

Resources for People with Disabilities

Updated February 23, 2021

People with disabilities (PwD) and/or certain ongoing health problems, especially people who have problems with their lungs or with fighting off illness, are at a higher risk of getting very sick if they get COVID-19. The Cambridge Commission for Persons with Disabilities (CCPD) has put together this list of resources to help you get your basic needs met during this public health crisis.

Together we can keep our most vulnerable residents safe and healthy, both physically and mentally, by taking specific steps. The Cambridge Public Health Department has listed information about COVID-19 prevention, symptoms, testing, and care at www.cambridgema.gov/covid19/publichealth

- If you or a loved one have a fever of 100.4°F or higher, cough or shortness of breath, it is very important that you contact your doctor or primary healthcare provider for guidance.
- If you do not have a primary healthcare provider or you have general questions about COVID-19, you can also call the Massachusetts COVID-19 Information Line at 2-1-1.
- If you are having a medical or mental health emergency, call or text 9-1-1 immediately.

To help prevent the spread of COVID-19, the CCPD office is closed to in-person visits until further notice. You can contact them with general disability-related questions by leaving a voicemail at (617) 349-4692 or emailing at ccpd@cambridgema.gov. Please remember that CCPD staff are unable to give any medical or legal advice.

NOTE: We regret that we are unable to respond to requests from other entities to add their information to this page.
