Did you know there's a community owned PBS station in your back yard? WLJT's offices, studio and Master Control site are located on the campus of The University of Tennessee at Martin and our transmitter is located between Jackson and Lexington, Tennessee. We are your PBS.

WLJT airs the bulk of the national PBS programming along with several local productions including, a gospel music series, high school and collegiate sports and much more.

WLJT is proud to provide outreach services to schools, parents and other organizations each year. We especially enjoy sharing with educators how they can utilize our PBS LearningMedia resources that are absolutely FREE of charge!

WLJT's funding is a combination of state, federal and local monies. We are proud to provide quality programming and educational services to households in West Tennessee at no charge. However, your membership in WLJT is what helps us grow and expand.

Are you looking for someone to speak to your civic organization, community group or educators? Members of WLJT's staff would love to visit with your group and help you learn more about what we have to offer. Please call Mike at 731-881-7561 or 800-366-9558 today to set up a visit.
