Learn Something New:

Bored at work? Feeling a bit stuck? Try taking up a new skill or project that'll boost your current career or even qualify you for another path in the future.

1. Take an Online Course

You don't need to go back to school to learn something new —it's all in the palm of your hand (or on your laptop).

2. Learn the Latest Tech

You don't have to learn every new tech skill that comes into existence, but you should keep yours up-to-date. So why not pick up a new one (or two) this month?

3. Watch TED Talks

Listening to TED talks is one of the best ways to learn something new and valuable without wasting too much time, and thanks to the internet, there are more than you can possibly imagine.
