QUINTA DA REGALEIRA

This is the dream project of a man of considerable culture, Carvalho Monteiro, who made his fortune in Brazil and ordered the construction of Regaleira Palace and its chapel at the beginning of the 20th century to a design by Luigi Manini, the same architect responsible for the Bussaco Palace Hotel in central Portugal and the Condes de Castro Guimarães Museum in Cascais.

The combination of the palace and its lush gardens dotted with mysterious grottoes, wells, ponds, towers and statues looks like the setting for an opera and is too much for incurable romantics and occult lovers to resist! A visit to Regaleira is a powerful and fascinating experience, but even more fascinating is the experience to have Dinner or Cocktails inside the Palace or in the magnificent gardens.

PRÍNCIPE CHARLES PHILIPPE D'ORLÉANS, DUKE OF ANJOU

Prince Charles Philippe d'Orléans, Duke of Anjou, is a direct descendent of King Louis Phillipe I of France, the last king of that country.

Born in March 1971, he spent his childhood and part of the adolescence in Spain, having completed part of his secondary studies in Madrid, which were then finished in France. After his bachelor's degree, Charles Philippe studied Political Science and International Relations in France and Switzerland. After concluding his superior studies, he started his professional career as the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees (UNHCR) and his first mission was undertaken during the crisis in Ruanda, back in 1994. He was one of the people responsible for press services and for the creation of logistical infrastructures for the refugee camps in Kigali. Through his military career he has dedicated part of his life to international relations and humanitarian causes. In 2006, Charles d'Orléans created the Saint-Lazare Foundation, an international "Think Tank" with the mission of rationalizing water usage, inspired by the Count of Paris. ▶

LASZLO HUBAY CEBRIAN, LIVES IN CASCAIS FOR 62 YEARS

“Bring your tennis racket, bring your golf bag and your surf board. Cascais’ microclimate lets you play tennis or golf, for example, 365 days a year!”

Laszlo Hubay Cebraín was born in an aristocratic family in Hungary, his mother was Norwegian and his father Hungarian. Following the war, the family was forced to abandon its own country. After a short stay in Norway and on receiving a professional invitation, by some Portuguese friends, they came to Portugal, the country where they chose to settle down. In mid 50’s, Laszlo Cebraín and his parents moved to Estoril. This is where he grew up, studied and made friends, including the Portuguese lady who he later decided to marry. These days, he considers himself more Portuguese than Hungarian.

Laszlo Cebraín graduated in Management from the St. Galler Business Scholl, in Switzerland, ran several companies and projects and was Rep Max for Disney, for the Iberian Peninsula market. Currently, among other roles and projects to which he is still related, he is the President of the Fundação Cascais.

FUN INITIATIVES THROUGH COOKING

As cooking is a way of loving others... our Cooking Atelier is strongly committed to participating in social projects. The DownCooking project began in São Paulo (Brazil), which has been promoted since 2006, under the name "Special Chefs".

Inspired by this, Orquídea Silva, Director of HIG, a socially aware, entrepreneurial woman who, throughout her personal and professional path, has always fought for equal opportunities, decided to implement this initiative. The objective is to provide moments of pleasure, conviviality and contact with food to carriers of Trisomy 21 and other syndromes or disabilities. They also transmit knowledge for improving the quality of life of participants and their integration in activities which they would usually not have an opportunity to participate in.

COOKING MEMORIES

Teambuilding activities are increasingly sought after by groups who are at the forefront of people management areas and development of personal skills, leadership, communication, delegation of tasks, conflict management and stress. The kitchens of the best chefs are composed of teams working together to achieve excellence and the recognition of great dishes.

Your group will enjoy an unforgettable experience at the Cascais Marina, away from an urban environment and the usual comfort zone of daily duties.

Therefore, we set out to organize team activities to suit the group's specific needs, creating an entertaining event, consisting of culinary challenges, focused on pre-defined, motivating objectives.

At the end, we will raise a toast to and savour the meal prepared by the group.

BUILDING PORTUGAL

Lisbon is a fascinating and comprehensive city. It is also known as "the town of the seven hills". The city has privileged natural conditions 10 Kms. from the river Tejo's mouth. At Lisbon, the river broadens into an inland sea, Mar de Palha. The sea is close by, Estoril and Cascais just half hour away by train. The quarters of Castelo and Alfama, the Belém zone and the Baixa are only a few of the places reflecting Lisbon's ancient history.

Feeling prepared for any Challenge? The construction of Lisbon's main statues and buldings are under your responsibility.

Let's see how many pieces you can put together.
