Lutheran Parish Records from the Upper Ottawa Valley and Pontiac County Book Review:

This valuable book includes three parts:

Part one describes the beginning of the Lutheran ministry in the Upper Ottawa Valley in Ontario. In the summer of 1857 a number of German immigrants began to arrive in Canada. The government of Upper Canada waged an active campaign to attract settlers to the Upper Ottawa Valley. The majority of these early immigrants were Lutherans who came from Pomerania, Posen, Brandenburg, Mecklenburg, Silesia and Saxony. They were landless farmers, laborers and/or craftsmen who often lived in servitude in the class- based society of 19th century Europe.

They traveled to the ports of Bremen and Hamburg and then by ship to Quebec, and by boat, train and wagon to the townships of Alice, Wilberforce, Bromley, Adamston, North and South Algona, Petawawa and Westmeath in the Upper Ottawa Valley.

In 1855 Ludwig Herman Gerndt, a Lutheran Pastor, originally from Berlin, was appointed to serve the spiritual needs of the valley. Pastor Gerndt's records of pastoral duties were meticulously kept, stored in his saddlebags and carried about with him- they came to be known as his "Saddlebag records".

Part two is an extraction of these original records written in the old German script. These records listed events from the whole area in which he served and also include the records of his successors until the year 1891.

The extracted records are alphabetically arranged by surname and include the following: surname, given name, sex, birth date, birthplace, death date, death place, burial place, and names of parents. The cause of death and name of godparents at baptisms are not included in the extracted list. About 2,000 names have been listed.

A map of the Upper Ottawa Valley showing cemetery locations is keyed to burial places on the extraction list.

Part three provides helpful suggestions for persons starting to search their European family roots from Renfrew County.

- Appendix A contains a list of European Archives with addresses.
- Appendix B lists Lutheran cemeteries in Upper Ottawa Valley.
- Appendix C gives selected publications about the Upper Ottawa Valley.
- Appendix D is a selected Germanic Bibliography.

Indexes and biographies of the Germanic and Scandinavian immigrants who settled into Quebec

- 549 pages in the French language
- 4,500 biographies of German and Scandinavian immigrants to New France, Québec under British rule and Québec from Confederation
- Names and detailed indexes of spouses
- One thousand original signatures of the Germanic and Scandinavian immigrants to Québec
- A detailed biography of each immigrant, where he or she originated from, his or her date of birth in most cases, the town of origin in the Electorate of Hannover, the Dukedom of Brunswick-Wolfenbuettel, the Principality of Anhalt-Zerbst, the Principality of Waldeck, the Landgraviate of Hesse-Cassel, the County of Hesse-Hanau, the Margraviate of Anspach-Bayreuth, the cities of Hamburg, Berlin, Bremen, Hannover, Brunswick, Zerbst,

Cassel, Ziegenhain, Hanau, Frankfurt, Bayreuth, Aanspach, Stuttgart, Munich plus the surrounding Germanic regions within France, Bayern, Ober-Sachsen, Nieder Sachsen, Thuringen, Rhein-hessen, Rheinland-Pfalz, Nassau, Nordrhein Westfallen. All of the above during the periods from 1621 to 1749 in Nouvelle France (New France) and from 1749 to 1820 under Québec and Lower Canada.

- A unique book, unequal in content, for Claude Kaufholtz-Couture and Claude Crégheur, the authors and their staff of researchers and compilers have addressed most regions of Québec in which Germanic and Scandinavian people settled into from Pontiac County in the west to the Lower St. Lawrence region in the east
