Easter Sunday of The Resurrection of The Lord

Alleluia! He is Risen!

Prayer to Saint Michael

Saint Michael the Archangel, defend us in battle.
Be our protection against the wickedness
and snares of the devil.
May God rebuke him,
we humbly pray;
and do Thou,
O Prince of the Heavenly Host,
by the Divine Power of God,
cast into hell,
satan and all the evil spirits,
who roam throughout the world seeking the ruin of souls.
Amen.

Please join us saying the Rosary every Saturday after the 9am Mass in honor of Our Lady of Fatima for World Peace and for families

FROM THE PASTOR'S DESK'In the Breaking of Bread'

By Archbishop William E. Lori

Sometimes it seems as if a cloud is hanging over our heads — not a specific problem or threat to our well-being, but rather a general feeling of sadness and anxiety that overshadows our culture. Especially as people become more divided and isolated, such melancholy makes it harder to face problems, whether in our personal lives, the Church or society.

This kind of despondency, common in many developed countries, often accompanies a decline in religious practice. While I can't cite a study to prove it, it seems more than coincidental that where belief in God and religious practice have waned, there is a corresponding rise in unhappiness and insecurity.

We live in an age in which many people reject a "given" nature to things, think that science has disproven the validity of religious faith and assert a radical right to self-determination. This worldview, however, is itself a source of anxiety. When faced with the idea of a godless universe and a finite horizon, we human beings instinctively feel as though we are trapped inside a box. We are made for more.

Even those who profess and practice the faith can be affected by this relativistic culture and succumb to a spiritual malady called "acedia" — a deep-seated state of interior sadness that results in spiritual and moral paralysis. It can turn the soul against all the means of healing and growth in virtue, and it can even lead to bitterness against God, the Church and those who carry forward its mission. We might imagine that Knights of Columbus, other practicing Catholics and those who minister in the Church's name are somehow immune to our culture and to acedia's temptations. It would be foolish to think so. Even the first disciples needed the grace of the crucified and risen Lord to help them out of their spiritual despondency.

Demoralized by Jesus' death, two disciples were making their way toward the village of Emmaus when the risen Lord joined them — though the disciples did not recognize Him. As they walked along, Jesus not only invited them to share their sadness with Him, but also helped them overcome it. For along the way, He opened the meaning of sacred Scripture, showing them how it pointed to His own Death and Resurrection. As a result, the disciples' hearts burned with joy, a joy that overflowed when they sat at table with Jesus and recognized Him "in the breaking of bread" — that is, in the Eucharist (cf. Lk 24:13-35).

We should not hesitate to share our burden of sadness with the Risen Lord and invite Him to walk with us. If we do so, He will open the saving message of Scripture, a message that leads us to the Eucharist, where we too can recognize Jesus "in the breaking of bread." Indeed, Word and sacrament are the two great antidotes to spiritual sadness, and as we see in the Emmaus episode, they are deeply bound together.

When we listen humbly, prayerfully and persistently to the Word of God, the causes of our sadness are unearthed and revealed. Room — indeed, hunger — is created in our hearts for the presence of Jesus. How blessed we are that the Word of God which illuminates our heart “sacramentally takes flesh in the event of the Eucharist” (Pope Benedict XVI, Verbum Domini, 55).

At the Last Supper, Jesus promised His disciples, “I will not leave you desolate; I will come to you” (Jn 14:18). On Easter Sunday, He stood in their midst and said, “Peace be with you” (Jn 20:19).

If ever we are tempted to despair, let us ask for the grace of the Holy Spirit to open our hearts anew to the Crucified and Risen Lord. And as the Church solemnly celebrates the Resurrection of Christ, His triumph over sin and death, may we recognize His saving, Eucharistic Presence and rejoice.

Pastoral Reflections

St. Peter reminds us today that Jesus Christ “...commissioned us to preach to the people and testify that He is the One appointed by God”. Who are the people you might speak openly to about your relationship with Christ? Pray for the courage to be like Peter and Mary Magdalen and tell your story—the story of how God has worked and continues to work in your life. This is not just good news; it is The Good News of Jesus Christ. Share it!

Flea Market Doing your spring cleaning? Why not put some treasures aside for the St. Cecilia Flea Market in September? We will begin accepting items in August. Please make sure everything is clean and in working condition.

Please do not donate baby items, upholstered furniture, stuffed animals, linens and electronics.

Altar Servers are needed! Children grade 3 and over are needed to serve at weekend Masses. Please call the Rectory at 508-881-1107 or speak with Fr. Cornell if your child is interested in helping. Thank you.

Thank You from St. Vincent de Paul

The members of the Society of St Vincent de Paul at St Cecilia Parish have again been overwhelmed by the generosity of those who contributed to the special last weekend. We are humbled to be your partners as we fulfill our mission in helping Ashland residents who occasionally find it difficult to meet their basic needs because of financial setbacks. We are also grateful to those who continue to pray for us and those we serve. Your financial assistance and your prayers make it possible for us to assist them. Help Deacon Mike Invite!

A true story by Harry Hills...“Excuse me,” said the young man, standing awkwardly at the open church door. “I’m here to pick up an Easter basket for my daughter. Am I in the right place?” “Well, we have baskets, but they’re not Easter baskets for kids; they’re food baskets,” I explained. To make sure everyone was taken care of, we had handed out numbers to the recipients that matched the basket they were supposed to receive. Each one contained a full Easter dinner—a whole ham, potatoes, bread, vegetables and a pie—plus enough staples to help feed a family for a week. Why not come in I said. He looked disappointed. He shook his head, and peered over his shoulder. “I can’t...my daughter is waiting for me in the car,” he said. “I’m grateful for the food, but when I heard you were giving away baskets for Easter...well, I thought they would be Easter baskets for children,” he continued. “I promised my daughter one.” “I left her in the car because I wanted to surprise her.” I felt bad, but there was nothing we could do. Our volunteers had put together food baskets, not Easter ones. We didn’t have the means to make up anything else. The man handed me his number, and I walked over to where the baskets were waiting for pick up. A bulge in one of the baskets caught my eye. What is that? I wondered. Leaning in and looking more closely, I could see, unmistakably, an Easter basket—filled with an assortment of candy and Easter eggs—and tucked inside with the food. One of the volunteers must have added it by mistake! I thought. Then I looked at the man’s number in my hand. Well, I’ll be... “Happy Easter,” I said to the man, handing him the only food basket with an Easter basket inside—the very same basket with his number on it. “Someone knew just what you needed.”

Happy Easter! Please invite someone to join us next week for Mass, and if for some reason you can not invite someone to join you, please keep the St. Cecilia Parish community in your prayers, that we may grow in faith, in holiness, and in numbers.
