Leading UK magazine Food & Travel details Athens gastronomic and wine revival in a 12-page feature focusing on chefs and producers who are inspired by country's ancient traditions to create a modern food scene.

"We have corrupted the meaning of Greek-food related words. For the ancients, 'diet' meant 'way of life', not calorie counting, and 'gastronomy', the 'art and science of good eating'".

ATHENS GASTRONOMY- UK MEDIA TRIP

Food & Travel magazine pays tribute to the Athenian culinary heritage

"Today's Athenian Agora, the Central Market, lies a 15minute walk to the north. Even in the 1970's this huge, block-long market, was the beating hearty of Athens, right at the centre of its daily life.

During her trip, Rosemary Barron had the opportunity to meet chefs and producers, explore Greek culinary traditions and be introduced to the modern Athenian gastronomy scene.

Découvrir les petits villages par les tavernes

Passé Chora, Tinos se découvre en paysages tortueux, à la beauté âpre et sauvage. Au creux de ses montagnes, sur les versants escarpés de ses côtes, se nichent une kyrielle de villages - près d'une cinquantaine -, promesses, rarement trahies, de trésors architecturaux et de charme. À défaut de pouvoir tous les visiter, s'initier à la cuisine tiniote traditionnelle permet, l'air de rien, de découvrir ceux aue les circuits touristiques mentionnent le moins. On dévale ainsi les jolies ruelles de Ktikados pour s'attabler sous la pergola de vignes et de bougainvilliers de Drosia, taverne séculaire et familiale, avec vue plongeante sur l'Égée. Artichauts marinés, louza, balaka... aiguisent l'appétit, comblé dans la foulée par la généreuse froutalia, omelette aux pommes de terre rissolées, fromage et loukaniko. De même, on s'aventure plus à l'Est, au cœur de l'adorable village de Mirsini, pour savourer, à l'instar des locaux, sur une placette fleurie, les délicieuses recettes de Teresa. mitonnées chaque jour au gré des récoltes du jardin.

S'enivrer de paysages lunaires

Tinos surprend par la variété de ses paysages. En s'enfonçant vers l'Est et le village de Volax, la route serpente entre des montagnes d'herbe rase constellées d'un chaos de granit entre lesquels crapahutent quelques chèvres. À Gardari, les vignes de Volacus Wine épousent ce décor minéral qui ondoie jusque la mer. Mikalis Kontizas y produit un vin naturel, sec, léger et fleuri, qui se déguste dans l'enceinte d'une ancienne bergerie, plantée au milieu de ce spectacle lunaire. Non loin de là, Jérôme Binda égrène les parcelles de son domaine de Kalathas, redonnant vie aux cépages autochtones délaissés. Ici encore, le vin est vivant et naturel, et exhale, cette fois, des arômes un peu plus corsés.

However, the Orthodox Lourdes is also a foster mother with lively gastronomic traditions, an excellent gateway to the culinary diversity of the Cyclades. Following a group press trip to Western Greece in May 2018, a travel feature was published in German top tier newspaper DIE WELT, noting that Western Greece, an underestimated destination, has white spots, although there is the longest sandy beach in the country and some picturesque lagoons.

"Western Greece has to offer a place that everyone has heard before: the ancient Olympia, where the Olympic fire has been lit since 1936, lies only two hours by car south of Nafpaktos on the Peloponnese. Non-hellenes, however, often have to google Mesolongi, founded in the 13th century by pirates: Despite the continuing travel trend in Greece, which is attracting millions of German tourists in particular to the islands, the original region around the lagoon city is still one of the well-kept secrets of Greek visitors."

Following a road trip to Kavala, Xanthi, Drama and Alexandroupoli, two additional stories were published for the land where turtles sometimes fly, where there is a lot of history, wine tasting, kayaking and an exciting stalactite cave to experience.

