Financing approved for $268,000 BLM field office

Coming down to the wire, the financing was finally approved for a $268,000 Bureau of Land Management Field office in Marsing. The announcement came during a city council meeting last week. Now the city and the government will hash out the details of the lease agreement.

In January, State Director K Lynn Bennett announced that plans were in motion to move the Lower Snake River District Field office into Owyhee County.

"With this approval, we can now begin work on defining the best approach for implementation of these refinements," Bennett stated. "It continues to be my commitment to implement these refinements, to the greatest degree possible, within existing budget and staffing levels and with the least disruption to staff and provision of services. The refinements to Idaho BLM's existing organization include: Renaming the District Offices within the state: In order to be consistent with BLM office title nomenclature, I was directed to rename the districts according to their District Office location."

The Lower Snake River District will be renamed to the Boise District. The Owyhee and Bruneau Field Offices, which merged in 2000, will be separated again and the Bruneau Field Office will continue to be located in the Boise District Office. But the Lower Snake River Field Office will eventually be located in Marsing. The Field Office boundaries will follow the Owyhee and Bruneau planning unit boundaries.

The financing had come under some concern when the city was told that they could not finance the building with a foundation due to lease requirements from the state.

Melba cancels football game

Officials scramble for homecoming opponent

With the plans in place, activities scheduled and disc jockey hired, the Homedale School District found itself scrambling to find an opponent for this year's main homecoming event. The plan was to host the Melba Mustangs for this year's game, but late last week, the Mustangs canceled its next two weeks of games due to lack of players. Nearly all of the football team was suspended from activities for violating school policy, which keeps them out of sports for two weeks. The suspension also affected the cross country and cheerleading teams.

Homedale High School Principal Mike Williams said the district began calling local schools including Meridian High School junior varsity, Ontario and Baker and as of late Friday afternoon, the plan was to play Meridian junior varsity on Saturday at 1 p.m.

"We turned it over to the school council and I feel that

West Nile virus skirts county lines

Virus confirmed in Elmore, Canyon, Ada and Malheur Counties

The West Nile virus is here, but as of this publication, has managed to circle Owyhee County even though several horses, birds and people have been diagnosed with the virus elsewhere.

A crow was discovered in Elmore County earlier this month and tested positive for the infection. It is the second bird diagnosed as infected after the discovery of a magpie with the disease in Gooding County earlier this month and a horse tested positive in Canyon County as well. Now several people have tested positive for the virus in Elmore, Ada, and Canyon Counties.

Local veterinarian Dr. Randy Bean said most horses in the county have already been inoculated, but residents should take additional precautions to keep their homes "somewhat" free of mosquitoes.

"My feeling is that the county may dodge the disease this year, but I am confident we will see it next year," Bean said Wednesday. "Pretty much everyone who is going to inoculate their horses have [done so] for this year."

Three dead blackbirds were reported to the Owyhee County Sheriff's office last week and the department is investigating if the birds were turned over to officials for testing. A dispatcher from the county said she had been in contact with the reporting party who stated she found the birds on her property near Murphy. She said the woman felt the birds had not been shot, but had not turned the birds in.

"If anyone finds dead birds that they know have not been shot or they don't know how they died, they need to contact us right away and we can help them through the process of having the birds picked up or checked," Sheriff Gary Aman said. "So far we have been lucky, but our luck won't hold out forever."

Health experts have advised area residents to use repellents and eliminate breeding areas by draining standing water on their property.

"We have seen West Nile infections in southwest Idaho and eastern Oregon in horses in recent weeks, and we are now seeing it in other areas of our state," says Dr. Leslie Tengelsen, Idaho Deputy State Epidemiologist. "This case indicates the virus is present in a broader area of the

Al Walradt beaks ground on second museum

Al Walradt is not a stranger to blessing the Owyhee County Museum as he turned the original dirt for the current building.

Friday night, Walradt was on hand to turn soil again for a new addition to the museum. Joining Walradt was Julie Hyslop, original first director, who turned the second shovel full of soil.

"I did the first building, but I was the second shovel full of dirt," Walradt said. "Walt Yarbrough turned the first shovel full. The shaky senator with the shaky shovel."

Museum Director Thom Couch opened the evening's events by introducing past directors and dignitaries.

Board Director John Larsen explained that the new building would be a 6,000 foot building connected to the current museum. He introduced the board of directors including Roy Herman, Nick Ihli, Jim and Jan Hyslop, Christ Collett, Barbara Jayo and Joanne Bachman.

"This started in 1960 with the first Owyhee County Historical Society," Larsen said. "In 1971 ground was broken for the original museum. In the proceeding years the members built the museum to be one of the more spectacular museums you will find. Our mission of course is to tell our story. When people come to our facility they will leave learning something."

The capital campaign has raised nearly half of what will be needed for the museum to add a 6,000-foot building connected to the current museum. It will have eight additional rooms added to the six-room building now with a multipurpose room complete with kitchen facilities for banquets and family gatherings. It will also have a library, shop, artifact storage area, two vaults, gift shop and an office for the director.

The campaign needs to raise about $600,000 for the project and currently they have raised nearly $300,000 from cash and in-kind donations, grants, fundraisers and pledges. Couch said the committee realized it would take about three to five years to raise the funds and complete the project.

People who would like to leave their mark on the museum can purchase a tile for a four by eight tile to an eight by eight tile from between $75 to $1,000. Couch said if a person wants to purchase a tile for their family, they could purchase a larger tile and put their family name on it, or their ranch name, company name and even a brand or a company logo on the tile.

"For larger donations we will do a mural of tiles so it may take up two square feet. Those will be placed in a special area. If we get larger donations we will also name a room after them. They can choose the name of the room, with board approval."

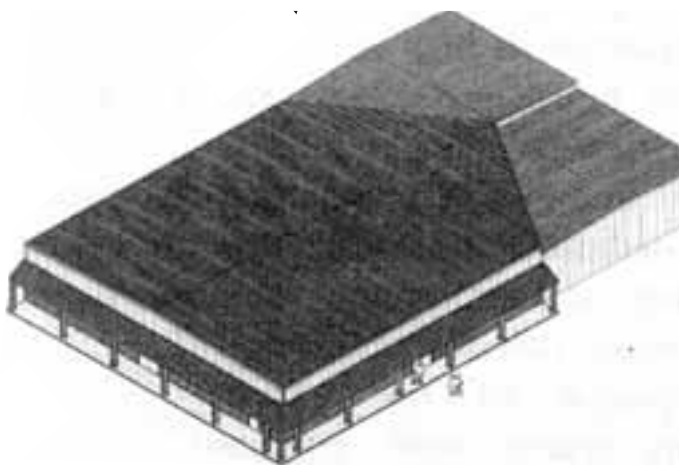

In October, the society will hold the second annual "Aloha from the Owyhees." The event is a Hawaiian Luau in Murphy complete with Hawaiian dancers, authentic cuisine and historic speakers. Last year the event raised $5,000 for the building fund.

Larsen said the building should be finished within the next couple of weeks and the project will begin to take place.

Original historians

Marge Walradt, Al Walradt, Barbara Jayo and Julie Hyslop were among the original museum board and attended the first ground breaking of the original museum over 30 years ago.

Marsing FFA Chapter awarded national honors

During the 77th annual National FFA Convention in Louisville, Kentucky, the Marsing FFA Chapter will be honored as a Two Star Chapter. The convention will take place on Oct. 27-30 and the Marsing Chapter will be there to accept their honor.

