommodations. Students requesting accommodations for AP Exams should submit all necessary documentation by Feb. 24 to ensure that a decision is made by the April 13 extension ordering deadline (see page 10). Although requests for accommodations submitted after this date may be decided prior to the exam date, there is no guarantee that accommodations will be approved and test materials will be shipped in time for the test.

Students are encouraged to request accommodations well before the established deadlines — as early as their first year of high school.

If a student was previously approved for accommodations by the College Board, he or she remains approved and does not need to submit a new request for accommodations. Although accommodations, once approved, are approved for all College Board testing programs (AP, SAT, PSAT/NMSQT), not all approved accommodations are relevant for all tests (e.g., “extended time for math only” would not apply to an AP United States History Exam). Therefore, it is critical that students and schools clearly identify the accommodations that are needed for each test.

Detailed information about making changes to accommodations, approving the transfer of accommodations for students moving from other schools, and other issues concerning students with disabilities can be found at www.collegeboard.org/ssd.

SSD Coordinators can view a list of all students in their school who are approved for accommodations, such as extended time, Braille and 14- or 20-point large-type exams, and large-block (enlarged) answer sheets at any time, on SSD Online, and should work with the AP Coordinator to order nonstandard format exams.

- If the only accommodation that a student has been approved for is extended time, the AP Coordinator should order a regular-format exam, as they would for any other student.
- Because students with extended time test in separate rooms, make sure to order extra master CDs (e.g., listening, presentational writing, sight-singing, speaking) for the applicable world language and Music Theory exams if you have students taking these exams with this accommodation.
- AP Coordinators should make sure to order AP Student Packs for all students, including those with disabilities, when placing the online order.

Order Exams for Home-Schooled Students and Students Whose Schools Do Not Offer AP

The AP Program encourages schools to assist home-schooled students and students whose schools do not offer AP, because these students and their parents cannot order or administer AP Exams. Home-schooled students and students whose schools do not offer AP can arrange to test at participating schools by following the steps below:

- Contact AP Services no later than March 1 to get the names and telephone numbers of local AP Coordinators who may be willing to arrange testing for students outside the school or district.
- Contact the Coordinators identified by AP Services no later than March 15 to ask if any are able to arrange testing of students outside the school or district.

Students should inform each Coordinator they contact that they are trying to locate a school willing to administer exams to home-schooled students or students whose schools do not offer AP. Students should communicate which exams they plan to take and what testing accommodations (if applicable) will be needed.

Schools that agree to administer exams to these students should note the following:

- Coordinators are responsible for confirming the exams these students plan to take, ordering the necessary exam materials, and informing the students of when and where to take the exams.
- Coordinators should collect and submit these students' exam fees with the rest of those from the Coordinator's school.
- Coordinators may negotiate a higher exam fee with these students to recover additional proctoring or administration costs.
- Coordinators should remind these students to bring valid photo identification, which must be checked on exam day.
- Because these students will be using a different school code, their exam scores will not be included with the administering school's score reports.
- Any home-schooled student with documented disabilities must first be approved for testing accommodations by submitting an accommodations request and supporting documentation to the College Board. Complete information is available at www.collegeboard.org/ssd. The student must also notify the school that accommodations may be needed.

Order Alternate Exams for Late Testing

Occasionally, circumstances make it necessary for students to test late. To preserve the security of AP Exams, the College Board develops alternate forms of each exam for late testing, which may only be administered on the scheduled dates and at the scheduled times during the late-testing period. See the back foldout panel for the 2012 late-testing schedule.

Coordinators must order alternate exams for late testing online. See page 10 for ordering deadlines. When the cause of late testing is beyond the control of the school and the students, there is no additional fee for using the alternate form of the exam. In other instances, an additional $40 is charged for each exam to partially defray the additional development and scoring costs. Schools may be charged the $40 per exam fee for instances in which retesting is necessary because of testing irregularities or security violations. The complete list of circumstances for which the AP Program authorizes schools to conduct late testing is published in the AP Coordinator's Manual.

