- 1.1. The purpose of this document is to describe the responsibilities and expected behavior of those using State of Maine information or information assets. The rules of behavior (RoB) apply to both general and privileged users and are based on controls established by NIST 800-53 Rev. 4.1 This document is not intended to replace or address standards for professional conduct outside of the information security context. This document represents the baseline security controls; additional RoB may be necessary for different types of controlled data based on State and Federal law, regulation, and policy.

2.0. Scope

- 2.1. This document applies to all State of Maine personnel, both employees and contractors, with access to Executive Branch information assets, irrespective of location, or information assets from other State government branches that use the State network;

4.0. Management Commitment

- 4.1. The State of Maine is committed to following this document.

5.0. Personnel Acknowledgment

All personnel must sign the appropriate Acknowledgment Forms (General Users and Privileged Users) indicating that they have read, understand and agree to abide by the RoB prior to gaining access to systems and data. Personnel are also required to read the RoB when they are revised or updated and re-sign the Acknowledgment Form.

6.0. Procedures

- 6.1. The following serve as the baseline RoB for all general users, as well as additional rules for privileged users that are implemented to meet security planning requirements.
- 6.2. General Rules (PL-4 to include CE-1).
 - 6.2.1. All users MUST:
 - 6.2.1.1. Take personal responsibility to protect State information and information systems.

- 6.2.1.7. Properly secure all State information and information assets that are non-public in nature in accordance with its data classification (TLP: Green, Amber and Red) in all areas, at work and remotely, and in any form (e.g. digital, paper etc.).
- 6.2.1.8. Ensure that mobile media and devices that contain sensitive or confidential information (TLP Amber and TLP: Red) follow the mandate that this information must be in a protected environment at all times, or it must be encrypted; if clarification is needed as to whether an environment is adequately protected, users must seek guidance from the Chief Information Security Officer (CISO).

discounts, marketing, etc.), setting up a personal business or website, or signing up for personal memberships.

- 6.2.2.19. Use personal email accounts to conduct State business, regardless of whether the device is State-issued or otherwise.
- 6.2.2.20. Use personal email accounts on State-issued devices.
- 6.2.2.21. 6.3. Rules for Privileged Users.

- 6.3.1. Privileged users have network accounts with elevated privileges that grant them greater access to State information assets than non-privileged (general) users. These privileges are typically allocated to system, network, security, and database administrators, as well as other IT administrators. The compromise of a privileged user account may expose the State's information assets to a high level of risk; therefore, privileged user accounts require additional safeguards.

⁶ <https://www1.maine.gov/bhr/sites/maine.gov.bhr/files/inline-files/csbull13-1M.pdf>

Rules of Behavior (PL-4)

- 6.3.2. Due to privileged access rights, privileged users must comply with RoB standards higher than ordinary users and sign an additional Acknowledgment Form for Privileged Users (Appendix B).
- 6.3.3. The RoB Acknowledgment Form for Privileged Users is an addendum to the RoB for all general users. It provides mandatory requirements for the appropriate use and handling of OIT information systems and assets for all privileged users, including State employees, contractors, and other staff who possess privileged access to OIT information systems and assets.
- 6.3.4. Each Agency must maintain a list of Privileged Users, the privileged accounts those users have access to, the permissions granted to each privileged account, and the authentication technology or combination of technologies required to use each privileged account.
- 6.3.5. System Administration account (i.e. 'root') access must be limited to as small a group as possible based on the Principle of Least Privilege. For example, the 'root' account should not be used for tasks that can be completed via a non-privileged account.
- 6.3.6. Any administrators must first login as themselves (ordinary user) before escalating privileges to that of an administrator.

6.4. Expectation of Privacy:

- 6.4.1. Users of State information assets have no expectation of privacy while accessing OIT or State agency computers, networks, e-mail, or any other State information assets and may be monitored, recorded and audited. Any State information assets must be used with the understanding that such use may not be secure, is not private, is not anonymous, and may be subject to disclosure under the Maine Freedom of Access Act (FOAA), 1 MRSA § 400 et seq., or other applicable legal authority.
- 6.4.2. In order to protect State information assets against information security threats and ensure compliance with the State and agency-specific policies, as well as applicable contractual, regulatory, and statutory requirements, State agencies have the right to implement the following security monitoring technologies and systems on any State-owned I.T. equipment and resources (including all mobile devices subject to the Mobile Device Policy,⁸ including BYOD and state-issued devices): anti-virus/anti-malware software, firewalls, host and network intrusion protection and intrusion detection systems, vulnerability management systems, database and application monitoring systems, data loss prevention, web and e-mail content filtering systems; and any other related technologies necessary to secure the State's information assets.

Rules of Behavior (PL-4)

Retention of these documents will be subject to any future State Archives General Schedule revisions that cover these categories.

10.0. Public Records Exceptions

- 10.1. Under the Maine Freedom of Access Act, certain public records exceptions may limit disclosure of agency records related to information technology infrastructure and systems, as well as security plans, procedures, or risk assessments. Information contained in these records may be disclosed to the Legislature, or, in the case of a political or administrative subdivision, to municipal officials or board members under conditions that protect the information from further disclosure.
