Dr. Edward G. Boehm, Jr.,
President

Dear Friends of Keystone College:

As we look to the past in order to appreciate the present and plan for the future, we can only marvel at how far we've come since the founding of Keystone College 140 years ago.

In 1868, the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania issued a charter to create Keystone Academy, establishing what would become the only high school between Scranton, Pa. and Binghamton, N.Y. Classes began one year later in the local Factoryville Baptist Church. In 1870, ground was broken for Main Hall, later named Harris Hall after John Harris, Keystone's first president. Two years later, the first diploma was awarded to Edith Brundage.

Keystone Academy became Scranton-Keystone Junior College in 1934, and then, 10 years later, the name was changed to Keystone Junior College. The first associate degree was awarded to A. Llewellyn Baer in 1936. In 1995, we became Keystone College, receiving approval to offer baccalaureate degrees three years later, which ushered in a new era. In May of 2000, we were proud to present the College's first baccalaureate degree, a bachelor of science in criminal justice, to Stacy Davis Bell.

Today, Harris Hall still sits proudly on a hill overlooking our beautiful campus as Keystone College has grown in many ways since those early days. Our campus, widely regarded as one of the most picturesque in Northeastern Pennsylvania, consists of 37 buildings, including seven original Victorian homes, on 275 wooded acres. We have continued to expand during the eight years since awarding our first baccalaureate degree. We added 20 baccalaureate programs to complement our associate degree programs. In May of 2008, we conferred 204 baccalaureate degrees, 46 associate degrees, and 14 certificates.

But numbers alone do not tell the true story of Keystone College. The greatness of Keystone rests in our people -- faculty, staff, trustees, and alumni serving our students. Together, we have worked to build Keystone into all that it has become. More importantly, with your help, we will strive to continue our success in the days, months, and years which lie ahead.

We invite you to be a part of this exciting journey and ask you to join us in celebrating the 140th anniversary of your Keystone.

Sincerely,

Dear Friends and Supporters of Keystone College:

Autumn is a beautiful and exciting time at Keystone College. Our campus is awash in fall splendor as once-green leaves turn into beautiful shades of rust, orange, and yellow. The morning chill is warmed by streaks of afternoon sun, eventually yielding to the brilliant glow of a late-afternoon sunset.

Posed against this magnificent mural are the faces of Keystone students as they hurry to class, prepare for exams, and take part in numerous campus clubs, sports, and activities. One cannot help but feel their energy and optimism as they live for today and prepare for tomorrow.

Your ongoing support of Keystone College helps make their dreams possible. By contributing restricted and unrestricted gifts to our annual fund, scholarships, and planned giving programs, you enable Keystone to continue its mission of providing the best possible education at the most affordable cost.

As you know, Keystone College is celebrating its 140th anniversary this year. Much has changed on our campus since the day when the doors of Harris Hall opened for the first time. There is more to operating an institution of higher learning than classrooms and textbooks. Costs for technology, facilities, salaries, and programs rise dramatically each year and tuition alone cannot fully fund these increases.

Through your contributions, we can ensure this wonderful place we call Keystone College will flourish for the next 140 years and beyond.

Thank you so much for your continued support of Keystone College.

Sincerely,

William H. Bender,

Recent Keystone College Graduates are Making a Name for Themselves... and for their Alma Mater

An artist, an entrepreneur, an archaeologist, and an automobile designer.

To be sure, those are diverse professions with seemingly little in common. But yet there is a common thread, a unifying factor linking each of these seemingly unique careers and the people who pursue them.

The link, of course, is that all four of these young individuals are Keystone College graduates. Artist Crystal Wagner '02, archaeologist Chris Valvano '98, entrepreneur Alex Brunelle '03, and automobile designer Ryan Joyce '04 each walked on stage to receive Keystone degrees. They are now putting their own unique stamp on their chosen professions and, in many respects, on our society and on our world.

As they go about their daily tasks, all four look back to their days at Keystone as the foundation upon which they have built their careers. They are part of a Keystone tradition representing thousands of graduates that began in a single classroom 140 years ago but has continued and thrived ever since. Their skills and accomplishments at this point in their lives represent the proud past and promising future of Keystone College.

first bachelor's degree recipient remembers graduation day

Stacy Davis Bell '00

May 20, 2000 was indeed a special day in the life of Stacy Davis Bell '00. It was also a special day in the history of Keystone College. In fact, Stacy and Keystone will forever be linked in a way that no other graduate, before or since, can ever be.

Stacy became the first person to earn a baccalaureate degree from Keystone when she received a bachelor's of science degree in criminal justice. That day, in many ways, changed Stacy's life and marked a change in the life of Keystone College.

