CARROLL
UNIVERSITY

FROM OUR LOYAL ALUMNI BASE to our board of trustees, our dedicated faculty and staff to our corporate partners in the community, Carroll is blessed to have a generous network of friends who believe in the value of a Carroll education, and chose to make investments to help students who have a passion for learning.

The importance of scholarships and financial aid cannot be overstated. More than 98 percent of current Carroll students receive some type of financial assistance. Scholarships can make the difference not only in whether a student attends college, but also whether the student remains. This listing shares the stories of the people behind the scholarships, and their affinity for Carroll. Many of these scholarships are established as endowed funds, providing a permanent income stream for annual scholarships that the university can rely on. These endowed funds carry on the name of the donor and create a personal legacy.

As you read through this catalog, you will come to realize we are connected. There is a common thread that binds each of us to one another. From generations past to today, the people of Carroll – the stories we share, the memories we hold and the education gained – is what keeps the spirit of Carroll alive. We celebrate the generosity and the legacy these individuals have made helping advance Carroll's mission of preparing students for lives of meaning, purpose and success.

■ Martin Frank '63 Scholarship

Forty-four years later, he had held almost every job at the bank from messenger to CEO. Marty gave credit to a foundation in the liberal arts. He strongly believed a liberal arts education can prepare students for just about anything the marketplace demands, supporting successful careers one might never intend or imagine. He was president of the bank and a respected member of the Carroll Board of Trustees when he died in 2008. John in the 1980s

John T. Hsu Scholarship Fund

Established by John T. Hsu '53 in 1999.

John T. Hsu '53 is one of the few musicians in the world considered a virtuoso player of the viola da gamba, a bowed, stringed musical instrument developed in the mid-late 15th century used primarily in the Renaissance and Baroque periods; and the rare baryton, viewed as a sort of augmented bass viol, distinguished by an extra set of plucked strings. He actively researches the early compositions of Joseph Haydn, 18th century Austrian composer, and recreates the music's delicate beauty. His efforts have won acclaim from both the public and critics. He has performed around the world, from New York's Lincoln Center to the Esterhazy Palace in Austria. John came to Carroll on a scholarship from Shanghai, China, in 1949. Although he did not graduate, he fondly recalls his time on campus. He completed his education at the New England Conservatory of Music. During his career, he was professor of humanities and music at Cornell University, conductor of the Apollo Ensemble, and founder and member of the Haydn Baryton Trio. Hsu established this scholarship to provide assistance to students demonstrating financial need who maintain a 3.0 grade point average or better.

The former was one of the first team-taught, interdisciplinary courses at Carroll and was representative of the educational innovations Hudson brought to the classroom. He was also instrumental in establishing the cross-cultural experiences for students in Guatemala, Nepal and Kenya. For many students, those opportunities abroad were one of the highlights of their Carroll experience. He received a Fulbright Scholarship in 1986 to study vitamin A in Guatemala, and the Benjamin F. Richason Jr. Faculty Award in 1989. Both Hudson and professor emeritus Dr. Richard Watkins were known as the heart and soul of the chemistry department for a combined total of 54 years. Upon their retirement in 2000, scholarships were established in their honor to support promising incoming chemistry students, paying tribute to accomplished, successful careers. #### ■ Immanuel Presbyterian Church Scholarship Fund

Established by members of Immanuel Presbyterian Church in 1991.

Like the multitude of small Midwestern colleges founded before the Civil War, Carroll was the product of both religious enthusiasm to Christianize the frontier and the long-standing American belief in the vital relationship between education and democracy. From its early days, Carroll was affiliated with the Wisconsin Synod of the Presbyterian Church and received its financial support. Of all the competing denominations that pushed westward in the 1800s, the Presbyterians were the most ardent and successful in building new churches, schools and colleges. This affiliation with the Church continues to remain an important and valued relationship for Carroll. Immanuel Presbyterian Church in Milwaukee, Wis., and its congregation has long been devoted supporters of Carroll and its continued success. This scholarship was established under the leadership of Rev. William H. Johnstone, former pastor of Immanuel Presbyterian Church and member of the Carroll Board of Trustees from 1972-1993, to provide financial assistance with preference to members of the congregation in Milwaukee. If no qualified candidates exist, awards are given to students of the Presbyterian faith. Rev. Deborah Block '74, current pastor of Immanuel Presbyterian Church, and the congregation continue to be active with the fund.