The National Chapter Award program is designed to award FFA chapters who actively implement the mission and strategies of the organization. The chapters improve chapter operations using a program of activities that emphasizes development in the following three divisions: student development encourages the chapter to develop individual and cooperative activities that will enhance students' life skills, chapter development, encourages the chapter to provide opportunities and services to its members through organized activities, community development, encourages the local development of FFA partnerships with other groups and organizations while taking a leadership role to make the community a better place to live and work.

The chapter will receive a multi-year plaque with an engraved plate that indicates its achievement of the Two-Star award. The "star" designation signifies overall achievement in the National Chapter Award program.

"The Marsing FFA Chapter was selected to be conferred one of the top three star rankings for the National Chapter Award program based upon how well the chapter developed, implemented and presented its program of activities," A spokesman from the National FFA said. "Each activity provides opportunities for members to excel in one or more of the three areas."

"Plans are being made for some of the chapter to attend the convention where not only will Nick Usabel be receiving his American Degree, but also were a number of our chapter members will be presenting the National Chapter Award to the National FFA," Marsing Chapter Advisor Jason Nettleton said. "We will have at least 12 members attending the convention."

Two injured in sprint boat accident

Two people were injured at the Marsing Sprint Boat track Friday afternoon while test-driving a new jet sprint boat. Lee Rice and Gary Ellis were test-driving a new jet sprint boat for the first time when Rice lost control of the craft and rolled it onto the bank.

Witnesses at the scene said Rice, 65 of Marsing, had bought the boat, a super boat class Mac Craft, in New Zealand last spring and was testing the craft for a trip to Australia for the World Series this week. Ellis, 77 of Caldwell was the boat's navigator.

Rice was taken to a local hospital by ambulance and Ellis was transported by air ambulance to a Boise hospital. Witnesses said Rice's wife, Doris, fainted at the scene and was transported with chest pains. She and Lee have since been released. Ellis remains in the hospital.

Elorriaga home to be auctioned Saturday

The former home of Ambrose Elorriaga and his wife will be put on the auction block Saturday in Jordan Valley. The auction will begin at 10 a.m. at 502 Swisher Ave.

Elorriaga donated the home to the Jordan Valley-Owyhee Heritage Council for the ION Museum. The proceeds from the house and the sale of some of the antiques in the home will be used for the project. The home, a replica of his wife's family home in Spain, was built by Ambrose.

He left his wife, Antonia and two daughters to come to the area in 1911 to work in the Delamar mines. It is said that his wife feared the wild west, but relented when her husband provided the stone house for his family to live in. Ambrose's family came to Jordan Valley in 1918.

The home was a boarding house for the many young Basques seeking their fortune in Oregon. Many Basque celebrations and dances have been held there over the years.

Jordan Valley-Owyhee Heritage Council was formed January 2002, in response to inquiries over many years as to the possibility of creating a museum to house and celebrate the history and culture of the I-O-N. JVOHC board of directors share a goal to provide a heritage center in which to display artifacts, photos, oral histories, folk art, and unique geological finds collected throughout the region and passed from generation to generation.

Members of Jordan Valley-Owyhee Heritage Council designed and opened Jordan Valley Now & Then showcasing format in downtown Jordan Valley, Oregon April 7th, 2003, with displays of donated and loaned historical artifacts and regional fine art and buckaroo gear. But coordinators have said that limitations of space, lighting and other conditions necessary for archival preservation of art, photos and artifacts underscored the need for a more suitable site.

Marsing City Council moves meeting date

Due to council conflicts, the city council in Marsing approved moving their regular monthly meetings from the second Tuesday of every month to the second Wednesday of the month.

Copies of the meeting agenda will still be posted in three locations throughout the city prior to the meetings and councilman Ed Pfeifer said anyone wishing to obtain a copy of prior approved meeting minutes could do so from the city clerk.

Weekend accident

Homedale EMT Lisa Price looks at the damage done to a Dodge pickup Sunday afternoon after the driver drove off of the roadway into a ditch near the Homedale Airport. David Stalma, 41 of Marsing, was transported to a local hospital with head injuries. The Homedale Police Department is investigating the accident.

"We were told that we had to wait three weeks to get an answer to our financing," Mayor Don Osterhoudt said. "We were told that with a foundation it would lock the foundation down to the property and therefore it would be like leasing property back to ourselves. We cannot lease a property we own."

"The way the bank looked at it was that the city would be leasing a piece of property it owns back to itself," City Attorney Chris Yorgeson said.

Osterhoudt said the quickest fix would be to refrain from putting the new building on a foundation and leave it on blocks "like a trailer house."

"We would skirt it and leave it like a mobile home," Osterhoudt told the council. "But today, (Tuesday of last week), we got a call from Intermountain Community Bank and they told us they needed a $40,000 upfront payment to do the project. I didn't have a problem with that, but this morning I contacted Wells Fargo Bank and by this afternoon we had a loan commitment for $270,000 and all of the necessary paperwork to secure the loan."

Osterhoudt said under the new loan the city would be able to put the building on a permanent foundation, which they could not do with the original loan.

Osterhoudt said a draft copy of the lease agreement has been received by the city and the city's attorney was going over the document before the city would sign it. He said he hopes to have the lease signed before the end of the month.

The BLM has agreed to lease a 3,224 square foot building, which the city is installing at 20 First Avenue West in Marsing. They will also lease a 37,000 square feet of "wareyard" on 8th Avenue West, near the County Extension Office, for equipment storage. The BLM will pay the city $48,000 per year at a rate of $4,000 per month. The city will pay for the water, sewer and trash collection, the lawn maintenance and snow removal of the building.

The project is expected to be complete by Nov. 1.

state, so people need to take precautions to protect themselves and their families from mosquito bites." West Nile virus is spread through the bite of an infected mosquito. West Nile virus is not contagious; people cannot contract the virus from contact with infected animals or people.

So far this year, West Nile Virus has been attributed to more than 360 cases of severe neurological diseases and about two-dozen deaths in the United States. The Western states of California and Arizona have reported the highest number of West Nile deaths.

Last week the first case of West Nile in a human in Ada County was reported. An elderly man who lives part-time in Ada County tested positive for the virus. Two additional cases of the virus were reported over the last several weeks, one case in Gooding County and another in Elmore County.

The symptoms of West Nile mimic those of the flu. They include fever, headache, muscle aches, tiredness, nausea and vomiting, eye pain, skin rash and enlarged lymph nodes. In rare cases, the virus can lead to serious illness in those over the age of 50.

Officials from the Idaho Department of Fish and Game said hunters should not be concerned about contracting the virus from birds as upland game bird season began last week.

"Because the virus is known to seriously impact some bird species, sportsmen want to know if they should be concerned as they pursue quail, pheasant and chukars," A spokesman from IDF&G said. "Wildlife and health experts say the main risk to anyone headed outdoors is being bitten by a mosquito carrying the virus, and even this is unlikely."

"There is no evidence people can be infected by eating game or other meat infected with West Nile virus, but hunters should use standard health and safety practices when they handle, clean or cook any wild game."

Hunters are advised to wear gloves to prevent direct contact with animal blood and they should always cook meat thoroughly before they eat it.

"The only evidence of direct transfer of West Nile virus from birds to humans without going through a mosquito are two accidental infections when lab technicians cut themselves while handling heavily infected birds," the IDF&G said.

A Vale teenager tested positive for a case of the disease on Sept. 9, becoming the first human case to be reported in the state. The positive test report came back to the Oregon Department of Human Services.

they wanted to hold off homecoming until October," Williams said. "They (Melba) have lost 10 starters, 11 varsity players and they are out about 30 kids total. What we will do now is play a powderpuff game on Friday night and host Meridian junior varsity on Saturday."