Collect Exam Fees

Coordinators are responsible for collecting exam fees from students. Checks and money orders should be made payable to the school administering the exam, not the College Board.

Exam Fees

The fee for each exam is $87, with schools retaining an $8 rebate per exam. See the Summary of Fees table on page 28 for 2012 international exam fees. The amount schools collect from students, however, may vary under certain circumstances:

- Schools may be charged an additional $40 per exam for alternate exams administered during the late-testing period, depending on the reasons for late testing. The complete list of circumstances for which the AP Program authorizes schools to conduct late testing is published in the AP Coordinator's Manual. Schools may ask students to pay part or all of this additional fee.
- Schools administering exams to home-schooled students or students from other schools may negotiate a higher fee to recover the additional proctoring and administration costs.
- College Board fee reductions and state and federal subsidies are available for students with financial need.

Fee Reductions

The College Board provides a $22 fee reduction per exam for students with financial need. For each eligible student, schools should also forgo their $8 rebate. Thus, eligible students pay $57 per exam. Complete information about eligibility criteria and the procedure for claiming fee reductions is available at www.collegeboard.org/apfeereductions.

In addition, most states offer exam subsidies to cover all or part of the remaining cost. Information about these state-specific contributions is posted on www.collegeboard.org/apexamfeeassistance in February.

Rebates for AP Coordinators with Large AP Programs

To provide large-volume AP schools with additional support, a rebate will be sent to them in October (to the attention of the AP Coordinator, payable to the school) for discretionary use in hiring temporary staff to assist with the AP Exam administration, providing an honorarium or professional development funds for AP Coordinators or covering other expenses associated with managing an AP program. Because the complexity of an AP Coordinator's work increases in proportion to the number of exams administered, the amount of the rebate varies proportionately: $250 for schools giving 150–499 exams; $500 for schools giving 500–749 exams; $1,000 for schools giving 750–999 exams; $1,500 for schools giving 1,000–1,999 exams; and $3,000 for schools giving 2,000 or more exams.

The following briefly describes key procedures related to the AP Exam administration in May. Details about all aspects of administering AP Exams are provided in the AP Coordinator's Manual, available at www.collegeboard.org/apcoordinator in November and sent to participating schools in December.

Check and Store Exam Materials

Exams are sent to the AP Coordinator and arrive at the school in mid to late April. Alternate exams for late testing will arrive in May. Within 24 hours of receiving the exam materials, the Coordinator must check the contents of the shipment. This procedure for receiving and checking exam materials must take place in a secure area with only authorized personnel present; the exam cartons must then be resealed and placed in secure, locked storage. If there is a discrepancy between the exams received and the exams ordered, the Coordinator should contact AP Services immediately. AP Studio Art portfolios are not secure exam materials and should be given to the AP Studio Art teacher after they have been inventoried. (See instructions for AP Studio Art in the AP Coordinator's Manual.)

Preserve Exam Security

The AP Program must provide all students with an equal opportunity to demonstrate their knowledge and skills, but can only guarantee reliable and valid assessment when all students test under the same conditions, without prior knowledge of exam questions. Therefore, the AP Program has implemented several policies designed to reduce potential security risks and maintain fairness. While the following are the key policies that help ensure the fairness and security of AP Exam administrations at all schools, Coordinators must follow the complete administration instructions and security procedures detailed in the AP Coordinator's Manual and in the AP Exam Instructions book.

Schools that knowingly or unknowingly violate these policies may not be permitted to administer AP Exams in the future and may be held responsible for any damages or losses the College Board and/or ETS incur in the event of a security breach. Any breach of exam security, however minor, must be reported to the Office of Testing Integrity. See the inside back cover for contact information.

