Minister's Column

We've got a lot of wonderful opportunities this fall—opportunities for building stronger social connections, deepening theologically, engaging in discussion and thought, and participating in the work of social justice. Please look through these pages this month and think about joining us in something like the Jesus Seminar, the AIDS Walk, adult religious education, or the Community Forum—or all of them!

In recent months, a lot of committees have been doing some deep and meaningful work that they'll be sharing this fall, too. The sabbatical committee will be meeting with key leaders this month to talk through the sabbatical plans and make sure all areas are covered during my upcoming absence starting in late October. The committee on ministry has been doing an evaluation of the ministries of the church, which they will be sharing with the board, and which has shown us some wonderful information about how connected our members are to this free faith with its room for theological diversity. The worship committee has been discussing with detail and attention the question of theological representations in our church buildings, and how we want our beliefs portrayed on our walls. They'll be continuing this discussion throughout the fall and perhaps meeting with selected individuals to seek input in their decision process.

When I see how many wonderful activities we're participating in, honestly, it makes it tough for me to think about pulling out of this dynamic, thriving community that I love so much and taking time away for my upcoming sabbatical. I love our faith, and our church, and its members, and five months away is going to be difficult for me, to not be regularly seeing all of you and hearing your ideas and thoughts and joys and sorrows. At the same time, I'm excited for you, because I know we've got a great line-up started of worship programs, and that the religious education committee is working on intergenerational social justice programs for members to participate in, and the forum (outreach) committee is working hard to create a dynamic line-up of fall and winter forums.

Meanwhile, let's have a lot of fun together this September as we engage in the work of faith, justice, and community!

Namaste,

Religious Education Report

We started off the school year right after picnic Sunday, and the kids have enjoyed their lessons thus far—as well as the teachers! The youth are wrapping up their “credo” curriculum and then going on to “It Starts with Me!” while the other two classes have jumped right into their new lessons. The curricula on peace and social justice invigorates me, and I’m sure it will do the same for kids, teachers, and parents. It was nice to have two new children on Sunday August 22 in the K-5 class, and we hope they’ll join us again.

We’re starting off the adult RE curriculum Tuesday September 14. I hope you’ll join us on Tuesday evenings for In Our Hands: A Peace and Social Justice Program. It only lasts six weeks, yet I think this will help us frame our thoughts and actions as we consider the social justice role that individuals and the church as a whole do and can play in the community. Do we have a voice about how children and adults are treated locally? Do we practice the First Principle in the area? How do we show we care about the community and the world? The RE Committee members will be calling the agencies we support to find out about volunteer opportunities, and we will be asking the congregation for input as to what types of social action projects you might like to be involved with, through clipboard sign-ups and a suggestion list to be posted later in September. I think getting together even in small groups to do social action projects will be a lot of fun; I have fond memories of our recycling together, for instance.

Thanks again for all your support of the RE Program.

Sharon

Notes from the Board

The UUCEL Board met on Wednesday, August 11th. Items discussed and actions taken include the following:

1) We now have electronic banking available for those who wish to have their pledge payments deducted automatically from their bank accounts. Watch for flyers about this new service coming soon. 2) The Board is seeking information on the advisability of an audit of our financial transactions, which apparently has not been done for some time (many years) and is standard accounting practice. 3) The Board approved expenditures to paint and improve the church steeple, pending answers to various questions about liability and insurance issues. 4) We are looking forward to co-hosting the Jesus Seminar in September, with several other area churches. 5) At our next meeting (Sept 1) we will be discussing how to go about archiving the copious amounts of paper files we have upstairs in the church and possibly other places. Policy must be developed on what to save, and how to save it; volunteers for this effort would be most welcome!

Sabbatical Notes

Planning is well under way for handling church life and all its many little tasks during Rev. Cindy's upcoming sabbatical starting in late October. However, there are still several small tasks that need helpers. If you're willing to help out, let Rev. Cindy, a member of the board, or a member of the sabbatical committee know. We need volunteers to coordinate a fall "Mom to Mom" sale, our annual used book sale, and to help with some small administrative tasks, to name a few.

Jesus Seminar on the Road

September 17–18, 2010

Rediscovering Paul; with Bernard Brandon Scott & Arthur J. Dewey

The legacy of the apostle Paul dominates early Christianity—he is the reputed author of half of the New Testament and the dominant character in the book of Acts. He is often credited—or blamed—for many traditional moral positions still debated in our culture. But, over the past twenty years, a new Paul has emerged—one who differs from that of Augustine & Luther.

Lecture ~ Friday evening, 7:30–9 P.M.

Will the Real Paul Please Stand Up?

We normally homogenize the various versions of Paul found in the New Testament. In this session, we will sort through these versions in an effort to discover the real Paul and to understand how the Pauline tradition developed.

Bernard Brandon Scott (Ph.D., Vanderbilt University) is the Darbeth Distinguished Professor of New Testament at the Phillips Theological Seminary, Tulsa, OK. He is the author of several books, including The Trouble with the Resurrection (2010) and Re-Imagine the World (2002), and editor of the Jesus Seminar Guides series.

Arthur J. Dewey (Th.D., Harvard University) is Professor of Theology, Xavier University, Cincinnati, Ohio, co-founder of the Healing Deadly Memories Program, and co-author of The Authentic Letters of Paul (with Roy Hoover & Lane McGaughy, 2010).

Workshops

Imperial Images in Stone and Song

Rome—and its Emperor—was the dominant power in the ancient world, militarily, and politically, and also ideologically. It set the terms of debate. The recognition of imperial influence is important to understanding Paul. In this session, we will explore the early Christian hymn embedded in Paul's letter to the Philippians for its imperial imagery. ~ Saturday, 9:30—10:30 A.M.

Resurrection and the Body of Christ

Paul made resurrection and the cross central to his new faith. Even more importantly, he tied resurrection to the body of Christ. How do we unravel these notions to learn what Paul was trying to get at? ~ Saturday, 11 A.M.–Noon

Justification by Faith: What Might Paul Mean?

The fact that the New Testament was written in Greek, not English, inevitably leads to translation problems. We will examine a central Pauline phrase, "justification by faith," and ask if this is a good translation, how it should be translated, and how it was understood by the fledgling Jesus community. ~ Saturday, 1:30–2:30 P.M.
Paul for a New Day

Paul is the first great Christian thinker. Perhaps a return to Paul can help us see where we might go in the future. What clues, if any, can we glean from his interpretation of Jesus' meaning in the Roman Empire? Can he help us rethink our way in a new global environment? ~ Saturday, 3–4 P.M.