Athletic Director Randy Potter said he expected about $3,000 in revenue from the game and hoped the revenue would be close to that much with the change in scheduling. Williams said the classes have also thrown in $100 per class for decorations for the parade. He said the incident has made a huge impact on the students preparing for homecoming events.

Williams said the problem is teams are only allowed to play nine games in a season. He said Meridian, Ontario and Baker have scheduled those games and to be allowed to play an additional game, they have to have the approval of their athletic association, which Meridian got Friday afternoon.

"Obviously Melba has suffered a huge impact from these actions," Williams continued. "But now Wendell has lost a game and they have a bye the following week. We are not only out the game, but homecoming. Three communities and many athletes have been affected. Big consequences for bad choices."

Scales of Justice bass tourney slated

The first every Scales of Justice Bass tournament was held at C.J. Strike Reservoir Sunday to give children in trouble a chance to be commended for good behavior. Ada County Juvenile Judge John C. Vehlow in connection with the Ada County Juvenile Court Services and the Idaho Bass Federation hosted the event, which Vehlow hopes will have a positive impact on children in Idaho as well as around the nation.

"The reason is simple, but too-long overlooked," Vehlow said before the tournament. "As a group, these tournament fishermen are great people who demonstrate good sportsmanship and high moral values not only in tournaments, but also in life. Most juveniles on probation are not bad kids; they are merely troubled, often by some type of dysfunction from their life's history. This tournament will give each fisherman an opportunity to serve as a role model for a youth in need and, at the same time, will grant the child an opportunity to have an exciting, positive, and pro-social activity. It will create a win-win situation. In fact, the tournament will be a success if just one juvenile is steered down the right path of life."

The kids met at Black Sand's Resort on Sunday and after the National Anthem, a four-hour tournament began. Each team had a court officer on board and a three fish weigh-in limit. Plaques and photos for the kids and a cookout followed on shore.

Assistance centers open to support military families

Many families in Owyhee County are dealing with the absence of a loved one overseas. The National Guard announced last week that two local centers have trained personnel standing by for National Guard Family Assistance Centers to help families in need of assistance and referral information.

Family members of soldiers, airmen, sailors and marines can receive assistance and referral services on legal matters, medical benefits, family care plans and financial planning training.

"These types of services are crucial to a family when a military member is deployed," Lt. Col. Tim Marsano said. "The United States military firmly believes that preparing a family for deployment is one of the best ways to ensure the readiness of a soldier, sailor, marine or airman. Having the resources to make this happen, all under one roof, will make future transitions much easier for the military member and his/her family."

"Family Assistance Centers are focused on getting family members information on entitlements and benefits available to them and providing referrals for assistance if needed," said Chief Warrant Officer Judy Groner, Idaho National Guard family assistance coordinator.

According to Groner, the demands on National Guard and Reserve members and their families are increasing and becoming more complex. The assurance that their families will be cared for and will have support and assistance, if needed while they are away, is an essential component that helps members be fully prepared to respond and effectively carry out their mission. FACs play a critical role in insuring that this happens.

Family Assistance Centers are intended to simplify the process of accessing needed services and support for families of service members called to active duty for an extended period of time. The primary mission of any Family Assistance Center is to inform and emotionally support families so Guard and Reserve members can perform their mission. Services are available to all military members called to active duty and their families. No military personnel or family member will be turned away from a Family Assistance Center regardless of their branch.

In Boise, a center is open at Gowen Field, 422-4387 or in Caldwell at the National Guard Armory at 1200 S. Kimball. Those needing assistance can call 422-7311.

Owyhee Farm Bureau proposes new policies

Four members of the Owyhee County Farm Bureau recently attended the Idaho Farm Bureau District IV resolutions adopted at each of the seven county Farm Bureaus. Those policy resolutions that are accepted at the district level will then be forwarded to the Idaho Farm Bureau to be considered by voting delegates from all 37 county Farm Bureaus in the state.

Owyhee County President Tim Lowry, Ted Blackstock, David Shenk and Jerry Hoagland presented policies that had been adopted at the policy development meeting that was held on Aug. 17. Policy topics presented included, removing the Idaho spring snail from the endangered species list, releasing non-suitable BLM land from wilderness study area status, BSE testing, supporting the current state brand laws, and other public lands and livestock issues.

Of the nine policy resolutions that were presented to the district by the Farm Bureau, all were accepted at the district level and will now be forwarded for consideration at the annual convention in Moscow in December. If adopted, the policies will then guide the organization as they seek to support agriculture in the state.

Lowry expressed thanks to all county members who participated in the county's policy development meeting in August.

"This is truly a grassroots organization," Lowry said. "Without the support and participation of our members, we wouldn't be able to truly represent their concerns and accomplish our goal of assisting members to resolve local issues."

Other business conducted at the district meeting included the nomination of members to serve for a two-year term on the Farm Bureau Commodity Committees. Members who were elected by the district were, Ted Blackstock, state livestock committee and Jerry Hoagland, state water committee.

Counting chukars in southern Idaho

By Andy Ogden, Regional Wildlife Biologist
Idaho Department of Fish and Game – Southwest Region

Since chukar populations can vary widely from year to year in response to weather conditions, chukar hunters are always eager to learn about the chukar counts conducted by Fish and Game each fall. Counts on the Salmon and Snake Rivers, and Lucky Peak and Brownlee Reservoirs were just completed.

Before we get to the numbers, here's how the counts are accomplished. A helicopter is used to follow a mountain's contours at intervals of 400 feet in elevation. By starting at the lowest elevation and flying back and forth across the sample area to the upper edge of chukar habitat, a fairly accurate estimate of bird numbers is possible. Because the helicopter has to fly at low elevation to get the birds to flush, biologists on board have only seconds to count each flock. The observers are sometimes able to identify Gray (Hungarian) partridge when they flush in front of the helicopter, but since the birds cannot always be identified to species, they are combined into the "chukar" count.

This census method was developed by Nevada Fish and Game and has been found to accurately reflect changes in chukar populations. Rather than providing a total census of the population, the count represents an index to bird numbers. Since the same areas are flown in the same way and at about the same time each year, the number of birds counted is comparable from year to year.

So, how does it look for this year? The Brownlee Reservoir chukar count found 155 birds per square mile, which is 11 percent higher than last year and 12 percent above the ten-year average. Bottom line: chukar numbers at Brownlee are very strong, the highest they've been in ten years and the second highest ever counted.

We found fewer birds at Lucky Peak (where chukar habitat is not as good) but at 36 per square mile, the population in this area is about 43 percent above the count average.

Up in the Clearwater region, biologists found 145 birds per square mile on the Lower Salmon River (84 percent above average) and 49 birds per square mile (nine percent above average) on the Lower Snake River.

As the numbers clearly show, overall we're expecting a very good year for chukar hunting. Good luck!

Weeds, sage grouse, peppergrass top appropriations bill

The Senate Appropriations Committee approved the fiscal year 2005 Interior and related agencies and Agriculture Appropriations bills last week. Idaho Senator Larry Craig, a member of the committee, announced that several projects that will directly affect Owyhee County and southern Idaho were included.

"Today the senate takes this year's first step in supporting Idaho's natural resource priorities and their beneficial management, all within a fiscally responsible bill," Craig said last week. "I'm pleased the Appropriations Committee continues to recognize the importance of our noxious weeds management programs as well as acknowledging the impact endangered species such as wolves, sage grouse and slickspot peppergrass have on Idaho citizens."

