18TH SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME

AUGUST 2, 2015

Last weekend at Masses I announced a change in the leadership of our Catholic school located in Vermillion. At the Masses, I used the pro-noun our specifically because the school is such an integral part of our three-parish community. Although I do not have any additional specifics to share at this time, I believe that this next year has the potential to become one of the best ever. This is a well founded hope based on the new teachers we have starting, a continuation of the Differentiated Instruction implementation through the help of an outside consultant, expanded opportunities for students needing additional math help as well as a new look at the basics that have made Catholic schools so successful in educating our children in centuries past. The school community is made up of parishioners who generously offer their financial support to subsidize the daily operations, teachers who put in lots of hours being compensated at rates lower than the public system, parents who have made the conscious decision through faith to send their children to our school as well as a student body itself who bring so much energy and enthusiasm for learning. We can not be successful unless we have all these elements - along with a spirit of prayer and thanksgiving for the opportunities the Lord gives us. I sincerely hope and pray that none of the staffing changes would prevent parents from choosing to continue sending their children to St. John's and I also hope that change might present another opportunity for families to consider enrolling their children in our school. We are in an active search for a new principal who I will rely on to lead the school into the future, but I am mindful of my obligations and responsibilities also. Thank you for your continued prayers and support of our school.

Many of you who have driven down Main Street in Vermillion this past week most certainly saw some trucks and equipment outside the rectory working on the landscaping. I myself was surprised when I returned from my 2 day conference in St Paul and saw the extent of what was being done. I have been told that this is a long term project to work on drawing water away from the rectory structure itself and diverting it. Over time the sidewalks have sunk and become lower than the driveway which has caused water to channel back towards the house. There is a high probability that this will be successful and will preserve the foundation and reduce moisture in the basement. My sincere gratitude to all those who are spearheading this project.

A new tradition? The parish that I served at as a transitional Deacon had the custom of ending the daily Mass with the Prayer of St. Michael. It was suggested that we try this here so that rather than recessing out in silence after daily Mass, we will as a community recite this prayer. I like that idea and hope that it will catch on. This will not have any effect on Sunday Masses as we will end with the hymn as normal.

“St. Michael the Archangel, defend us in battle. Be our defense against the wickedness and snares of the Devil. May God rebuke him, we humbly pray, and do thou, O Prince of the heavenly hosts, by the power of God, thrust into hell Satan, and all the evil spirits, who prowl about the world seeking the ruin of souls. Amen...”

Peace, Fr. Cole

The Evolution of My Preaching

When I was taking Homiletics at the seminary, the class was encouraged to preach without notes. I understand the reasoning behind it, but lack the courage and confidence and commitment to pull it off. So, I always used a script. I would write it out, practice it, and deliver it.

When I was ordained a deacon, I asked my teaching parish supervisor if I could preach the following Sunday since my mother would be in town to hear me. Told me yes, but then he said, “Don’t read it.” “But I use a script,” I told him. He replied that it was OK to have a script, but not to deliver it like I was reading it to them. I understood what he meant. I have seen guys in the seminary with lively personalities, but when it was their turn to preach, they would read their homilies in such a way that they could not engage the listener and their lively personality was suppressed. They were boring and hard to follow. Homiletics is about breaking open the Word and applying to how we are to live life in today’s world. In a sense, we are delivering a message, and if we are not engaging, people tend to go to their happy place for the remainder of the homily. After all, what good is a homily if nobody is listening to it? One could have the most brilliant and inspiring words printed on that page, but if the preacher does not deliver the good, the brilliant and inspiring message goes to waste.

One note about preaching from a script versus preaching without notes: There are some who have the idea that if preachers use script, there is a lack of trust in the Holy Spirit to help the deliver the message. I would beg to differ. The preacher is engaged with the Holy Spirit during the homily prep to find the right words and meanings. That is true for both styles. The delivery of the homily is the culmination of that engagement of the Holy Spirit starting with the prep.

For the first three years of my priesthood, I used a script. Because of that, for the most part, I was married to the ambo. My pastor at the time was very unimpressed with my preaching, and wanted me to get some coaching on it. The person coaching me told me that I needed to be engaging and encouraged me to try to preach without notes and to move away from the ambo. At that time, I still lacked the confidence to go without a script because I was in the habit of writing tight homilies and was afraid of missing a step. However, I started moving away from the ambo and my script was on index cards. Often, I would tell a story at the beginning as a hook, and found that since I knew the story, I did not need to refer to the index cards that much. As a result, at the end of my first assignment, I found I was a little more engaging.

My next assignment, I was a little braver in attempting to preach without note. However, the pastor discouraged me from doing it because he said he was told by certain folks that sounded hesitant and was reaching for words and ideas. So, bravery to preach without notes was put on hold.

The following year, I was at a new assignment and started to go without notes from time to time, but by the end that assignment, I preached exclusively without notes on Sundays. Over those years, my confidence in the meaning of the Gospel passages increased, thus increasing my confidence to go without notes. I still use a script for daily Mass, weddings, and funerals. The downside of preaching without notes is I do have a hard copy of the homily. When I preached from a script, people would occasion ask for a copy.

Another thing that has changed in my preaching is that I tend to tell less stories. The thing about stories is that they can be very useful if they fit well with the scripture passages. If I do not have a story or a brilliant analogy that fits, I will force the issue, and just launch into the lesson of the Gospel passage. In my infant stages of priesthood, I always had a story or a “clever” analogy to use a theme for my ultimate message. Today, I am more to let the Gospel do the talking, and to trust in the Holy Spirit to help me get the point across.—TB

Where do we begin....to thank Norma for all she has contributed to St. Joseph's Parish and to the area parishes as well?! This past Friday, July 31 was Norma's last day as the Youth Minister at our parish. She has shared her many talents and gazillions of hours as:

- Faith Formation Director for many years
- Brought Vacation Bible School to the parish
- Planned World Youth Day trips
- Mission trips Youth Minister
- Building up Pulse group
- Wednesday Night Supers

When she wasn't employed by St. Joseph, she still volunteered with youth events as a Catechist, chaperone, fundraisers, VBS decorating/Station Leader, Cana Supper, Garage Sales. There have just been so many events that her special creativity has awed us all.

On the restroom project the walls were prepared to have drywall and tile installed. The plumbers and electricians will be working on completing their work in the coming days.

The service doors on the east and west sides of the church were hung this week and the carpet installers came out to remedy the issue we had with the elevator door snagging the carpet and becoming stuck open.

The Archdiocese of Saint Paul and Minneapolis is sponsoring a Survivors Support Group for victims/survivors of sexual abuse by Catholic clergy. Independent professionals experienced in working with survivors of sexual abuse will be facilitating this group, which will begin meeting this September. Those who would benefit from sharing their survival story may call Canvas Health at (651) 291-4497 for more information. Please pray for victims/survivors of sexual abuse by clergy, as well as for healing in our local Church.

Jesus said to them, "Amen, amen, I say to you, it was not Moses who gave the bread from heaven; my Father gives you the true bread from heaven. For the bread of God is that which comes down from heaven and gives life to the world."
