THE ADVENTURES OF ROOSTER AND BANJO

BANJO AND ROOSTER HELP WITH THE CORN

"Can you play baseball with us?" Rooster asked as he walked into Aunt Nana's yard early one morning.

"Maybe later," Aunt Nana said. "I'm busy putting up corn this morning. Would you like to help?"

"Sure!" Rooster exclaimed. "That will be fun. And I like corn on the cob."

"Good. I'll keep a few pretty ears out for you to take home to your mother," Aunt Nana said. "Corn on the cob is one of the great things about summer."

Aunt Nana was almost through with the first part, cutting off the top and bottom of each ear. Rooster helped her carry the pan of corn into the house, where she put a damp flour sack towel in the microwave. Aunt Nana explained, "I've seen this done a thousand ways, it seems, but this is the way I find easiest. I cook the ears in batches of five to ten, and then I pull off the husks and silk. Then I cut it. You can help me count them out and load the microwave."

Rooster had fun loading the corn onto the towel, covering it up, and setting the timer for five minutes. He played trucks until the timer went off. Aunt Nana had to unload the hot corn, but then Rooster loaded the microwave back up for the next batch.

Banjo joined them as they carried the cooked corn back out to the porch. "We're putting up corn, Banjo," Rooster hollered. "Come help!"

Banjo ran up. "Oh, wow, corn on the cob!"

Aunt Nana laughed. "You boys think a lot about your tummies, don't you? Banjo, when you find a pretty ear of corn, set it aside and I'll send it to your Mama for your supper."

Banjo liked that idea. Soon, the boys were peeling off the husks and silks like pros. Then Aunt Nana washed the ears carefully. She set some aside for corn on the cob and put some in a pan to cut off as whole kernel corn.

Outside, Aunt Nana cut off corn while the boys threw a baseball back and forth. Banjo came over and watched for a while. "Why don't you scrape the cob like Granny does?" Banjo asked.

"You scrape the cob if you want creamed corn," Aunt Nana explained. "I like corn any way you can cook it, but the rest of my family only eats it whole kernel style. So that's the way I put it up." She grinned. "Plus, this is easier! Creamed style takes more work!"

Banjo laughed. "Smart Aunt Nana!"

When Aunt Nana finished cutting, they all went back inside where she let the boys help dip the corn kernels into pint jars. Then the jars went into her pressure canner. The boys had already gone home when all the jars were finished, but she would be sure to serve corn the next time they ate with her. They enjoyed eating something they had helped prepare.

She had sent plenty of corn on the cob home with the boys, so she was sure they would have that for lunch or supper. And she had kept some out for her own family, so they were soon enjoying fresh corn with their lunch.

And He Himself gave some to be apostles, some prophets, some evangelists, and some pastors and teachers, for the equipping of the saints, for the work of ministry, for the edifying of the body of Christ, till we all come to the unity of the faith and of the knowledge of the Son of God, to a perfect man, to the measure of the stature of the fullness of Christ; that we should no longer be children, tossed to and fro and carried about with every wind of doctrine, by the trickery of men, in the cunning craftiness of deceitful plotting, but, speaking the truth in love, may grow up in all things into Him who is the head Christ.
Ephesians 4:11-15