Key projects in the Interior bill include Idaho's strategic plan for managing noxious weeds, $500,000. "The Idaho State Department of Agriculture is in its fifth year of implementing the Idaho strategic plan for managing noxious weeds," Craig said in a press release last week. "Idaho developed the plan through a collaborative effort involving private landowners, state and federal land managers, state and local governmental entities and other interested parties. The project provides incentives for the local groups to build leadership and an integrated program that will outlive the grant program."

The sage grouse management plan, slated for $500,000. "In 1997, the State of Idaho Department of Fish and Game put together a state sage grouse management plan that sought to prevent the listing of the sage grouse under the endangered species act," Craig continued. "The plan will prioritize, develop and expedite to the extent practicable all management actions including juniper expansion control, fire rehabilitation and sagebrush restoration and all other items related to the prevention of sage grouse listing under the ESA."

The slickspot peppergrass plan budgeted for $110,000. "This line item supports the conservation measures of the candidate conservation agreement between the State of Idaho, through the Office of Species Conservation, in conjunction with its partners, the Idaho National Guard, Bureau of Land Management, and numerous non-governmental cooperators," Craig explained. "This agreement led to the withdrawal of the proposed rule to list the plant as endangered. Continued implementation is necessary under the terms of the agreement and it is important to monitor the results of the measures to ensure that they are effective for the plant."

Additional projects include the Idaho wolf recovery for $1.2 million, Boise foothills land conservation for one million dollars and the Henry's Lake land conservation budgeted for $750,000.

Both bills will now go to the full Senate for consideration.

County receives $287,578 check

A check in the amount of $287,578.00 was received Monday by Owyhee County Clerk Barbara Jayo. The check, from the federal government, is the "in-lieu of taxes" monies due the county for fiscal year 1979.

The Owyhee County check was $20 more than the figure released by the BLM and $25,178 more than the county expected.

This year's budget already carries the anticipated funds, Jayo noted, and the $25,178 has been placed in a trust fund for distribution at a later date. "We didn't budget for that, so we can't spend it without opening the budget" she explained.

Homedale Trojans to tackle Notus Friday afternoon

The Homedale Trojans will be without the services of Fred Demshar, 195 pound center, when they play Notus Friday, tomorrow afternoon. Fred is in Salt Lake City, Utah, at a medical clinic for stomach trouble and may miss the remainder of the season, this will be a blow to the line because of Fred's size and experience.

Either Junior Uranga, a converted end, or John Lane will fill the vacancy of Demshar at center.

The probable starting lineup for Homedale tomorrow will be:

Other boys to see action in the game will be Bob Carrico, guard; Vic Landa, quarterback; Bill Phillips, guard; Leon Moss, end; Bob Greer, tackle; Dave Kushlan, tackle.

The Notus game which will be played at Notus will be the first game of the season for the Trojans and the next game, with Adrian, September 24, will be the first home game and will start at 2:30 o'clock.

Graveyard Point

Prof. Harold Tucker, College of Idaho, will be the speaker at Graveyard Point, seven and a half miles southwest of Homedale at 2:30 Sunday afternoon, when a monument at the site is dedicated.

Earl Van Deventer, Caldwell, chairman of the committee which raised funds for the monument and the pipe rail which will guard it, said that the funds for the monument came from the rock hounds of the west, to whom Graveyard Point is an important landmark.

The point marks the entrance to a valley in which rock hounds from throughout the nation come to search for agates which abound there.

The point was named from the fact that seven persons were buried there in the sagebrush and greasewood. In his efforts to determine who the people were and from whence they came, Van Deventer came up with some information but it was scarce. Buried there, he said in 1896, was a man named McConnell who died violently. In 1901, infants of the Jake Mussel and William Thomas families were buried there. Jack Sparks was buried there in 1914 and Uncle Billy Stull was buried there at a time unknown.

The plot on which the marker is being placed belongs to G. W. Hankins who donated it for the site.

CHINESE FIGHTS are not infrequent or mild performances. They usually occur inside the celestial (?) dens, and from the direful shrieks and their continuance as frequently heard from the outside, they must be very impressive. When a herd of Melican men are seen peering into the window of a Chinese crib, it is a sure indication that a fistic battle is raging. We have sometimes thought that it would not be incompatible with the duty of an officer to arrest these quarrels and the offenders; that it would be even a kindness to the belligerent parties to do so; but we do not insist on the correctness of our cogitation's. It is so easy to promulgate an error when discussing official matters that we'll only give vent to our natural impulses when the air resounds with the revengeful and doleful cries of the pugnacious celestials.

EASTMAN & MILLER have been giving the old part of the Idaho Hotel quite a new appearance. A new roof, more windows, an addition, and free use of paint unite in making it a more inviting and roomy house. The Idaho receives a large patronage as such a house must anywhere. All the stages arrive at and depart from it.

NOTICE. Parties wishing to witness a fight between James Dwyer and Patsey Foy, (which comes of tomorrow) are hereby notified that they will not be permitted to enter the ring with deadly weapons of any kind. There will be no exceptions, all will be treated alike.

The backers of Foy positively assure us that the fight will be a genuine affair, and will come off as published agreement, each party intending to win the fight if possible. We are of the opinion that there will be no humbug attempted, certain it is that the best posted men are betting their money in good faith.

SECOND STREET. It will be seen by an order of the County Commissioners that this street must be opened, if it requires the "whole power of the County" to accomplish the work. Mr. Massy, Road Supervisor, will see that this order is peremptory. He believes the street to rightly extend to Jordan Creek, and now he will be sustained by the County authorities in opening it. The question now is, will he enforce the order of the Board?

COUNTY JAIL. This building has just been furnished with a new roof and some other necessary repairs. The old roof leaked and was not fit for winter. There should be windows put in the cells with the usual grates for security. The cells are in a cleanly condition, but prisoners should have some light. The cost of small windows in each cell would be little, and ought to be incurred.

O. DAVIS AND R.E. HALLOCK were appointed and instructed to lay out across street from Washington to Jordan Street, and across said street, in Silver City, north of Long Gulch, commencing at the northwest corner of the property of H. B. Maize, and extending across Jordan Street 1,000 feet in an easterly direction said street to be not less than 30 feet wide; and, also, to report the damages that any party or parties may sustain by reason thereof; and to report to this Court on the third Monday in October next. Said Commissioners are given discretion to make the location of said street on any of the adjacent grounds they may deem best.

THE ROAD SUPERVISOR for Road District No. 2 is instructed to clear all obstructions on Second Street, in Silver City, commencing on Jordan Street, in Silver City, commencing on Jordan Street, and remove all obstructions on said Second Street easterly to Jordan Creek and to use the whole power to the County to assist in doing so, if necessary.

Ordered that the Collector of promiscuous licenses be and he is hereby required to report the names of each and every party or parties to whom any license may issue; also, the date of said licensee and time when issued.

Student's first vehicle destroyed by thieves

Gutted

Cory Uria stands in front of what is left of his pickup after it was stolen Thursday night. Uria attended a volleyball game at Homedale High School and was gone from the vehicle for about 20 minutes when he discovered that it had been stolen.

Charred remains

Cory Uria and his grandfather Kenne Metzer, stand near the charred remains of Cory's pickup after law enforcement officers found the stolen vehicle in Wilder.

Cory Uria, 15, son of Dennis and Teri Uria of Homedale, has only had his driver's license for two weeks, but he has spent the last year working on his first vehicle, which was previously owned by his grandfather. Thursday night, Cory's work was destroyed by vehicle thieves who took his 1978 pickup and set it on fire after stealing his car stereo.