"Very slowly the kayak drives down the Nestos. The river meandering through a national park is framed by steep rocks in the crevices of which young willow trees are looking for a foothold. Only a few corrections are required to keep the boat on course in shallow water."

Parmi tous les voyages culinaires que j'ai faits, et il y en a déjà beaucoup (ils sont tous ICI), celui de Tinos restera gravé comme étant l'un des plus incroyables. Pour la nourriture bien súr, mais surtout pour toutes les personnes qui y ont participé et qui ont tout fait pour nous préparer les meilleurs plats possibles. J'ai été invité à participer avec d'autres blogueurs culinaires. C'est donc la troisième fois que cela m'arrive. Et c'est fantastique car tout est axé autour de la cuisine du pays, et ici de l'Ile de Tinos. Je tiens plus particulièrement à remercier chaleureusement Angelica, notre guide et qui est devenue, je suis sûr, une amie que je reverrai très bientôt avec son mari et ses enfants. Grâce à elle, je vais publier plusieurs recettes grecques. Un grand merci aussi à Giota et Mikela de Discover Greece qui ont organisé cet évhemment et avec qui je vais repartir en septembre à Athènes pour un nouveau festival culinaire ! https://www.discovergreece.com/

Lifestyle bloggers cruise their way through the Aegean

Three Spanish travel and lifestyle digital influencers participated in a seven-day Aegean island-hopping adventure with Celestyal Cruises in early July. Throughout the group trip, the influencers published multiple real-time posts on their social media channels, followed by several blog posts and vlogs highlighting their favourite beaches, traditional villages and culinary experiences on Mykonos, Milos, Santorini, Samos and Crete.

Travel blogging couple live the absolute romance in Mykonos

Crucero por las Islas Griegas Dias 1 y 2: Mykonos.

El verano está en su mejor momento, y nosotros con él. Había llegado el día de vivir una experiencia viajera totalmente diferente a la que estábamos acostumbrados, unas vacaciones en el mar nos esperaban con los brazos abiertos y nosotros estábamos ansiosos por vivirlas y disfrutarlas. Hoy empezamos a contaros nuestro crucero de siete días por las Islas Griegas de la mano de Discover Greece y la compañía Celestyal Cruise. ¿Os subís a bordo con nosotros?

Nunca nos habíamos planteado la idea de viajar en crucero, quizás tú tampoco, aunque nunca lo habíamos descartado, y este verano se nos presentó la oportunidad, ya que teniamos una semana de vacaciones suelta en Julio y queríamos aprovecharla. Las Islas Griegas fueron el destino seleccionado, y aunque en esta época del año suelen recibir bastante turismo, no nos importaba, queríamos establecer este primer contacto con ellas y ver si nos atrapaban de esa manera que dice la gente como para volver... al final del viaje os daréis cuenta de lo que os hablo tras contaros nuestra primera experiencia en un crucero.

Como os hemos comentado antes, nuestro crucero pertenecía a la compañía Celestyal Cruise, y era el Crucero Egeo Idílico de 7 días. Esta compañía tiene tres tipos de cruceros: Celestyal Olympia, Celestyal Nefely y Celestyal Crystal; el nuestro fue éste último, el cual tiene una capacidad para 1.200 personas a bordo, siendo así muy familiar y acogedor. Consta de 10 plantas (o cubiertas), en las cuales podemos encontrar: diferentes restaurantes, un buffet, gimnasio, spa, sala de espectáculos, jacuzzi exterior en la cubierta 5, piscina exterior con zona de bar y soldrium con hamacas, discoteca, casino, librería, zona infantil y tiendas en la zona de la recepción.

Spanish travel blogging couple Sonja & John, of Elmundoesmejorcontigo.com, published their first blogs on Mykonos, Santorini and Milos following the Celestyal Cruises trip. On the blog post dedicated to Mykonos, they describe in details the experiences lived and especially the feelings created by simple things like the sunset at Little Venice, a delicious meal, etc.

