GLOSSARY OF SOME COMMON TERMS

PART NAME	DESCRIPTION
Battery Relay	Part of an EI system. Small box with two LED's on it to indicate pilot & burner status.
Block, Terminal	A connection point for a collection of wires on a fireplace. Can be for lights, spill-switch connections, or other purposes.
Burner, (all types)	Portion of a gas fireplace where gas is distributed to the combustion chamber from the orifice & ignited. Can be one of many styles; pan, tube, phazeramic, fiber, or a combination of these.
Ceramic Electrode	Portion of a pilot assembly that transmits a spark to light the fuel from the pilot hood.
Control Module	Central component of an EI system. Controls activation of valve and pilot assembly.
Door, Frame	The metal frame of a door on a gas fireplace. Does not include glass, or gasket material
Door, Assembly	A complete door for a fireplace, stove or insert. Includes glass, frame and gasket.
DSI	Brand name. Style of pilot assemblies & valves used in our fireplaces.
EI	Electronic Ignition system. Method of lighting a fireplace.
Embers, Charcoal	Black, ceramic chips that resemble charcoal pieces. Decorative. Used to conceal log support tray.
Embers, Glowing	Fibrous material used over some main burner ports to add glowing effect & conceal burner ports.
FCM/Fan Control Module	Device used with the SIT GTMF 'Proflame' remote system. Features 3 120V outlets, 2 of which are controlled by the remote system; fan & auxilliary. Provides power to these aspects.
Firestop	Noncombustible metal plate with a hole in it for venting to pass through. Used to maintain clearances to combustibles. May be flat, or have additional brackets/spacers on it depending on fireplace needs.
Gasket	A material used to create a seal between various components in a fireplace. Can be one of many styles; rope, flat, etc.
GT(X)	Series of remote control system by SIT. Can be GT, GTMF, GTMFS, or other. Letter designations indicate the various functions on the remote system.
Orifice, pilot	The component in a pilot assembly that controls the amount of gas that will transmit from the pilot hood, for establishing the pilot flame in a gas appliance. Also known as an 'injector'.
Orifice, main burner	The component in a gas fireplace burner that controls the overall BTU of the appliance at a given manifold pressure. (*NOTE: Orifice part #'s will be changing from W455's to W456's over the coming months, and may result in sizing change. As a result, when ordering a W455-00yy (where 'yy' is the part number), you may instead receive a W456-00xx, where 'xx' is the orifice size.)
Piezo Ignitor	Push-button sparker. Method of lighting a millivolt gas fireplace pilot burner.
Pilot Assembly	A collection of one or more of the following; pilot injector, pilot hood, pilot bracket and pilot tube. (EI models will also include a flame sensor) Usually a stripped-down version of a complete pilot assembly on a gas fireplace.
Pilot Assembly, Complete	All pilot ignition & generator (or sensor) components. May include a combination of the following; thermopile, thermocouple, pilot hood, bracket, pilot orifice, pilot tube, ceramic electrode & cable. (Depending on model.)
Pilot Tube	Aluminum tube that conducts gas from the valve, to the pilot assembly.
PSE	Brand name. Style of pilot assembly used on some of our gas fireplaces.
Receiver	The wired/built-in portion of a remote system.
Sensor, Flame	Portion of an EI pilot assembly used for flame rectification. Heats & completes circuit, signalling control module to send gas to main burner.
Sensor, Heat	A bimetallic disc used for sensing heat. Normally open, it heats & closes an electric circuit.
SIT	Brand name. Style of pilot assemblies, valves, remotes and EI systems used in our fireplaces.
Switch, Rocker	An on/off switch that rocks (rather than trips) when pressed. One side of the switch is raised while the other side is depressed.
Switch, Spill	A bimetallic disc similar to a heat sensor, except default switch position is normally closed. When heated, contacts open to break circuit.
Thermopile	Also referred to informally as 'powerpile'. Main millivolt generator used to activate main burner of a millivolt gas fireplace
Thermocouple	Millivolt generator used to allow the pilot light (only) to hold in a magnet coil on a millivolt gas fireplace.
Transmitter	The handheld portion of a remote system. Transmits command signals to receiver
Transformer	An adapter/power plug that supplies power to a device (lights, EI system, etc). Transformers change (transform) line voltage (120V) down to a lower voltage (ie. 3V, 9V, 12V, etc.)
Top Convertible	A style of pilot hood (usually SIT) that is able to be pulled off from the top of the pilot assembly, allowing for an easier conversion between fuel types.
Valve	Gas control device that allows a gas fireplace to turn on & off. Controls flow of fuel entering from the supply line, out to the combustion chamber of the appliance.
Valve, turbo	A secondary gas control valve that usually controls an additional burner in a gas fireplace. Adds additional BTU's to a gas fireplace.
Wiring Harness	A collection of wires used to connect one or more electrical components/devices together.
