Homecoming through the years
A look at spirit weeks passed

Sydney Stricker | Paw Prints Writer

With Homecoming only days away, decorations are beginning to line the halls and excitement is rising. Many Crestview High School Alumni educators share their memories of the famed event. Mrs. Kolb, our Front Office Receptionist, graduated in 1977.

"We would skip school all week to cut firewood for the huge bonfire on the Thursday before Homecoming. Each class had their own fire to build and the class with the biggest bonfire won," said Kolb.

Kolb goes on to say that everyone participated in making the floats, and that many students had to take turns working on it.

"We had so many more freedoms back then," jokes Kolb. "This is probably the reason students don't have as many today,"

Assistant Principal Mr. Day graduated in the class of 1978, only a year following Mrs. Kolb. He told us of a time in Crestview when everyone at a stop light would know each other.

"There wasn't much to do in Crestview then, we used to sit in the back parking lot of McDonald's or Burger King to hang out.

We rode around town listening to eight-track tapes," said Day.

Also a fan of the disco, Mr. Day loves to dance. He notes that the dancing at Homecoming was very different than it is today. Day played as a half-back against Chipleigh for Homecoming that year, scoring three touchdowns and thereby outscoring the opponent for the first time in four years.

English teacher Mrs. Ruschmeier recalls her days of being a CHS cheerleader.

"The dance was the same night as the game so we only had about 30 minutes to get ready. It used to be held at the Shoal River Country Club," said Ruschmeier.

The junior class of 1999 found some mischief to engage in. They decided to egg one of the Homecoming floats, but the attempt failed, instead hitting the truck of Chemistry teacher Mr. Cheney. Mrs. Ruschmeier guarantees she was not involved, being a senior in the class of '98'.

When asked about the egging incident, Mr. Cheney reveals that he doesn't remember it.

"It was a long time ago," said

Cheney. "The real injustice was that the freshmen float didn't win the contest. The theme was 'Dogs in Black' and the freshmen created bulldogs dressed in black suits with space guns shooting aliens."

The theme was based on the popular Men in Black movie released earlier the same year.

The start of football season is in full swing and students and faculty are already preparing for this year's Homecoming extravaganza.

Our school's theme is "Big Lights, Big Cities," including the famous: Nashville, Honolulu, Hollywood, and Philadelphia.

Each class will work on a float to show off their class spirit in the parade on October 4 and later that night before the big game. We'll be facing off against the Leon Lions of Tallahassee. The week of the game 'Spirit Week', students will be dressing up in costume each day to support the team.

The halls will be decorated and posters will be hung, pumping up the excitement for a good win. Go Bulldogs!

Chapman Tew/ Paw Prints

Students line the stands in support of the Crestview High School Bulldogs as they prepare to face off against the Choctaw Indians. Crestview's marching band, The Big Red Machine plays as the Dog Pound yells and raises spirits, rallying the crowd for the upcoming game. The band's theme this year is Les Miserables.

Ask Penny

an advice column

Students have the opportunity to submit a situation or concern they would like to be given a word of advice on. The submission box is located outside of the multi-purpose room during all three lunch periods. Students in the Journalism class respond to the submitted situations in this column.

Relationships

Dear Unsure Feelings,

The best way to tell if a guy likes you is to read his body language. If he is often in close proximity to you or finding an excuse to touch or talk to you, he is most likely interested in you. If you are still unsure, just ask him. The worst thing he could say is "No."

Sincerely, Penny

Dear Second Chance,

Always remember to believe someone when they show you who they are the first time. There's a possibility the same situation could reoccur so it's up to you to determine the worth of a small amount of happiness in turn for more hurt.

Sincerely, Penny

Dear Possibly Unfaithful,

First of all, it's not wrong to have concerns. Everyone that has ever been in a relationship has had them. If you decide to approach him, make sure the setting and time is right. Don't make accusations about the situation. Just let him tell you his side of the story. Always remember to stay calm. The girl in question could be trying to mislead you.

Sincerely, Penny

Dear Scared of Rejection,

Show him that you are interested in him by flirting with him or texting him after school, but not to the point where he thinks you are talking to him just to talk. Just try to get your point across. Go out of your way to talk to him or walk with him in the hallway. If you still feel the connection then he may feel the same. Rejection is a natural aspect of the dating world and everyone will experience it in their lifetime, so spin it into a lesson you can learn from.

Sincerely, Penny

Social

Dear How to Handle Drama,

Drama seems to be inevitable in high school, but that doesn't mean you have to experience it. If you find yourself tangled in a situation that results in drama, don't encourage the continuation of it. Step back from what is causing it, whether it be a fight with a friend or boy/girlfriend issues, don't continue to talk about it with others. Make sure not to post anything on social media sites that could add fuel to the flame. Lastly, try to look at the situation from the other person's perspective; you may find that the issue wasn't as monumental as you initially thought.