Exam Schedules

An AP Exam may only be administered on its scheduled date, at the set time. See the back cover for the 2012 exam schedule. Early testing is not permitted under any circumstances. Proctors may allow students to enter the testing rooms to complete the personal identification portion of their answer sheets before an exam's official start time, but the actual AP Exam booklets may not be opened before the set times under any circumstances.

AP Exams feature security statements on the front covers that students must sign to affirm that the exam was administered on the date and time indicated on the covers, that the multiple-choice items will not be disclosed, and that they will only discuss the free-response questions if the specific questions on the exam are released on the College Board website 48 hours after the exam administration.

Discussion of Exam Content

No one, other than the students as they are taking the exam, is allowed access to the multiple-choice questions at any time. This section is always kept secure because some questions are reused for purposes of establishing test reliability among forms over time. It is for this reason that students seal the multiple-choice booklets at the end of the administration and are not permitted to share information about these questions with anyone (including their AP teachers) after the exam is over. The entire multiple-choice section, including content and questions, must never be shared, copied or reconstructed by students or teachers after the exam.

Beginning in 2012, a subset of students will take exam forms or questions that will not be released, so the practice of returning free-response questions inserts to all students 48 hours after each regularly scheduled exam must be discontinued. Exams will no longer contain printed inserts. For most exams, the free-response questions that were formerly printed in the inserts will appear in the Section II exam booklet. Free-response questions for some exams (e.g., U.S. History) will appear in an additional Section II booklet, which must be returned to the AP Program. Students and educators may discuss only the specific free-response questions that are released on the College Board website 48 hours after the exam administration. Discussion of these questions may not begin until that time. If the free-response questions in the exam are not released, they may never be discussed. The free-response section of the alternate form of the exam used for late testing is not released and may never be discussed or shared in any way.

Access to Exams

AP Teachers may not serve as AP Coordinators, proctors, readers or scribes at an exam in their subject area.

Teachers, college faculty or instructors, department chairs, tutors, individuals involved in test-preparation services, or educators of any kind (including, but not limited to, curriculum specialists, school counselors or administrators) must not take, or review the content of, an AP Exam.

Making photocopies of any portion of any exam is strictly prohibited. No one, except the students as they take the exam, should see the exam content.

AP Exam materials (with the exception of Studio Art portfolios and Setup CDs for AP Chinese and Japanese) must always be kept in locked storage (not accessible to students or teachers) before and after the exam administration. Before dismissing students, the proctor must account for all exam booklets, answer sheets, tapes and CDs. With the exception of AP Music Theory Exams, AP Spanish Language Exams, and AP French, German and Italian Language and Culture Exams, where equipment availability may require multiple groups of students to record speaking responses at different times, students must all be dismissed from the testing room at the same time.

Either the AP Coordinator or a designated proctor must be present at all times in every room in which AP Exams are being administered. No one else, other than those testing, should be in the room before, during or immediately following the exam. All secure exam materials (including used and unused exam booklets and master CDs) must be returned to the AP Program.

Exam Day

No cell phones, digital cameras, personal digital assistants (PDAs), BlackBerry smartphones, Bluetooth-enabled devices, MP3 players, email/messaging devices, or any other electronic or communication devices are allowed in the testing room.

No photos may be taken in the exam room during an exam.

Choose Proctors

Only the AP Coordinator and any designated proctors may handle secure exam materials before and following the AP Exam administration. Proctors must be responsible adults; they may not be high school students. Teachers, AP or other, may only serve as proctors for exams in a subject area other than the one they teach. For example, a ninth-grade English teacher may not proctor an AP English Exam, but could proctor an AP Biology Exam. The only exception to this policy is AP Studio Art — the AP Studio Art teacher should be present when 2-D Design and Drawing students assemble the Quality sections of their portfolios, which consist of five actual artworks. Proctors may be professionals, substitute teachers or members of the administrative staff.