Cory was watching a Homedale volleyball game Thursday night and left his vehicle in the parking lot for approximately 20 minutes. When he returned he found that his pickup was gone.

"We just want people to be aware of what is going on," Dennis said Monday. "Cory only left his pickup for a few minutes, but you can bet these people who took it were casing out the parking lot longer than that."

Homedale Police Chief Jeff Eidemiller said he has "multiple" people of interest in the case, all of them are juveniles. The vehicle was found in a field near Wilder Saturday night and Eidemiller said the only thing missing was the stereo.

Trojans lose to McCall, beat Fruitland 4-1

Homedale picked up its first conference win Thursday in a 3A Snake River Valley soccer match over Fruitland to improve to 1-2-0. The win was an offset to a loss from McCall earlier in the week. The Vandals stopped Homedale with a 4-1 victory.

Galo Albor gave the Trojans a quick 1-0 lead with a goal off an assist from Erik Padilla in the 16th minute, but Fruitland equalized four minutes later.

But that was all for the Grizzlies, as Homedale scored three unanswered goals to end the game and keeper Luis Ascuita made five saves in the 4-1 victory.

“Defender David Liddell had an outstanding performance tonight,” he said. “We had a very good night, the communication on the field was great, and we never stopped attacking the goal.”

Ivan Flores scored the winning goal in the 33rd minute on an assist from Javier Sotelo, who scored the game’s final two goals. Padilla and Jacob Anthony assisted Sotelo.

In McCall Albor scored the team’s only goal, in the 36th minute, assisted by Anthony.

“There was good communication throughout the three thirds of the field,” Homedale Coach David Correa said. “It was nice to see some of the boys take leadership on the field and steer the team in the right direction. Everyone on the team contributed to the victory. However, defender David Liddell deserves special recognition for his constant effort on the field.”

Nampa Christian stops Lady Huskies in three

Nampa Christian survived a close second-game in its 25-18, 27-25, 25-11 win in a 2A Western Idaho Conference volleyball match with Marsing on Thursday.

Angela Martinez had 11 service points and four aces, Nicole Gelinas added six service points and Mollee Nielsen finished with six digs and six assists for the Huskies (0-2, 0-5).

Marsing will travel to Parma to meet the Panthers on Thursday and to Fruitland for the junior varsity-varsity tournament on Sept. 25. On Sept. 28, the Huskies will host the Melba Mustangs.

Raiders sweep

Wilder

The Rimrock Raiders swept aside Wilder, despite a solid effort from the Wildcats in volleyball action last week.

Rimrock won 25-23, 25-19, 27-25 to improve to 2-1 in league and overall.

Robynn Ridley paced the Raiders 14 service points, five kills and two blocks, while Shannon Hipwell turned in 17 service points, three aces, seven assists and three kills.

Elizabeth Abrego led Wilder (1-3, 1-3) with an ace, five assists and eight kills, while teammate Kayla Williams finished with six kills and four digs.

The Raiders will travel to Gem State on Thursday and to Cole Valley on Sept. 27. They will then host Idaho City on Sept. 28.

Pleasant open house

Pleasant Valley School held an open house on the evening of Sept. 15th. Bryce Kershner and Catie Kershner performed “Who’s on First.” The entire student body performed a second reader’s theater performance, “The Legend of Lightning Larry.” After the performances concluded refreshments were served and everyone was free to view classroom projects and visit with teachers. It was an opportunity for the community to meet the new superintendent, Mrs. Andree Scown.

Jordan Valley conquers Crane

Jordan Valley hosted Crane for Middle School volleyball and football on Saturday. The Mustangs swept Crane in football and volleyball. The Varsity football's final score was 14-8. The junior varsity, consisting of 5th and 6th graders, does not officially score their games.

Head Coach Mike Quintero said, "junior varsity football at the middle school level is mostly done for fundamentals and fun." He went on to say that this weekend was most meaningful though, because it has been at least four or five years since Jordan Valley has beaten Crane.

The next football game will be at Jordan Valley on September 30th. The Game will be at 3:30 p.m. against Harper.

The Volleyball team was elated over their victories as well. The junior varsity scores were 25-22 and 25-22. The varsity scores were (best 3 of 5) 25-15, 21-25, 25-21, 25-7. Michelle Telleria had 7 kills off a serve for the junior varsity team. The varsity team had many players shining. Catie Kershner and Nickie Naugle had 7 assists. Kayla Cuvelier had 7 kills and Emma Johnson completed 26 good passes.

Head coach Melinda Cuvelier said, "They all passed well and worked effectively as a team. It is mainly those serves that win the game. We emphasize good passes and good serves at the middle school level."

Harper Hornets can't sting J.V. Mustangs

Mustangs gallop past Locomotives, Bulldogs prevail

by Hayley Johnson

Harper Hornets lost to the Jordan Valley Mustangs in three volleyball matches on Friday. They came out pumped and ready to play, but couldn't quite get the win they were hoping for over the Mustangs.

"This game was a lot more serious than the one we had just played with Huntington earlier; it was a completely different game. The level of intensity was higher, even more so than we had expected." Mustang Angela Larson said.

Game scores were fairly close the entire way around, even though the Mustangs won all three matches played. The scores were 25-19, 25-23, and 25-17. Lauren Cuvelier led Jordan Valley with 7 kills, 7 blocks, and 8 points while Kim Clark led the Hornets.

"Harper is a very scrappy team with some good hitters. Our girls played a hard game and passed the ball well. Our front row hit and blocked great. We are looking forward to a tough week against Nyssa, Dayville/Monument, and the Burnt River Tournament." Commented Mustangs' Head Coach, Tracy Skinner.

The Huntington Locomotives showed lots of spirit with their game against the Jordan Valley Mustangs last Friday in Harper, however that alone wasn't enough to score them a win.

Mustangs plowed through the Locomotives in only three out of the potential five matches. Huntington passed fairly well, but had a hard time with many of the serves and hits that came their way. The first and second matches were 25-7 and 25-2. Bailey Kershner, a sophomore from Jordan Valley, served the entire last match against the Locomotives; the score was 25-2. She led the Mustangs with a total of 39 points and 12 assists. Lauren Cuvelier also helped lead the Mustangs' way with 6 kills.

Skinner commented that "the girls played very well and just had an all around good game."

Long and intense are probably the words that best describe the volleyball game between Nyssa and Jordan Valley on Thursday, Sept. 16th.

It took five lengthy matches before the Nyssa Bulldogs beat Jordan Valley Mustangs. The Mustangs stole the first match with a score of 25-21, but the Bulldogs retaliated in the following two matches, with scores of 25-22 and 25-15. Competition was heated by the fourth match, which the Mustangs pulled together to take, 25-21. Nyssa came out as "top dog" in the fifth and final match, however, and beat the Mustangs by three, 15-13.

Nyssa Bulldogs were led by a strong front row, good serves, and fair passing all the way around. Alma Escobedo, a senior Bulldog, contributed 10 kills, 5 blocks, and 20 points, two of which were aces. Kayleen Mitchell, also a Bulldog senior, had 10 kills, 10 blocks, and 13 points, one of which was an ace. J.V. Mustangs were having a good game picking up the ball and putting it down, but they had their off and on moments.

"We had kind of a shaky middle there for a while," says Mustang's Larsen, "but we pulled together enough to put up a really good fight, especially at the end. I think it will be fun to see what happens this coming Thursday when we play them again."

