

Little Red Riding Hood

In a little house by the woods there lived a happy little girl. She loved to pick flowers and listen to the birds sing. She wore a red cape with a little red hood. So she was called Little Red Riding Hood.

Little Red Riding Hood's mother asked her to take a basket of cookies to her grandmother. Grandmother lived on the other side of the woods. Little Red Riding Hood took the basket. Her mother said, "Don't stop along the way. Don't talk to strangers. There are dangers in the woods."

Little Red Riding Hood took the basket and skipped off along the path. She picked some flowers and put them in the basket. Then she stopped to listen to the birds sing. Little Red Riding Hood started off down the path again. A big wolf stepped out from behind a tree. "Where are you going, little girl?"

Red Riding Hood smiled. She said, "I'm taking these to my grandmother. She lives on the other side of the woods. But I mustn't stop. My mother says that there are dangers in the woods."

The wolf smiled, "Your mother is right. Hurry on to your grandmother's house." Soon Little Red Riding Hood was out of sight. The wolf ran ahead to Grandmother's house. He knocked on the door.

A voice from inside asked, "Who is there?"

"It is I, Little Red Riding Hood. I have brought you a basket of cookies," said the wolf. Grandmother opened the door. The wolf grabbed her and locked her in the closet. He put on Grandmother's nightgown. He climbed into her bed.

Just a few minutes later, Little Red Riding Hood knocked on Grandmother's door. "Grandmother, Grandmother, I have cookies and flowers for you."

From inside a voice called out, "Come in. Come in. I'm in my bed."

Little Red Riding Hood hurried into Grandmother's bedroom. She saw the wolf's big eyes. She said, "Oh, Grandmother, what big eyes you have!"

The wolf answered in a sweet grandmotherly voice, “All the better to see you, my dear.”

Then Little Red Riding Hood saw the wolf’s big ears. She said, “Oh, Grandmother, what big ears you have!”

The wolf answered meekly, “All the better to hear you, my dear.”

Then Little Red Riding Hood saw the wolf’s big white teeth. She said, “Oh, Grandmother, what big teeth you have.”

The wolf jumped out of bed and grabbed Little Red Riding Hood. “All the better to eat you, my dear.”

Little Red Riding Hood screamed. A hunter in the woods heard the scream. He rushed to Grandmother’s house. He caught the wolf and saved Little Red Riding Hood. Together they found Grandmother in the closet. Grandmother and Little Red Riding Hood asked the hunter to share the cookies. When Little Red Riding Hood went home, the hunter walked with her through the woods.