"I remember so much about graduation day," recalls Stacy. "Mostly, I remember walking on stage and being so proud to receive my degree, especially since it was the first baccalaureate degree in Keystone history."

"May 20, 2000 marked a new era for Keystone College as a baccalaureate institution," said Keystone College President Dr. Edward G. Boehm, Jr. "I was very proud of Stacy and I was very proud of Keystone on that memorable day."

Shortly after graduation, Stacy began her job as a Lackawanna County house arrest officer, making sure criminal defendants sentenced to house arrest maintain the conditions specified by the court. She still holds that position today. Stacy and her husband, Jamie Bell, are the parents of a three-year-old boy, Jayden. Stacy also received her associate degree from Keystone, graduating in 1998.

"I was fortunate to get a job in my chosen profession about a month after I graduated. It's been very rewarding and I think Keystone prepared me well for what I would face in the professional world."

Right: Keystone College sophomore Jim Walker has been working with Alex to create an internet-based social networking platform.

Daring to be different is something 24-year-old Alex Brunelle '03 has been doing for the better part of his young life. By age 15, Alex had mastered the most advance courses Mountain View High School had to offer. So, while his peers continued their high school careers, Alex -- high school diploma in hand -- enrolled as an accounting major at Keystone College.

"Keystone was close and convenient to my home in Harford, Pa. (Susquehanna County) and I thought the small-college, homelike feel would be conducive to learning," he recalls.

Despite his young age, Alex excelled as a business student. He partnered with his older brother Ted -- who was not a Keystone student -- to win the Northeast Pennsylvania Great Valley Business Plan competition for their business, "The Perfect Lawyer," an online company that matches consumers with attorneys specializing in specific areas of law.

But that was only the beginning of Alex's entrepreneurial endeavors. After graduating in 2003 with a bachelor's degree in accounting at the ripe old age of 19, Alex continued his online interests by developing Recipecottage.com, an online site that posts a wide variety of recipes for amateur and professional chefs. He also developed the business, Ahajokes.com, a web site featuring jokes and funny stories which generates more than a half-million hits per week.

Alex and Ted then began the highly successful residential and commercial real estate and construction business, Dunmore Exclusives. This past summer Ted, with assistance from Alex, began publishing The Scranton Post, a newspaper covering Scranton and other local communities.

At age 24, Alex has been involved in more projects than most people develop in their entire careers. But, after speaking with him for only a few minutes, it's clear he is just getting started. In fact, Alex is working with Jim Walker, a Keystone sophomore business student, to develop a new internet-based social networking business.

"I love being an entrepreneur. I think the marketplace rewards a person who is willing to assume risks. If that's the type of person you are, I think it's enormously satisfying and gratifying to develop an idea and then see that concept become a success."

Ryan Patrick Joyce '04

Many people spend their entire careers looking for the one perfect job they know is out there but they can't quite seem to find. Ryan Joyce '04 is definitely not one of those individuals.

At age 24, Ryan says he has found his dream job. Ryan works as an automobile designer for Chrysler LLC in Auburn Hills, Mich. He spends his days creating automobiles that many of us will be driving in years to come. Ryan is currently the lead interior designer of a concept car which will be featured at the North American International Auto Show to be held in Detroit in January, 2009.

"Basically, I spend my days drawing, just like I did when I was at Keystone. But now, I focus on the interior design of cars which will be manufactured in the future. Typically, we work at least a year or a year-and-a-half ahead of when a concept car will be unveiled."

Ryan graduated from Keystone in 2004 with an associate degree in fine arts and received the Associate Graduate of the Year Award. He credits his Keystone education for helping him develop the skills he uses on the job everyday.

"I formed the building blocks for what I'm doing today at Keystone. I think of myself as an artist and my canvas is an automobile." After graduating from Keystone, Ryan continued his education at the Cleveland Institute of Art where he earned a bachelor's degree in industrial design, with a concentration in transportation design. While a student there, Ryan was one of seven college students in the nation selected to appear on a four-part Discovery Channel documentary called "Futurecar" which aired in February, 2007.

Ryan and six other students spent three months in the General Motors design studio in Warren, Mich. where they teamed with professional automotive engineers to design futuristic vehicles. The results of their work were the subject of a documentary shown on the Discovery Channel.

After that, Ryan was on his way to becoming one of the hottest young designers in the automobile industry. He was offered a position to join GM but instead accepted a position at Daimler-Chrysler in June, 2007.

Now, he spends his days creating, drawing, and helping to shape the future of the automobile industry – a job he dreamed of for so long.