Lady Trojans fall to Vikings in first conference match

The Homedale Lady Trojans fell to the Middleton Vikings in a conference opener volleyball match last week 25-18, 25-17, 25-17 in the team's first 3A Snake River Valley debut.

Hailey Hall led the way for the Trojans (0-1 conference, 1-3 overall) with seven service points and four kills, while Jolene Maxwell and Megan Moulton each added four digs for Homedale.

For the Vikings, Ashley Quenzer led the way with eight kills. Donnae Carrell added six kills, eight digs, and eight aces to the Vikings cause, while Sarah Buhler had five kills in the win.

On Thursday, the team picked-up a conference win over the McCall-Donnelly Vandals. Homedale stopped the Vandals with a 3-0 sweep, 25-20, 25-21 and 26-24.

Jolene Maxwell headlined the effort for the Trojans (1-1, 1-2) with eight kills and seven digs, while Hailey Hall added six kills and Shannon Batt served up 10 assists and slammed down four kills.

"We played considerably better than our last game out, so we're improving," Homedale coach Jim Smyth.

Middle school athletes scramble with NC Trojans

The seventh grade Homedale Middle School football team opened their season with a non-league game against the Nampa Christian Trojans last week. The team, under new coaches Doug Anders and Bill Roberts, lost 14-6, but played well at times.

The Trojan defense held NC's offense nearly scoreless. An interception return to the five-yard line led to the first score, and the kickoff return at the beginning of the 3rd quarter led to the second touchdown.

Athletic Director Luci Mereness said the Trojans made a few mistakes, but overall with a lot of young kids playing new positions, it was a good effort.

The Trojans scored on a sweep by Trent Acree, but the two-point conversion was stopped.

"It was a good effort overall by Homedale" commented Coach Anders. "We had a lot of kids who haven't played football before, and some kids in new positions so I was pleased with the effort" "We are looking forward to our first SRV game at Weiser on Tuesday."

The Homedale Trojans football team lost its composure Friday night and allowed the New Plymouth Pilgrims to slow them down for a 23-21 loss in New Plymouth.

Trojan coach Thomas Thomas said his team has played better games, but this was not one of them.

"We gave it to them," Thomas said. "Our offense was a little flat, they were very aggressive. We under estimated them."

Thomas said the Trojans managed to get a safety in the first quarter and the Pilgrim's defense held the Trojans for a first quarter touchdown. He said in the second quarter Homedale got within field goal position and New Plymouth blocked the effort.

"They picked it up and went for an 80 yard touchdown," Thomas said. "That brought them up. We didn't panic."

Thomas said Homedale came out in the second quarter and answered with two touchdowns. He said in the third quarter, Homedale fumbled in a poor position.

"It put them on the 25 yard line and the made a short drive," Thomas explained. "We came back marched the length of the field and scored again."

By the end of the third quarter, Homedale was up 21-17 and were able to run the clock and keep the lead. New Plymouth jumped out strong in the fourth quarter and shot the Trojans out of the match with a march and left Homedale with not enough time for another touchdown.

"The way I look at it is our mistakes cost us," Thomas said. "It happens."

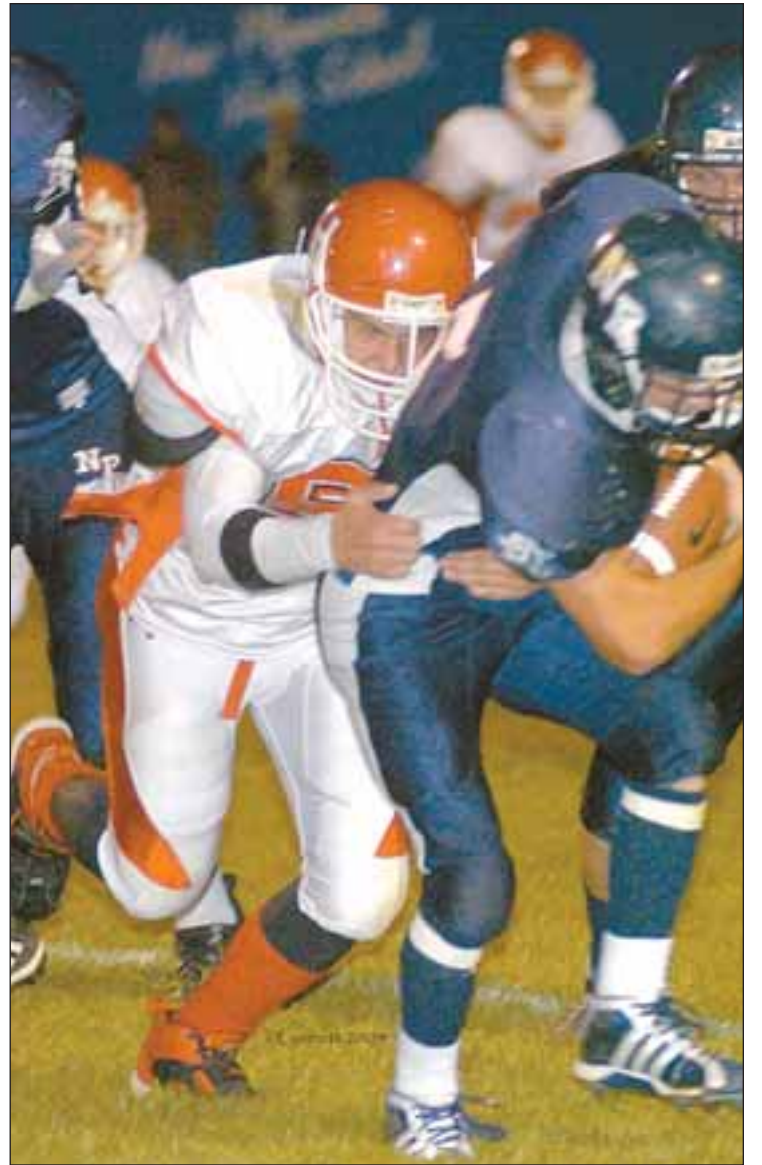

Brett Hopkins led Homedale with 23 attempts, 19 completions for 229 yards. He had one touchdown and one interception. Nick Williams had one interception.

In receiving, Williams had 11 receptions for 114 yards, Mark Sevy had some key catches with four and one touchdown. Ricky Lawson went two for 17 and Kyle Carson also went two for 17.

Lawson had 10 for 42 yards on the ground with one touchdown. Carson had five for 27 yards and one touchdown and Hopkins went nine for minus 22.

Homedale hosts Meridian High School junior varsity on Saturday at 1 p.m. for its homecoming game.

On the edge of common sense

Questions & concerns for modern Veterinary Medicine

I have been pondering the state of Veterinary Medicine in the new millennium. These subjects deserve some deeper thought, or at least a grant application for further study:

1. The plethora of chickens – the dearth of chicken practitioners.
2. The value of veterinarians in the war against bioterrorism.
3. Is there a place for grooming in an exclusive reptile practice?
4. What is the most important discovery in vet medicine since 1969?
5. What do you think of quacks in horse medicine, human medicine and brokerage firms?
6. Recipes for traditionally inedible species.
7. Alternative medicine for animals.
8. Are men in veterinary medicine a thing of the past?
9. How to deal with barnsour children that won't leave home.
10. What do you think of horses as house pets?
11. Cell phones: Have they made your life more fulfilling?
12. The future of leather shoes, purses, and seat covers made of doghide.
13. The new prestige of government veterinarians.
14. The value of Chinese medicine in non-Oriental species.
15. The difference between an exclusive cat practice and an exclusive cow practice.
16. What do you think of the possibility of cat farming?
17. What do you think of homeopathic cures for baldness, erectile dysfunction and dandruff in swine?
18. Do dogs have a heaven?
19. Body piercing in veterinary medicine: fashion statement or cruelty?
20. What do you think of the declining interest in the practice of food animal medicine?
21. Humane euthanasia techniques in an insect practice; squash or spray?
22. Alternative uses for cat hair, llama milk, ostrich feet, hoof clippings, Rocky Mountain oysters and former large animal veterinarians.
23. If Mexican veterinarians can spay 50 600-lb heifers in an hour – does this cast suspicion on small animal vets who make such a show of spaying a cat?
24. If humans are evolving, what major physical change will occur in the next 100,000 years?