Pat graduated in 1961 with a major in biology and minor in chemistry. She enjoyed a professional career as both a scientist and librarian. She was a faculty member at the Medical College of Wisconsin, and in 1988, she switched fields and began a career as a reference librarian until her retirement in 2000. ### ■ Ralph and Kathy Ley Scholarship

Funded through the generosity of Ralph and Kathleen (McCormick) '65 Ley.

Carroll was a part of Kathy's life long before it was time for her to go to college. Her father F. J. "Mickey" McCormick started as Carroll's athletic director and football coach in 1949. His office was in Ganfield, and she spent many days playing in the gym with her sisters. Mickey became ill in 1958 and died that August, but the college honored its promise to provide tuition for children of employees. Kathy has many fond memories of Carroll as a Chi Omega sister, and as a student double majoring in elementary education and geography. Her Carroll education prepared her well for a career as a teacher for more than 25 years. When Kathy and her husband Ralph were financially able to do some philanthropic work, Carroll was at the top of their list. #### ■ N.F. Morley Scholarship Fund

Established by N.F. Morley in 1947.

As Wisconsin's oldest chartered college, the Carroll College of 1846 represented the hopes of the early settlers that their community would lead the way in civilizing and Christianizing the Wisconsin frontier. Like many other Wisconsin colleges facing tough economic hardship during that time, Carroll found it a necessity to secure denominational support to ensure its continued viability. In November 1849, the Carroll Board of Trustees petitioned the Presbytery of Wisconsin to have Carroll adopted as a Synod school. It is this affiliation and relationship with the Presbyterian Church that prompted and nurtured many future benefactors to Carroll. N.F. Morley left his estate to Carroll through the church offering scholarship assistance to be given to students studying for the ministry.

H. Edward Moser Scholarship Fund

Established by Mildred M. Moser in 1999.

There are several charitable vehicles that individuals can consider when wanting to make a gift to support their charity. There are outright cash gifts, or provisions one can make through their will to leave assets through their estate. Jean McNary explored the option of a charitable gift annuity as she wanted to provide an income for her sister Mildred while doing something charitable for Carroll. A charitable gift annuity provides a regular stream of income for a beneficiary and upon their death the remainder is left to the designated charity. Jean decided this was the best option for her; and subsequently each quarter, Mildred received a fixed percentage of the principal from a gift to Carroll. When Mildred died in February 2005, the remainder was added to a scholarship in Mildred's son's name, the late Herbert Edward Moser. Moser was a 1971 graduate of Carroll majoring in psychology, and active in Sigma Phi Epsilon, and the track team during his time as a student. He passed away in October 1998.

As a member of the First Presbyterian Church, Rankin met his future wife, Mary Jane Nickell, through their Presbyterian choir. Together, they lived in the house which still stands on the northeast corner of East Avenue and McCall Street. Mary would teach music at Carroll, and later their daughter—May Nickell Rankin would become chair of the oratory department, serve as Carroll's first woman professor, and oversee the Carroll Players—the first student dramatic group in Wisconsin. ### ■ Dr. Scholl Foundation Scholarship Fund for Nursing

Established by the Dr. Scholl Foundation in 1987.

The Dr. Scholl Foundation was established by Dr. William M. Scholl in 1947. It is a charitable, grantmaking foundation created from the success of the business Scholl founded, the Scholl Manufacturing Company. Scholl was born into a family of 13 children in 1882, the son of Indiana dairy farmers. On that small farm, he learned the values of a strong work ethic combined with compassion for the less fortunate. He left the farm at age 16 to apprentice in a shoemaker's shop, where he noted the number of customers who complained of foot pain and discomfort. Intrigued by the ailments of the foot, he attended Illinois Medical College, now Loyola University, and earned his medical degree in 1904. He never practiced medicine; but over the next 50 years, he built a great corporation out of the simple belief that "when your feet hurt, you hurt all over." The Dr. Scholl Foundation continues his legacy by providing aid to organizations that improve our communities. This endowed scholarship fund was established by the Dr. Scholl Foundation to provide aid to worthy nursing students at Carroll.