"People ask me about what I want to do in the future, but honestly, I'm doing it right now. My entire life's work has been working toward this goal. I've hit the place where I wanted to be."

Crystal Wagner '02

"I think Keystone opened the door to a world I had not known before. They were the most exciting two years of my life. Keystone exposed me to a new way of thinking, a new way of looking at life, both conceptually and visually. That's why I love it so much and why I love telling everyone about Keystone," says Crystal Wagner '02, who received an associate degree in fine arts from Keystone in 2002.

Since that time, Crystal, who now lives in Knoxville, Tenn. has made her mark in the world of art, having her prints, drawings, sculptures, and other works exhibited at galleries and shows around the country and around the world.

After graduating from Keystone, Crystal, a native of Baltimore, continued her education at the Atlanta College of Art and then pursued a master's degree in fine arts with a concentration in printmaking at the University of Tennessee in Knoxville.

Gradually, Crystal's work began receiving recognition and her life has been a whirlwind ever since. In addition to teaching at Roane State Community College in Huntsville, Tenn. and serving as a graduate teaching assistant at the University of Tennessee, Crystal recently served as artist in residence at Joshua Tree National Park in California and as a visiting artist at Georgia College and State University.

In 2008, Crystal's work has been included in 15 exhibitions throughout the United States and abroad. She has presented solo exhibitions at the Arkansas State University Printmakers Gallery and the University of Tennessee's Downtown Gallery in Knoxville. She recently returned from a month-long residency in Poznan, Poland. Earlier this year, she received a National Creative Achievement Bronze Award and a National Creative Achievement Award of Merit from The Creative Quarterly: The Journal of Art and Design.

Crystal has also been selected for the Betsy Worden Memorial Residency at the Arts and Culture Alliance of Knoxville and recently presented a scholarly paper, "Artademia" at the Southeastern College Art Conference in New Orleans. In 2007, Crystal received the prestigious Terry Burnett Award for outstanding achievements in fine art from the University of Tennessee.

When she's not working in her studio, traveling, or teaching, Crystal can be found at her Knoxville home with her husband, Joshua Herne, who also attended Keystone, and the couple's dog, a boxer-akita mix named O'Ryan.

"Art is about the ability to offer people a visual experience they would never have had if you didn't create it. I'm just excited to be a part of the world of art. I love it each and every day."

Chris Valvano '98

When Chris Valvano '98 was in high school, he listed archaeology as one of the top choices of professions he would one day like to pursue. But he never placed it first on the list.

"I really didn't think it could ever happen. A career as an archaeologist sounded so improbable and impractical. But I knew even then that it was something I was really interested in," the Dunmore, Pa. native recalls.

Maybe he should have listed it first after all. Chris, a 1998 Keystone College graduate is currently living out his dream as he plays a key role in one of the most compelling archaeological projects in the nation.

Chris is a crew chief with the New Philadelphia Project, an archaeological dig aimed at learning more about New Philadelphia, a now-defunct Illinois town which existed as a unique biracial community during the 19th century.

After graduating from Bishop O'Hara High School in Dunmore, Chris attended Keystone College from 1996-1998, graduating with an associate degree in behavioral sciences. He was accepted in the highly regarded archaeology program at Mercyhurst College in Erie, Pa., where he received his bachelor's degree. He obtained a master's degree in maritime history and underwater archaeology in 2003 from East Carolina University. From there, it was on to Michigan State to pursue a doctoral degree in anthropology with a concentration in archaeology. He became involved with the New Philadelphia project through his association with respected Michigan State archaeologist Dr. Ken Lewis.

The community of New Philadelphia began in 1830 when Frank McWorter, a free African American, moved with his family to Pike County, Ill. where he purchased land then platted and legally registered the town. McWorter sold tracts of land and New Philadelphia became the first town established by a free African American before the Civil War. It likely served as a stopping place for the Underground Railroad of enslaved African Americans fleeing from southern plantations.

Anticipated construction of the first rail line through Pike County helped invigorate the town with both white and black residents through the 1860s but when the railroad was finally constructed in 1869, it completely bypassed New Philadelphia. The town steadily declined. The legal status of the New Philadelphia as a municipality was dissolved in 1885 and the site eventually became covered by farmland.

Chris is helping to discover the secrets of the past by sifting through square foot after square foot of soil to uncover relics and other information that will help reveal the New Philadelphia story. This past summer, he supervised other archaeology students, providing instruction in field techniques and laboratory research. He credits his Keystone education for giving him the foundation to pursue his long-range goal of teaching archaeology in a college or university. "Going to college and then graduate school, and then pursuing a doctorate, has meant a lot of sacrifices. But I'm doing what I always hoped I would be doing with my life. In the end, I'm sure it will all be worthwhile."