Wayne Cornell

Not important ... but possibly of interest

In 1965, this writer was a 20-year-old college dropout. Because of my education status, or lack thereof, I received a letter from the Selective Service, inviting me to come to Boise and take a physical to determine if I was fit to serve in the military.

At about the same time I got the notice to take the physical, I was contacted by the older brother of a high school classmate. He was a member of the local Army National Guard unit, which was having a recruiting drive. He invited me to come over and check things out.

The draft was part of life for the male members of my generation. I was fairly certain that even with my certified flat feet, I would end up in some branch of the military service. If I waited for the draft to take me, I would have no choice in what type of training I received. The National Guard offered me job options. So I signed on the dotted line and swore an oath to defend the Constitution and the country.

For many Guardsmen serving during that period, including yours truly, the organization became more than one weekend a month and a two-week summer camp. Additional manpower was needed because of the Vietnam War and the reserve forces were a place to get those bodies.

I spent the first three years of my Guard duty in a combat engineer unit. In 1968, our unit was changed to armored cavalry. Right after the change, all the remaining Guard engineer units in the state were called to federal service and sent to Vietnam. The general feeling was we wouldn't be too far behind them. Our training was accelerated. Instead of one Saturday and Sunday a month, it was two weekends - starting Friday evening and ending Sunday night- virtually all that training time spent in the field. Officers and noncoms donated many additional weekends-for no pay. We believed it was only a matter of time until "the balloon went up."

Then tide turned. The U.S. withdrew from Southeast Asia and we went back to a normal training schedule. I wound up spending 13 years in the Guard before my civilian job responsibilities made it impossible to continue. I left as a Sergeant First Class (E-7).

Most of the men in our unit who joined the Guard in the late 1960s did so for the same reasons I joined - to have more control over their military destinies. Yes, we avoided the draft. But I can't name one man in our unit who would have refused to go if we had been called to active duty.

During the present presidential campaign, the challenger, who spent 120 days in Vietnam and got to come home after getting four superficial "wounds," has been attacking the President, for his service in the National Guard during the same period I served. The President's opponent paints himself as a war hero because he served in Vietnam, while suggesting the President, and all Guardsmen by association, didn't have the guts to be real soldiers.

I believe I speak for a lot of National Guardsmen and reservists from the Vietnam era when I say we did the job we were asked to do. We honored our commitment. We didn't go to Canada. And we didn't demonstrate against the war or call our fellow soldiers "baby killers." Heck, my injuries during maneuvers in the desert south of Boise were worse than John Kerry suffered in Vietnam.

I am a former member of the National Guard who deeply resents former Navy Lieutenant Junior Grade Kerry's insinuations. I would like to tell him personally, using language skills acquired during my time in the military. Because that is impossible, I will register my disgust in another way – at the ballot box.

Letter to the editor

Opponent has none of these attributes

It's getting close to election time. For County Sheriff there are two candidates. One, Gary Aman, running for re-election on the Republican ticket, and the other, Robert Muse, an Independent.

Sheriff Aman's opponent sues everyone that he doesn't agree with, wants to "force the commissioners" into expanding the budget, even knowingly he commits a crime every time he puts a political sign on highway rights of way. He does not live in the county but says that is his "intent". He makes all kinds of promises that he cannot possibly keep.

Find out why he was fired from Nampa Schools and Owyhee County. Ask how many times he has initiated legal action against a former employer. He says he owns a business in Nampa but yet documents show he sold it. Another document says "When I owned Suicycle." Something's amiss.

Sheriff Aman has thousands of hours of training in law enforcement and supervisory skills, his opponent has only basic jailer training. A Sheriff needs experience and training.

Some of the correspondence from Muse to Aman reads as follows: "Please understand I hold you, Gary, in the highest personal regard." "I believe in your courage and wisdom." "With greatest respect for your efforts." "I strongly support your position and service to this community." "Thank you for your dedicated efforts, overtime and work." It is obvious he thought Sheriff Aman was a great sheriff.

Sheriff Aman resides in Murphy, pays county taxes, votes in Owyhee County, started the Child Safety Program, helped initiate the DARE program, supports the SRO position in the schools, and is involved in many other programs that help the citizens of Owyhee County and has dedicated his life to Owyhee County. His opponent does none of these things.

Re-Elect Sheriff Aman.

Accuracy in media

Dan Rather's last stand

By Cliff Kincaid, Editor of the AIM Report

Dan Rather and CBS News on Wednesday night came up with what looks like their final defense of the use of probably forged documents to discredit President Bush's service in the National Guard. Rather said that the controversial documents may be "re-creations" of actual documents that he doesn't have!

The latest turn in the scandal is a clever ploy and shell game on the part of Rather and it may buy him some time. He's trying to convince the public—and his colleagues in the press—that the real issue isn't whether the documents are fakes but whether they convey the truth about Bush.

As a result of this new twist, the critics of CBS News who have been waiting for a Rather apology or firing may have to wait even longer—perhaps in vain. The ambiguous White House response to the documents—by refusing to denounce them and in fact providing them to news organizations—has enabled CBS News to put forward this dubious defense of what is clearly questionable conduct by a major news organization.

By any reasonable standard, CBS News failed to properly investigate the story before putting it on the air. In the week that has passed since the story aired, CBS News has been desperately trying to find various "experts" to add some weight or credibility to its objectionable conduct and conclusions.

But on Wednesday's CBS Evening News and 60

Minutes, the scandal took a new turn when Rather interviewed Marian Knox, a secretary to the late Lt. Colonel Jerry Killian, Bush's commander in the Texas Air National Guard and the purported author of the memos. Knox said the documents are fake and even pointed out several discrepancies in them. But she said the information in them is "correct."

The key exchange, from the CBS News standpoint, came here:

Rather: You say you didn't type these memos?

Knox: Not these particular ones.

Rather: Did you type ones like this?

Knox: Yes.

Rather: Containing the same or identical information?

Knox: The same information, yes.

Just as quickly as Rather seemed to be admitting, by airing the Knox interview, that the documents are fakes, Knox says the information against Bush in the documents is correct.

Knox believes the CBS News story line about Bush evading his National Guard service and takes the curious position that the documents are accurate but fake. Rather, in his current desperate state, figures that it may have enough of a ring of truth to keep the story alive and buy more time for the network to stonewall the devastating charges of deception and cover-up from the growing number of critics. Simply put, Rather is trying to change the subject—from Dan Rather back to George W. Bush.

While many observers were expecting CBS News to face up to the evidence that the documents are fakes, Rather is saying that his story about Bush is still true, except for the fact that the documents he used on the air were the wrong ones! Viewers are now being led to believe that this is just a trivial detail when the documents were themselves put forward as the "smoking gun" against Bush.