To avoid a conflict of interest, proctors must not be involved in:

- Any AP Exam preparation, coaching or tutoring activities, whether public or private.
- Handling materials for the administration of an AP Exam that an immediate family or household member will take.

See the “Preparing Proctors” section of the AP Coordinator’s Manual for more information.

Select Testing Sites and Testing Rooms

Most AP Exams are given in a school’s classrooms, library, gym or cafeteria. The rooms chosen for administering AP Exams should provide the best possible conditions for a student’s performance. Disruptive events, such as fire drills, should be scheduled for another time. A clock should be clearly visible to all students.

Off-Site Testing

Community facilities may also be used if the rooms are appropriate in size and configuration, and all security procedures can be followed. Some schools prefer testing in community centers, church halls, hotels, public libraries or local colleges to avoid disruptions.

Obtain Special Equipment

Some exams require special equipment. Detailed information about these requirements can be found in the AP Coordinator’s Manual and/or the AP Exam Instructions book.

Please note that:

- The AP Music Theory Exam, AP Spanish Language, and AP French, German, Italian Language and Culture exams require compact disc players and tape-recording equipment, depending on a school’s exam administration preferences. Recording on microcassettes is not permitted. If desired, the speaking or sight-singing portions of these exams may be administered in a language or computer lab. Schools that choose to record student responses on computer in MP3 format should go to www.collegeboard.org/apcoordinator after March 15 for information about recording software and specific exam instructions.

- The AP Chinese Language and Culture and AP Japanese Language and Culture Exams are delivered on CD, and have specific hardware and software requirements.
- The AP Calculus, Chemistry, Physics and Statistics Exams allow the use of a calculator on all or selected portions. Visit www.collegeboard.org/ap/calculatorpolicy for details.
- The AP Studio Art Exam includes an online portfolio submission component. Students, teachers and Coordinators must have access to a computer with an Internet connection in order to create and submit the digital sections of the AP Studio Art portfolio. A digital camera is also needed to capture digital images of students’ artworks.

Return AP Exams

All secure AP Exam materials (including used and unused exam booklets and master CDs) must be shipped before the close of the business day following the day of the school’s last scheduled exam of a particular AP Exam administration period (i.e., regular or alternate). For example, a school that administers its last regularly scheduled exam on a Friday must return its exams on the following Monday. Schools are billed twice the fee for each exam in shipments received after June 1.

Exam materials must be packed in the special cartons in which they were received. Using other cartons may delay receipt or result in a damaged shipment causing lost exam materials. The AP Coordinator’s Manual provides detailed instructions for packing and returning all exam materials.

Pay for AP Exams

June 15 is the postmark deadline for AP Exam payments and invoices. To calculate their payment, AP Coordinators must go to the AP Exam Ordering website at www.collegeboard.org/school and follow the instructions for generating, printing and returning their invoices with payment.

Overview of AP Exam Scores

Each AP Exam score is a weighted combination of the student's scores on the multiple-choice section and the free-response section. The final score is reported on a 5-point scale. Although colleges and universities are responsible for setting their own credit and placement policies, AP scores signify how qualified students are to receive college credit or placement:

- 5 = extremely well qualified
- 4 = well qualified
- 3 = qualified
- 2 = possibly qualified
- 1 = no recommendation

The AP Program periodically conducts studies to compare the performance of AP students with the performance of college students in parallel courses. For most AP subjects, results indicate that:

- AP Exam scores of 5 are equivalent to grades of A in the corresponding college course.
- AP Exam scores of 4 are equivalent to grades of A-, B+ and B in college.
- AP Exam scores of 3 are equivalent to grades of B-, C+ and C in college.

AP Score Reporting

AP score reports are provided in July to designated colleges, students, high schools and districts. The reports are cumulative and include scores for all the AP Exams a student has ever taken, unless the student has requested that one or more scores be withheld from a college, or canceled. Although most AP score reports are provided in July, some reports take longer to process because of problems with identification information or the late arrival of materials from the testing location. Students who have not received a score report by Sept. 1 should contact AP Services.