■ Waukesha State Bank Scholars Program

Established by Waukesha State Bank in 1996.

The ties that bind Carroll University and Waukesha State Bank go back decades. Carl Taylor, who established the bank in 1944, was a self-made Oklahoma native who worked his way through high school and went on to earn his bachelor's and master's degrees. At one point in his college career, Taylor received a scholarship from an anonymous donor. He long remembered that selflessness, and that motivated his family's commitment and generosity throughout his career. After 25 years in business, Carl retired as president in 1969. Don Taylor, whose lifetime career was the bank, then succeeded his father as president and led the bank's growth for the next quarter-century. Don served on the Carroll Board of Trustees from 1981-1992. He retired in 1994, and Carroll graduate Marty Frank '63 who joined the bank's staff as a high school senior in 1959, was elected president to follow Taylor's footsteps. Like all the bank's leaders, Marty was active in many business, civic and community organizations. He, too, served on the Carroll Board of Trustees, and was chairman of the board's investment committee from 2003 until his untimely death in 2008. The bank, now under the leadership of Carl's grandson, Ty R. Taylor, is continuing the Taylor family legacy and guiding business principle—"A Bank is People!" Ty also remains an instrumental part of the civic community currently serving on the Carroll Board of Trustees. Since the inception of the Waukesha State Bank Scholars Program, hundreds of scholarships have been awarded to incoming freshman who are high achieving Waukesha County students. This program continues the leadership and community service commitment of the bank, and honors Carl's legacy and commitment to education.

■ Marie C. Yennie Scholarship Fund

Established by Henry H. Yennie, in memory of Marie C. Yennie '54 in 1998.

This fund was established to honor Marie C. Yennie by the thoughtful generosity of her husband Henry. Henry was a Waukesha County native who enjoyed a long career in the manufacturing field retiring in 1969 as supervisor at the Waukesha Motor Company (f/k/a Dresser Industries and now part of GE). Marie led a teaching career in various rural schools in the early part of career, followed by service at North Division and Wilbur Wright high schools in Milwaukee. He was concerned about the growing number of students who have to pay for college out of their own pocket and obtaining loans. He wanted to give back to help offset some of that burden for future students. The Yennie Scholarship supports students demonstrating financial need with preference to those studying biology, education, or mathematics.

■ Adolph G. Yersin Full Tuition Scholarship Fund

Established by the Yersin family in 2006.

When Adolph and Mary Yersin graduated from high school during the Great Depression, the cost of college was simply beyond their financial means. They went on to find jobs that paid subsistence wages, but scrimped, saved, and ran a part-time insurance business during their early married years to make sure they could afford to send their son, William, to college. William Yersin '63 attended Carroll majoring in business administration. He was an active member of the Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternity, Alpha Kappa Psi, and the wrestling team. In 2006, the Yersin family decided they wanted to provide the opportunity for a financially strapped and academically qualified applicant to be able to receive a college degree. They wanted to help someone who was in the same sort of circumstances they faced. That generous motivation prompted the establishment of the Adolph G. Yersin Full Tuition Scholarship providing a full-tuition scholarship to an incoming freshman with promise. Students demonstrating financial need and majoring in one of the sciences, health sciences, technology or business are considered in the selection process. Adolph G. and Mary A. Yersin, and their son, William B. Yersin '63 provided the generous funding for this scholarship. This honored award may be renewable based on merit, academics and continued need. William remains an active alumnus, and continues to be active in helping support worthy students at his alma mater.

■ Judge Allen D. Young Scholarship Fund

Established by John D. Young '37 in 1989.

This scholarship bears the name of Judge Allen D. Young, Waukesha County's first circuit judge for Waukesha County alone serving from 1942-1958. The fund was established through the thoughtful generosity of his son, John D. Young '37. The Young family owned and lived right adjacent to the Carroll campus at a Queen Anne style home on James Street. John, a cartographer for the U.S. Geological Service and World War II veteran, wanted to give back to his alma mater while honoring his father who helped provide him the opportunity to enjoy a college education. This scholarship supports full-time upperclassmen majoring in mathematics who maintain a 2.5 grade point average or better. Judge Young's youngest son, Charles, Carroll graduate from the class of 1939, remains active with the fund.
