Southerly 110 - 2004

Star Dancer is the tall masthead rig version of the Southerly 110 class of offshore cruising yacht Class.

The Southerly 110 is renowned for her sea keeping qualities and exceptional stability. Southerly 110's have carried out long cruises and crossed oceans.

The swing keel system is totally proven and works as advertised. The keel can be raised or lowered at the press of a button bow the wheel and there is also a manual back up.

The twin rudders keep the 110 firmly in the groove and you will experience very little of the weather helm that most yachts produce. She will also hold her sail longer than most sailing yachts of her size resulting in less work and discomfort.

Below decks, she is like a Tardis. Very spacious and light throughout. Imagin sitting at the chart table and being able to see to port, ahead and to starboard. When standing at the galley there is also great vision. The aft cabin is quite simply fabulous.

Star Dancer looks to be a much loved example and a credit to her owner.
