Commentaries

- John R. Donahue & Daniel J. Harrington, Gospel of Mark, Sacra Pagina 2 (Collegeville: Liturgical Press, 2001). This up-to-date commentary, like others in the series, offers a thorough but not overly technical examination of the text. It is a good place to start one's study of what scholars believe is the earliest of the four gospels.

4. THE GOSPEL OF JOHN

Introductions & Overviews

Raymond E. Brown & Francis J. Maloney, An Introduction to the Gospel of John (New York: Doubleday, 2003). This century has seen a number of great commentaries on John’s Gospel (Bultmann, Dodd, Schnackenburg). Brown’s two-volume commentary, The Gospel of John, Anchor Bible 29-29A (New York: Doubleday, 1969-1970), was arguably the most famous. Whereas many scholars emphasize John’s difference from the Synoptics, Brown emphasized their similarities; whereas many scholars deny or downplay its historical value, Brown emphasized it. Brown was at work revising and updating his classic, but died before he could complete things. Maloney, a leading expert on John, brought Brown’s work to completion.