140th ANNIVERSARY

A dedication was recently held on the site of a meditation area on the Keystone campus. The meditation area was made possible by a gift from Norm '43 and Margie Brauer and family and friends in loving memory of their son Barry Brauer '74. The Brauers also established a scholarship in memory of their son. Gathering at the meditation site are: Donna Clemens, director of donor relations; Margie and Norm '43 Brauer; and Dr. Edward G. Boehm, Jr., Keystone College president.

EVERGREEN SOCIETY OF KEYSTONE COLLEGE

Keystone College's Evergreen Society was established to honor alumni and friends who have made a gift bequest intent known to the College. These donors, who have entrusted the College with their commitment - through charitable remainder trusts, pooled income funds, gift annuities, lead trusts, insurance policies, retained life estates, or confirmed bequests - are recognized with perpetual membership in the Evergreen Society.

keystone college scholarships and endowed scholarship donors

KEYSTONE COLLEGE SCHOLARSHIPS

Keystone College has changed in various ways during its long history, but the mission to provide educational excellence has never wavered. The College is very fortunate to offer many scholarships, all created with one common motivation – the donors' true belief in the mission of Keystone College, without which the reality of a higher education would not be possible for students who benefit from their generosity.

During the 2007-2008 academic year $375,000 in donor-based scholarship funding was awarded to Keystone students in good academic standing with a demonstrated financial need. Students attending the eleventh annual Scholarship Luncheon in November 2007, had the opportunity to meet the donors who are helping to make their academic dreams possible. Mr. Albert C. Morante '49, who, along with several of his former classmates, raised funds to establish the Classes of 1948, 1949 and 1950, "Edward G. Prebor '49," Scholarship, delivered a motivating keynote address to over 200 scholarship donors, recipients, Evergreen Society members and trustees.

An annual scholarship may be created and supported yearly with a gift restricted to the named scholarship fund. Annual gifts average $1,000. A Keystone College scholarship fund can be endowed with a minimum initial gift of $10,000 and can serve as a lasting tribute in honor or memory of someone.

Gifts restricted to any Keystone College scholarship fund are always welcome. Additional information, including the history of Keystone's endowed scholarships, as well as various planned giving options may be found under the Development section of the College's website, www.keystone.edu.

Questions or intentions to establish a scholarship or become a member of the Evergreen Society may be directed to:

Above: Keystone College held its inaugural Jazz Institute in the summer of 2008. Presented in partnership with the Pennsylvania Jazz Alliance, the Institute offered an opportunity for local musicians to study and perform with several of Northeast Pennsylvania's finest touring and recording jazz artists.

Right: Keystone's 275-acre campus includes the Sugar Shack, which provides students and the public with the opportunity to learn about the process of making maple syrup and sugar.

Are you worried about how current market volatility is impacting your investments?

Do you want to support Keystone College despite current market conditions?

If the answer to both of these questions is yes, you should know about Charitable Gift Annuities.

A Charitable Gift Annuity is a perfect way to support Keystone College while providing you with guaranteed payments for life. The rate of return is extremely attractive and cannot decline -- as some other investments can -- in a volatile market. Ultimately, your investment in a charitable gift annuity will result in a significant gift to Keystone College.

Here's how it works: You make a lifetime gift to Keystone College. The College guarantees quarterly payments based on the size of your gift and your age when you make the gift. Quarterly payments are guaranteed by the full faith in credit of Keystone College and your rate of return will not vary. It is guaranteed. When you no longer need the payments, the remaining principle is retained by the College to fund a charitable purpose of your design.

In addition, you will receive a substantial income tax deduction in the year that you make your gift. Because your annuity payments are secured by a gift to Keystone, a portion of our payments to you is tax-free, too. Because of these factors, the effective rate of return can be much greater than with some other investments.

It is simple. It is safe. And it is a great way to support Keystone College.

If you want to support Keystone College and escape market volatility that is impacting so many investment vehicles, you should investigate a Keystone College Charitable Gift Annuity.

Charitable Gift Annuities FAQ:

Q: "How is this possible?"

A: The U.S. tax code allows Keystone College to make annuity payments to donors who establish charitable gift annuities.

Q: "Are my payments guaranteed?"

A: Your quarterly payments are guaranteed for life by the full faith and credit of Keystone College. Keystone has been around for 140 years and will be around for at least another 140.

Q: "Can I include my spouse?"

A: Yes. Charitable Gift Annuities can be written for one life or two. You can include your spouse or another loved one in your plans.