"Before the sun starts to fall, we arrive at the Mykonos Windmills area, one of the most symbolic. They are in the Chora area, on a hill overlooking the sea and little venice. In their origin they served to grind the grain of the fields of the island, taking advantage of the strong winds of the zone, although at the moment they are no longer in operation."

Sonja & John published a separate blog post on Milos, where they explain the reasons why they consider Milos an unexplored paradise, with secret beaches, hidden caves, delicious food and locals who have a story to tell.

"We arrived at the amazing beach of Sarakiniko, we could not imagine at first that this island had so much to offer, I have I have already told John that I want to return to this island soon because it has stolen my heart. Sculpted naturally by volcanic eruptions, it seems that in a matter of seconds you have moved to a totally lunar landscape".

On their third stop, Sonja & John, had the opportunity to spend two days in the magnificent island of Santorini, and a lifetime experience, as described. During their visit, they explored Santorini's cute back alleys, enjoyed the famous sunset and enjoyed a private wine-tasting experience of famous Santorini wines. Their blog posts on Samos and Heraklion will soon be published.

"This island, and its contiguous islets, are today the rest of the caldera of a volcano that exploded in the seventeenth century BC. Although its population is small, it must be taken into account that it is a spectacular stopover for dozens of holiday cruise ships and hundreds of sailboats moored in its small coves, at the foot of its steep slopes or in the middle of the natural anchorage formed by the sunken caldera of the ancient volcano."

UK GROUP TRIP – BLOGTROTTERS 2018

Travel blogger enjoys wine and beach life on Santorini

During my recent trip with Celeshylla Cruties around the Agean. I had the opportunity to expense some of the top trings to do in Santonin, Greece. The most visited among all Greek islands, Santonin is mostly recognised by those beauful white houses cascading from hillipps and the small bube-rooted churchs. Although that might be the only image you're seen of Santonin, the stand has a lot more to other. So, continue reading, as I will share with you some of the implights of my tho the thismal.

Top Things To Do In Santorini, Greece

Go On A Wine Tasting Tour

Santorini is one of the oldest wine-producing regions in the world and when driving around the island, you will see several wineyards here and there. At first, you may not realize they are vineyards, since the trees are kept closer to the ground, so as to from a natural basite that will protect the grapes from the strong winds.

Watch Locals Cliff Dive On Kamari Beach

Genari beach is another of the many dark-sand beaches in Santonini. It is busier than Perissa, with many restaurants ined up and more sun loungers. Cliff dwing is a popular sport among locals, so you will see many islanders climbing up he rocky hill and jumping into the water from 20 or 30 metres high.

UKtravelbloggerPedroRichardson, ofTravel withPedro,published a travel blog post onSantorini, singling out the island'swines, old port and watching localsdive off cliffs at Kamari among thehighlights.Further blog posts arescheduled.

UK GROUP TRIP – BLOGTROTTERS 2018

UK blogger describes an ideal day on Samos

Places To Visit In Samos In One Day

If you want to see what the island is all about, you will need at least a full week. But if like me, you can only spend one day in Samos, you will want to see as many things as you can. So here are my suggestions for places to visit in Samos in one day.

Stroll Around Kokkari Town

Kokkari is one of fourists' flavourite places to visit in Samos – including myself – and one of the most developed towns on the island. With just over a thousand inhabitants, it is the only town in Samos that had a population growth in the tatest census.

Swim on Tsamadou Beach

During my stay in Samos, we drove 2 miles from Kokkari, we stopped on top of a hill. Looking down, we had the most incredible views of Tsamadou Beach hidden down below with its spatialing blue waters. Before going to the beach, you can buy some drinks and snacks at the bar to take down with you. Otherwise, you can also order your drinks and they will deliver it with a small lift system that works like a mini cable car.

Tsamadou Beach is quite long and surrounded by lush green mountains, with one end serving as a nude beach, and the other part for those who prefer to keep their privates private. Sun loungers here cost only 4€ per hour, compared to 30€ in Mykonos.