Sincerely, Penny

School

Dear Juggling School, Sports, and Extra Activities,

A good way to keep up with school and extracurricular activities and still have a life is to have friends in your extra activities. Keep organized, schedule out the time you have for yourself, friends, and school work. Make sure you're balancing your time in a way that will benefit you the most.

Sincerely, Penny

Dear Good Study Habits,

There are many effective ways to study for a test. Make sure you don't cram your studies the night before a test. Give yourself a sufficient amount of time to thoroughly understand the information. Tutoring can also be helpful, especially if you are not proficient in a subject. Note cards are useful as well. You could write the topic on one side and the description of it on the other, that way you could quiz yourself. Study according to how you learn, whether you're auditory, visual, or hands-on.

Sincerely, Penny

Senator redefines first amendment To speak or be silenced?

Mia King | Paw Prints Writer

The first amendment allows all citizens the right to freely exercise the right to practice religion, to assemble peacefully, and petition the government with our grievances. Lastly, the first amendment prohibits Congress from making any law abridging the previously mentioned rights or the right of the press.

Senator Dick Durbin of Illinois, also responsible for trying to re-define our right to bear arms, has expressed he wants to redefine who qualifies as a "real reporter" quoted from Durbin himself. Also, he emerges with "Durbanism" (Washington Examiner), similar to McCarthyism, which is defined as "making unfair judgments or using unfair investigative techniques especially in order to restrict dissent or political criticism" but Durbin has reformulated it to disguise the lack of legality, by covering himself with claims of "disclosure" and "accountability".

The first place Durbin put this into effect was with a letter he sent to 300 groups that supported the American Legislative Council(ALEC). Oddly enough, ALEC is a group of more conservative state legislatures. Could Durbin be trying to drain their funding by scaring off their donors?

Durbin's goal, in short, seems to attempt to cut off anonymous source journalism to stop people from expressing their problems with government through speech or other various forms of media. Does this infringe upon our right of free speech as citizens? Are the 141 million twitter account holders in the US classified as journalists, as they randomly express themselves in 140 characters or less? What about the 164 facebook users in the US, telling their friends about their youngest daughter's dance recital, or where to go for the best burger?

The Illinois senator is trying to use his position as chairman of the Judiciary Subcommittee on Constitution, Civil Rights and Human rights to try to redefine the first amendment. Durbin may very well be taking every one of our rights to free speech away. Why, even this paper itself couldn't be in print.

Sophomore Interviews

Hunter Johnson

Paw Prints: So Hunter, what is your favorite class?
Hunter Johnson: Ms. Merritt's Spanish class would have to be my favorite.

PP: How do you feel about the football team this year?

HJ: With coach Hatton now leading us, I think we're going to be very successful this year.

PP: What do you hope to accomplish this year?

HJ: I hope to make good grades and to start on JV.

PP: What is it like being a sophomore?

HJ: Its fun. You're not on the bottom anymore.

PP: Do you like the classes you're taking this year.

HJ: Oh yes!

PP: Overall do you think this year will be a good year?

HJ: Yes!

Vanessa Medina

Paw Prints: How do you feel about homecoming as a sophomore?

Vanessa Medina: Well I'm excited about it, but I'm not looking forward to all the dancing.

PP: Do you feel as if your sophomore year will be better or worse than your freshmen year?

VM: It's going to be awesome because this year I'm in guard and I know a lot more people than I did last year.

PP: Do you plan on changing anything about yourself or about your school habits this year?

VM: Yeah, I'm going to start doing my homework, start paying more attention in class, and trying a lot harder.

Big Red Success reaches milestone

Omayra Jordan | Paw Prints Writer

Crestview High School's marching band is loved just as much as the rest of our extracurricular teams. This year marks the 75th anniversary of the Big Red Machine.

"The band has progressed quickly. They are a smart and hard-working group," says assistant band director Charles Anderson, "This is the first year the band has learned the entire half-time show."

"They're one of the smartest groups we've had. They're doing very well," says band director Jody Dunn. Drum majors Foster Lux and Tandra Johnson have done a terrific job conducting the band on and off the field.

"I think it's going to be a special year. It's nice being the oldest band in Northwest Florida, it's a wonderful achievement," says Dunn.

To celebrate this special event, an Alumni band will perform on October 18th during the football game.

This spring break the Big Red Machine will perform at Carnegie Hall and the Battleship Intrepid in New York City. Congratulations on the all of your accomplishments, Big Red Machine!

Teacher Feature

For the upcoming 2013-2014 school year, we have not only welcomed the 2017 class into Crestview High School, but also an array of new teachers as well. Speaking for Crestview's student body, the Paw Prints Staff would like to sincerely welcome all of our new teachers to the staff and school.

Ms. Hampton is a history teacher here at Crestview; she became a teacher not only because she loves history but also because she loves being around kids and to become a positive role model to girls. Like most of us, Ms. Hampton has a celebrity crush, Vin Diesel. She absolutely loves Vin Diesel, she loves his voice and his amazing acting abilities.