Rather will not, at this point at least, admit outright that the documents are fakes. Indeed, he quoted from them again, to get Knox to make her point that while the documents may not be real, their information was true. But he is trying to move the public—and the press—beyond the issue of the alleged forgeries and back toward Bush.

This strategy seems to be working in some quarters. The far-left "Media Matters" organization is already claiming that the CBS News memos are "trivial" and beside the point.

There may never be "definitive" evidence, as Rather once cleverly framed the controversy, to prove or disprove the validity of the documents. Because the documents are copies, an absolute case may not be made either way, unless the "source" or forger comes forward to admit the offense or is discovered. Some news organizations suspect the source may be a bitter ex-guardsmen who had a nervous breakdown and has made unsubstantiated charges against Bush and his aides in the past.

Even with such a revelation, however, one can anticipate Dan Rather defending his use of the apparently phony documents by saying that the forger had an honorable motive—to expose Bush's alleged evasion of his National Guard service. That is the story that Dan Rather, driven by an anti-Bush bias, will not jettison.

The White House response, as it has always been, will be that Bush got an honorable discharge. CBS News seems to be standing by the story no matter what.

Summary Judgement

D.C. government spreads despair on good hope road

By William Perry Pendley
President, Mountain Sates Legal Foundation

Skyland Shopping Center sits at Good Hope Road and Alabama Avenue in southeast Washington, D.C., in Anacostia, named after the river that separates it from the rest of the Capitol. Skyland is a non-contiguous collection of 170,000 square feet of retail properties with fifteen different owners that sprawl across twelve acres next to five acres of woodland. More importantly, Skyland, which lies in a city that has seen some tough times, is a place of hope.

One of the owners is an African-American couple whose business in northeastern Washington was burned down in the 1968 riots; they moved here a short time later, worked hard and prospered. Another family bought their share of the shopping center in the 1940's and, through the bad days since, held on, pouring millions into their property. Two men are more recent owners: long time employees of a liquor store proprietor, they mortgaged their homes and bought the store, pursuant to his will, after his death. Then there are the tenants, each of whom demonstrates that the American dream is vibrantly alive!

Moreover, Skyland is a thriving retail operation. Each day, the parking lot that meanders among the buildings is a river of traffic. Vendors, whose operations are illegal but that flourish anyway, arrange their wares on the streets of Skyland rather than before the upscale and multi-million dollar redevelopment project across Good Hope Road. Residents, 49 percent of whom come from households that earn less than $35,000 a year, ride the bus to Skyland, shop at the post office, grocery store, beauty shop, drug store, check cashing store, and other outlets, then barter with a freelance "taxi" to deliver them and their wares home. Tellingly, the grocery is reputed to be the highest grossing outlet of its regional chain.

To most folks, Skyland is a great success. A cross section of Americans own and invest in property there. Tenants, some newly arrived in this country, run businesses there. Employees there believe they may one day own the boss' business. And locals can shop there for an array of reasonably priced goods and services.

But to the D.C. Council, Skyland is a "slum" that must be condemned, razed, and, at a cost of $27 million, turned over to a private developer for an unnamed retailer. In May, after they passed "emergency" legislation, Council members jetted off to a Las Vegas "big box" convention to shop the property around; there were no takers. Experts say that the numbers make no sense and that an economic disaster awaits, which is nothing compared to what will befall people who have poured their lives into Skyland. Some have decided to fight back, but they face incredible odds.

In 1954, in a Washington, D.C. case, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that the federal government could condemn a store, which was neither "blighted" nor a public nuisance but merely in an "undesirable" area, and sell it to a private developer. Thirty years later, the Supreme Court went further, eviscerating the constitutional requirement for "public use." Wrote Justice O'Connor, "that property taken outright by eminent domain is transferred in the first instance to private beneficiaries does not condemn that taking as having only a private purpose. The Court long ago rejected any literal requirement that condemned property be put into use for the general public."

Change, however, may be in the wind. In 2001, a California federal district court barred a city's efforts to condemn property that rested "on nothing more than the desire to achieve the naked transfer of property from one private party to another." Then, days ago, the Michigan Supreme Court, "in order to vindicate our Constitution [and] protect the people's property rights..." unanimously overruled a 1981 precedent that provided a blank check to governments wishing to seize private property to give to other private users.

After months of darkness, there may be some light on Good Hope Road.

PREVIEW: Friday 9/24 3:00-5:00 and morning of auction. Don't miss this auction of the historic Basque boarding house. Treasures for everyone, It is totally amazing how much there is!

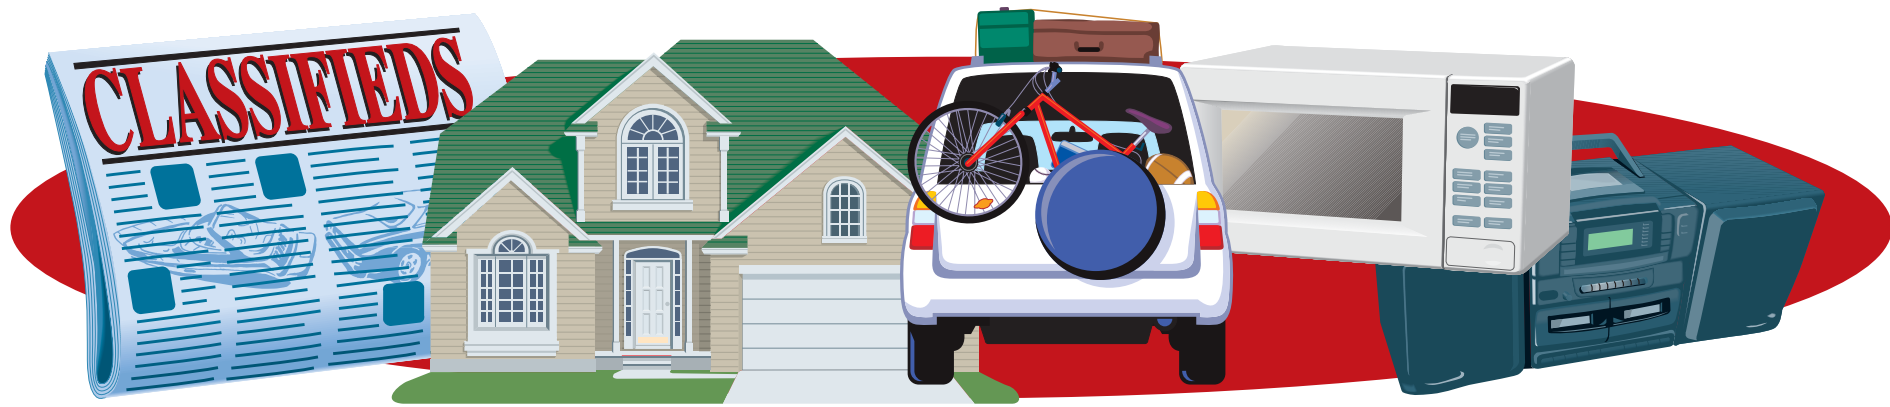

Terms: Cash, Visa, M/C or bankable check day of auction. Everything sold as is. 10% Buyers premium. All sales are final.

Note: This home was finished in 1918 & was built by Ambrose Elorriaga a Basque emigrant. Ambrose wife Antonia remained in Spain & would not bring her children to the "Wild West". So Ambrose built this home as an exact replica of her parents home in Spain. The Elorriaga family has owned the home since then & also boarded other Basque emigrants. In 2002 the family donated the home to become a museum. This is a great opportunity to buy a piece of history at auction. Don't Miss Out!

There are several rooms & buildings to go through!