Even though I enjoyed every single place I visited in Samos, I must confess It was hard to leave Tsamadou Beach. The water was that addictive shade of Greek blue with the perfect temperature (around low 20sC, I'd say) and swimming was easy.

Visit The Monastery of Panagia Spiliani

Up in the mountains not far from Pythagotion, you will find the small Monastery of Panagia Spiliani. When you arrive, you will be greeted by much cooler temperatures than down the coast, some much-deserved shade and will find some small olive groves and orange trees.

You will also have some amazing views of Pymagoton, small ruins and the Turkins coast. But the man attraction at Panagia Spilarii is a small cave church, which gives the name to the monatery (The Cave of the Vrigin Mary). In the cave church, you will see the con of the Vrigin of the Caves. Legind says that the con was core. Solon and zoke into five pieces when it fell into the sea. After some time, the five pieces were carried by the sea and returned to Samos, where locals restored and returned to the monatery. In his second blog post featuring Samos, UK travel blogger Pedro Richardson, of Travel with Pedro, outlines the best experiences to live on Samos such as a visit at the Wine Museum of Samos, swim at Tsamadou beach or exploring the island's capital, Pythagorion, when visiting the island for one day.

"Wine has been produced in Samos since ancient times. In fact, back then, Samos was particularly rich because of its wine production. Up until today, the island is covered with vineyards and you can taste the local wines at the Wine Museum of Samos.."

DÉCOUVRIR LES ÎLES GRECQUES Publié le 1 août 2018 par Nicolas

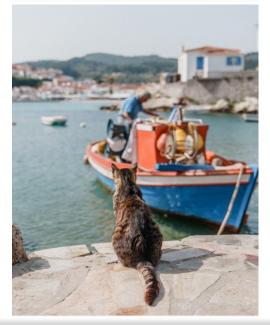

Fin Mai nous avons été invités par Discover Greece à découvrir les îles Grecques avec Margot et Pauline. Première fois pour toute l'équipe dans cette région qui fait tant rêver et première croisière pour Margot.

Nous sommes arrivés à Athènes en avion via la compagnie Aegan, direction le Port du Pirée pour embarquer à bord du Celestyal Crystal pour un voyage de 6 jours dans les îles de Mykonos, Mylos, Santorin et Héraklion.

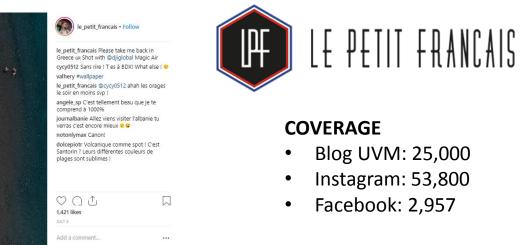

Au cours de la semaine nous avions prévu des excursions privées et en groupe selon les endroits que nous visitions.

— MYKONOS —

Nous avons commencé notre voyage par une matinée à Delos Island, l'ile sacrée où est né Apollon. Nous nous sommes baladés avec notre guide et un groupe d'une trentaine de personnes au sein des ruines de l'île qui laissent imaginer la grandeur d'autrefois. L'endroit est beau mais j'ai vite préféré m'éloigner du groupe pour me pedre dans les vestiges seuls à mon rythme.

Further to his participation in the 7days cruise trip to the Aegean islands, French lifestyle and travel blogger, Nicolas Plasmondon of Lepetitfrancais.com published an extensive blog post describing his cruise trip and highlighting the most significate experiences from each island such as the visit at Delos island, Sarakiniko beach in Milos, black sand beach at Kamari, etc.

The hour of the aperitif arriving we made a stop on the way back to the restaurant Kivotos, we tasted local dishes including Koufeto a dessert made of cottage cheese, almonds, pickles and honey. Make a stop if the opportunity arises because the place is worth seeing.