Ms. Hampton also shared that if she could have dinner with anyone in the world alive or dead it would have to be her best friend. Sean H. Miles was in the Marines and was killed in action in Iraq back in 2006. "He was a really great person," said Ms. Hampton, "he even saved two lives."

Coach Watson, the coach of our basketball and golf teams, went to college at Lipscomb University in Nashville. We asked him what the last song he listened to was, and he is a Florida Georgia Line fan, saying he last listened to "Cruise". In high school he said he would've fit in with the athletic type, but was nice to everyone.

Mr. Peterson, a new teacher in the history department, tells Paw Prints that his favorite TV show is Duck Dynasty. Like his comedic favorite television program, he was a class clown in high school. However, don't let his love of comedy fool you students, he can't stand anyone being late. Make sure you're to his class, in your seats on time.

How to survive High School

an editorial by Hannah Nolan

I'm a freshman this year, and it's a little frightening being the 'fresh meat' at high school. One of the issues I have is constantly being in the way and trying to navigate the halls. So I talked to some upperclassmen and got advice on surviving high school. It's most important to not procrastinate and to make new friends. Your 'best friend' from last year won't necessarily be at your side this year, they'll make new friends and you should too. Senior, Rebecca Morris says, "Always keep up with your grades and do your work." Throughout high school the worst thing you can do is procrastinate. You've got seven classes to keep up with, and teachers hate it when you turn in assignments late. Having to constantly try to catch up with work you've put off and work you're getting will only be detrimental to your grades. These tips have helped me through my first couple weeks of my freshman year, try them out yourself and see how they work for you.

Pawsitive Tones

- a personal column by Jasmine Peterson

Hey Crestview! Music has always been a huge part of my life. It has helped me through so much. This column will cover some of my favorite bands over a variety of genres throughout the year. I will also be showcasing a Battle of the Bands poll each issue where students can vote on their favorite artists.

My Chemical Romance is an alternative/punk/rock band. They began in New Jersey in the year 2001. The members include: Gerard Way, Mikey Way, Frank Iero, Ray Toro, Matt Pelissier, and Bob Bryar. Gerard Way, (born April 9, 1977) is the lead vocalist for the band. Matt Pelissier was their drummer, who was later replaced by Bob Bryar.

Matt Pelissier was kicked out of the band shortly after their album "I Brought You My Bullets You Brought Me Your Love" was released. The reason behind this remains left unsaid by the band. Frank Iero, (born October 31, 1981) plays the rhythm guitar and also acts as the back up vocalist. Mikey Way, the younger brother of Gerard Way (born September 10, 1980) and plays the bass guitar. Ray Toro who (born July 15, 1977) is featured on lead guitar. The band has released 4 full albums and 5 sets of singles consisting of 2 songs per set. The fan base for My Chemical Romance is known as The MCRmy.

Bulldogs face tough loss in second game

Plans for improvement underway

Kristen Bufkin | Sports Writer

It was a fight to the bitter end for the Bulldogs on September 6th against the former district rival Choctawhatchee Indians.

Bulldog captains Khalil Foster and Kyle Koontz chose to defer to the second half, and Choctaw took advantage of the early possession with a march down the field. A fumble by the Indians in Bulldog territory after the opening drive prevented any initial damage, but the Bulldogs were not able to score on their end of the opening possession. The defense of both teams continued to shut down the other's offense until a Choctaw touchdown with just over a minute left in the first quarter.

The Bulldogs were challenged by the pressure from the Choctaw defense, and were set back by several costly calls from the officials, including a recalled touchdown. When the bulldogs finally reached the red zone, a fumble on the one yard line cost Crestview their opportunity to make it onto the score board. The score remained 7-0 in favor of Choctaw until another Indian touchdown at the end of the first half.

The Bulldog offense stepped up their game to start the second half. After a charge downfield, Emmanuel Reed made a touchdown within the first three minutes of the third quarter which put Crestview on the board. The extra point was tacked on by kicker Tyler Hancock to make the score 14-7 in favor of the Indians. The game progressed as a trade of possessions as each defense continued to shut down any drive down the field. With just over three minutes left in the final quarter of play, Jaylyne Robinson added another six to the score board on a 34 yard touchdown run. Unfortunately for the Bulldogs, the extra point kick was blocked, and Choctaw held the one point lead with two minutes left to play.

The Bulldog defense managed to shut down the Choctaw offense with a minute left to play, and the Crestview offense was given one last chance to pull off the victory. With 44 seconds left on the clock, the pressure from the Choctaw defense was too much and an interception in favor of Choctaw gave the Indians possession as they set up in v-formation for the win over the Bulldogs.

Foster led the offense with 140 passing yards, while Reed led the ground offense with 71 total yards, and Robinson added another 42 to the running game. The defense was led by seniors Kyle Koontz and Justin Abdo.

Chapman Tew/ Paw Prints

The Bulldog defense takes the field against the Choctawhatchee Indian offense on Friday, September 6th.
