TAILOR MADE: THE STORY OF ROCHESTER'S GARMENT INDUSTRY

Before Rochester was known as home to giant manufactures such as Kodak and Xerox, it was a leader in the clothing and textile industry. In fact, in the late 1800s garment trade was one of the biggest employers in the city. And, in the 1890s Rochester was the 4th largest men's clothing manufacturer in the U.S.

This WXXI-produced documentary captures the fascinating story of the garment industry and the people who contributed to it. It showcases the rich history of Rochester's clothing industry from Michaels-Stern & Co. to the Button Factory to one of the country's oldest and most prestigious clothiers – Hickey Freeman.

* Please note that all programs are subject to change. For up-to-date program listings, special highlights and local news, just log onto WXXI.org.

We are well into the final season of Downton Abbey and we hope you're enjoying each and every episode. Downton continues to be one of our most popular Masterpiece presentations. Remember, if you miss an episode, you can watch it the next day online at video.pbs.org.

I also want to remind you about a new Member Benefit. If you are a WXXI member at the $60 level or above, you have access to WXXI Passport, a benefit that provides you with current and archival programs from PBS and WXXI. Passport allows you to watch some of our most popular programming on your computer, your tablet or even on your smartphone. It gives you special access to Downton Abbey, other dramas from Masterpiece, plus favorites such as Vicious, Makers, and The Great British Baking Show. If you contribute at the $60 level or more, you should have received an email last December giving details about Passport and a personalized passcode to access this service. If you missed the notice, or if you'd like to increase your membership gift to access this benefit, please feel free to call our Membership Department at 585-258-0200. They'll be happy to assist!

February marks Black History Month, and WXXI is proud to present a variety of programs that spotlight the men and women who shaped the African-American experience. This includes the Little Theatre's Black History Month Film Series, which kicks off with Spike Lee's CHI-RAQ on Saturday, February 6, at 3 p.m. Additional programs on WXXI are spotlighted on the next page of this magazine, and a list of all of our programming can be found at WXXI.org/bh.

February is also the time for the annual Public Media Summit in Washington, D.C. I'll be joining WXXI Board Members and colleagues throughout the nation for meetings with Members of Congress to explore issues that are vital to the direction and future of public media. Our meetings with Congressional leaders provide an opportunity to remind them how important federal funding is to our educational efforts and our future. The investment in public broadcasting is roughly one-hundredth of one percent of the federal budget, yet it's a crucial source that helps stations present essential, engaging programming to a vast, underserved audience – and provides an educational safe haven for our youngest viewers.

Here in Rochester, thousands of parents – and tens of thousands of kids – rely on the 15 hours of non-commercial, non-violent children's programming we broadcast every weekday. These shows have a fundamental educational message, helping children be Ready-to-Learn when they enter school. WXXI partners with local schools and BOCES on programs and online resources that are used in the classroom and at home and enhance learning. WXXI is also part of a national outreach effort called American Graduate, working to reduce the high school dropout rate. It's these kinds of programs that are most at risk if we were to lose any federal funding.

I trust you agree that WXXI is worthy of support. If you'd like to share why public media matters to you, please visit the "Protect My Public Media" web site at protectmypublicmedia.org. You can learn more about the effort, tell your story, read testimonials from others and even write a letter to a Member of Congress.

I was recently quoted in the Rochester Business Journal as saying, "We have a relationship where people understand that our goal is to make this a better place to work and live for everybody." From trusted news to special programming to educational efforts, WXXI proudly serves this region. With your membership support, we can continue to make a positive impact on our community. Thank you!

Best Regards,

Norm Silverstein
