

BUILDING YOUR RESUME

TOOLS AND TIPS FOR CREATING THE BEST RESUME

WHAT IS A RESUME?

- A summary of your abilities and accomplishments
- An outline of your education, experience, skills, personal attributes and other background information
- A demonstration of your qualifications for the type of position and employment you are seeking
- Your opportunity to stand out from other applicants - remember, the resume gets you the interview, the interview gets you the job!
- A standard statement of who you are in writing

Resumes can also be called an Artist Resume or Curriculum Vitae (CV). They are each used in different circumstances, which we'll outline below.

TYPES OF RESUMES

It is important to always have one master resume for your personal files that is a record of all of your current and past experiences and accomplishments. This master resume should never be used for any official position, but kept more as a record for yourself.

The key to developing an outstanding resume is to tailor it to suit the specific position or opportunity for which you are applying. Choose carefully among the experiences you have, including those that match the qualifications listed and leaving out experiences that are unrelated.

PROFESSIONAL RESUME (EMPLOYMENT AND INTERNSHIP SEARCH)

Length: 1-2 pages, recommended 1 page if still in school

Format: Start at the top with your name and contact information in a larger type face. Choose fonts and sizing wisely, as this will become your brand that carries from your resume to your cover letter and artist statement. Stick to fonts that are clean, and not distracting or hard to read.

Includes: Name and Contact Information, Education, Professional Experience with job description and duties, Skills, Exhibitions (optional), Awards, Honors, etc. Each section below your name should be listed in reverse chronological order, with the most recent experience first. The professional resume is designed to highlight skills and work experience, so it is more descriptive than an artist resume for galleries.

ARTIST RESUME (FOR GALLERIES AND COMPETITIONS)

Length: 1-2 pages, depending on stage of career and content

Format: Follows the format of the Professional Resume, but not as descriptive.

Includes: Name and Contact Information, Education, Exhibitions (Solo, Group), Performances, Bibliography (Articles or Reviews about you), Publications/Reviews by Artist, Collections, Awards, Commissions, Residencies, Fellowships, Grants, Competitions, Lectures, Exhibitions Curated, Affiliations, Memberships, Independent/Volunteer Activities, Experience (only art related with minimal descriptions). Similar to Teaching CV, but shorter. (see Teaching CV below)

ARTIST BIOGRAPHY

Length: 1-2 paragraphs

Format: Written in third person

Includes: A narrative version of your resume (artist or job type)

TEACHING CV

The Latin name for resume, Curriculum Vitae, is used most often in academic contexts

Length: Usually longer than a resume, short versions 2-3 pages, long versions for advanced professionals may be 4 or more pages

Format: Follows the format of the Professional Resume, but not as descriptive.

Includes: Name and Contact Information, Education, Teaching Experience, Related Experience, Skills, Exhibitions (Solo, Group), Performances, Bibliography (Articles or Reviews about you), Publications/Reviews by Artist, Collections, Awards, Commissions, Residencies, Fellowships, Grants, Competitions, Lectures, Exhibitions Curated, Affiliations, Memberships, Independent/Volunteer Projects.

BUILDING YOUR RESUME

TOOLS AND TIPS FOR CREATING THE BEST RESUME

HOW TO BUILD YOUR RESUME

1

Use the following worksheet to start building your resume. Omit/make additional headings depending on the resume's purpose.

2

Transfer the information from this worksheet to a computer. We do not recommend using templates.

3

Create a resume layout using these basic guidelines:

- Create a hierarchy and structure with your layout.

Use bold or larger typefaces to distinguish headings and put those sections of the resume that are most critical for the employer to read at the top. Potential employers will likely spend an average of 10 seconds on your resume, so make sure any relevant skills or experience are easy to spot!

- Consider your audience when formatting your content and layout.

For example, if you are applying for a skills based position, put your skills section near the top of the resume.

- Choose a style and format for listing employers, titles, dates and locations and stay consistent throughout the document.

This helps the employer locate information quickly and simply. Use font size, capitals, bold, italics and bullets to categorize, but don't overdo it!

- Use action verbs to describe your experiences

Avoid using the same verb twice. See the helpful list of action verbs later in this document as a good place to start.

- Organize your responsibilities under each position in order of importance.

Use past tense for jobs which you are no longer working.

- Avoid writing your resume as a narrative.

Do not use the pronoun "I" when listing your responsibilities.

- Be specific with your information and include numbers and dates whenever possible.

You do not need to include months with years unless a position was held during one year for less than six months.

- Proofread and edit your materials several times to eliminate all errors.

- Once your resume is perfected, save a copy as an Adobe PDF file to capture all fonts and retain formatting.

When submitting a resume electronically or posting it on your website, always use the PDF version unless instructed otherwise. ALWAYS follow the employer's application instructions.

- When printing your resume, coordinate the paper to match the envelope used and be sure to use a high quality laser printer.

- Use color sparingly in your resume, if at all.

Make a black and white photocopy to ensure it is readable after copying. It is safe to assume your resume will likely always be viewed as a photocopy by an employer.

4

ALWAYS have someone proofread your resume before you send it out!

- Bring your resume into Career Development for revision. The Career Center staff can give you advice and tips to improve your materials.

REFERENCES

Do not include names and contact information of your references on your resume. You only need to include references if requested by the employer, and you do NOT need to use the phrase, "references available upon request;" it is a given. If references are requested, they should accompany your resume as a separate document with your letterhead at the top. Choose references wisely, and always ask your references prior to listing them if they would mind serving as a reference. Always let them know what you are applying to, and when possible send them a copy of the job description.

REMEMBER: THE RESUME DOES NOT GET YOU THE JOB – IT GETS YOU THE INTERVIEW.
CHECK OUT RESUME SAMPLES IN THIS PACKET TO GET YOU STARTED.

BUILDING YOUR RESUME

TOOLS AND TIPS FOR CREATING THE BEST RESUME

Fill in the blanks, and omit or make additional headings, depending on the purpose of your resume.

HEADING

Name _____

Address, Phone Number and Email* _____

Personal Website (Make sure it is updated and working) _____

* Do not use a "cutesy" email address. Including your name in the email address is recommended, ex. janemica@mica.edu