Reports, Services and Awards for Students

Each student automatically receives an AP score report that lists the student's cumulative AP Exam scores and any colleges to which his or her scores were sent. The following reporting services and awards are available to students. See page 29 for applicable fees.

- Scores by Phone: Students can get their exam scores by phone starting July 1.
- Additional Score Reports by Phone: Students can have a score report sent to colleges other than the one they specified on their AP answer sheet starting July 1.
- Score Withholding: Students can withhold one or more scores from the college specified on their AP answer sheet.
- Score Cancellation: Students can delete a score permanently from their records.
- Free-Response Booklets: Students can request their free-response booklets from the 2012 exam administration (booklets with unreleased questions will not be available to order). No comments, corrections or scores are included.
- Multiple-Choice Rescore Service: Students can request to have their multiple-choice answer sheets rescored by hand.
- AP Scholar Awards: Each September, through the AP Scholar Awards, the College Board recognizes high school students who have demonstrated exemplary college-level achievement on AP Exams. Certificates are sent directly to students who qualify, and a roster of award recipients is provided online to their secondary schools and districts. For more information, visit www.collegeboard.org/apscholar.
- The AP International Diploma (APID) is a globally recognized certificate that challenges students to display exceptional achievement across several disciplines. For more information regarding the APID, visit apcentral.collegeboard.org/apid (educators) or www.collegeboard.org/apid (students).

Students can find additional information on these score reporting services and awards in the Bulletin for AP Students and Parents, in the AP Student Pack and at www.collegeboard.org/apstudents.

Reports and Services for Schools

Schools access their score reports online at scores.collegeboard.org.

Score Reports Available Online

Each school automatically receives the score reports listed below.

- AP Instructional Planning Report
 The AP Instructional Planning Report compares students' performance in the multiple-choice and free-response sections and on specific topics in each AP Exam to the performance of all students, helping teachers target areas for increased attention and focus in the curriculum.
- AP Equity and Excellence Report
 This report displays the percentages of your school's entire 10th-, 11th- and 12th-grade classes who scored a 3 or higher on at least one AP Exam, and the percentage of the senior class that scored a 3 or higher on at least one AP Exam during high school.
- Current Year Score Summary
 This report shows the total number of each AP score (1 to 5) for each AP subject offered at your school.
- School Score Roster
 This cumulative roster lists all AP students at your school who tested during a specific administration and their AP scores.
- Five-Year School Score Summary
 This report contains five years of data (2008–2012) at the school, state and global levels. It also provides subject-specific summaries of total exams, scores and mean scores.
- Subject Score Roster
 This roster is available for each AP subject at your school, listing all students and their AP scores in that subject.
- Student Score Reports
 These are individual, cumulative reports for each AP student at your school, listing scores for each AP Exam taken by that student.
- College and University Totals
 This report lists which colleges and universities received your students' AP scores.
- AP Scholar Roster
 This roster shows all AP students who earned an AP Scholar Award, and their AP Exam scores.
- Student Datafile
 This downloadable file contains student score report data for each AP student who tested during a specific exam year. This information can be uploaded to other systems, or used for internal analysis and planning. Instructions for formatting the files for MS Excel are available at www.collegeboard.org/apdatafile.

Additional Score Reporting Services

In addition to the score reports available automatically online, schools can order score report labels and free-response booklets at www.collegeboard.org/school. Please note that scores on CD are no longer available; the same data are now available for free online in the student datafile.

- Score Labels
 Individual schools may order their students' scores on pressure-sensitive labels that attach to student records. Each label contains the student's name, Social Security number or birth date, the AP Exams taken, the years in which the exams were taken, and the scores received. The labels are sent in mid-July and cost $75 per set.

 Schools are responsible for maintaining student privacy and the confidentiality of AP scores. Only students have the right to forward their AP scores to colleges and universities. Therefore, schools should use caution in affixing AP score labels to transcripts or other records that will be sent to these institutions; doing so may result in a violation of students' rights and expose schools to potential lawsuits. To avoid this possibility, the AP Program strongly suggests that schools institute one of the following procedures:
 - Affix the AP score label to the back of the transcript and copy only the front of the transcript when sending it to colleges.
 - Have students sign a release permitting the school to put the score report label on the front of the transcript. Keep the signed releases with students' files.
- Free-Response Booklets
 Schools may request their students' free-response booklets (paper format). Schools that plan to make this request should note that their order includes the entire school's booklets minus those requested by students. Schools cannot limit their order to booklets for certain students or certain exams. No comments, corrections or scores are included.

The fee is based on the number of booklets received by the school:

- 1–20: $50
- 21–50: $100
- 51–100: $150
- More than 100: $250

The deadline for ordering booklets is Sept. 15; booklets are sent to schools beginning in mid-October. Free-response booklets are not available for exams whose free-response questions are not released on the College Board website 48 hours after the exam administration (e.g., late-testing exams).

Reports and Services for School Districts

School districts can access AP score reports for free online at scores.collegeboard.org. Hard-copy score reports are no longer available for districts.

Authorized district administrators automatically have free online access to the following reports for the schools in their district: five-year school score summary, AP Instructional Planning Report, AP Equity and Excellence Report, current year score summary, school score roster, subject score roster, and college and university totals. See page 24 for descriptions of these reports. Reports are available by individual school, in aggregate or both.

In addition to the reports described above, districts will also have access to the following summary reports online:

- District Summary by School
Contains a summary of the total numbers and percentages of each AP score (1 to 5) by subject in your district, and total number of exams, by subject, given by each school in your district.
- District Summary by Student Demographics
Includes summaries of AP scores in your district by grade level, ethnicity, gender and fee-reduction status.
- District Summary with Comparable Groups
Compares AP scores in your district to comparable groups overall (i.e., state, nation, global). Comparisons include mean score, standard deviation, and number of schools per exam.

These reports are similar to the paper summary reports districts have ordered for a fee in the past. These reports are only available for each year beginning with the 2010 exam administration. Demographic data by attendance, school type and students' best language are no longer available.

For more information visit www.collegeboard.org/apdistrictscores.

Reports and Services for Colleges and Universities

Students designate one college to receive their AP score report at the time of the exam. Designated colleges automatically receive paper reports in July. Colleges can also receive these data in the following formats by completing the College AP Score Reporting Services Order Form sent to each college in the spring. Colleges that do not receive this form or that wish to make a modification to their current delivery model should contact AP Services directly.

Internet Delivery of Scores

AP score data for colleges and universities are available free of charge via the Web in a nondelimited flat-file format (ASCII). Institutions that choose this service will need to purchase the required software (approximately $200 — prices subject to change). After scores are processed, data will be put on a secure server, which will trigger an email message informing institutions that these data are available for download. The email contains an Internet address that can then be accessed to collect, save and process the data.

To receive scores electronically for initial July 2012 reporting, colleges must elect to participate no later than May 13, 2012. Requests received after May 13 will be accommodated with follow-up score reporting.

For more information about this service, visit www.ets.org/esr or do one of the following:

- Email ap.esr@ets.org
- Call 877-274-6474 toll free in the United States and Canada (press the option for Internet Delivery of Scores); all others, call 609-771-7091
- Fax 609-771-7766

Score Reports on CD and Follow-Up Service

The same data on the AP score reports are available on CD (ASCII format). The fee is $50 and the data are sent to institutions in mid-July. Users are responsible for formatting the data files. Instructions for formatting files for MS Excel are available at www.collegeboard.org/apdisc.

Colleges can also receive transcript reports produced after July, once a month for a year, by ordering the follow-up service. The fee for this service is $110.
