Ilfenesh Hadera and Jack Cutmore-Scott star in "Deception"

After a scandal ruins the career of renowned magician Cameron Black (Jack Cutmore-Scott, "Cooper Barrett's Guide to Surviving Life"), he goes to work with the FBI in the premiere of "Deception," airing Sunday, March 11, on ABC. Working alongside skeptical, no-nonsense FBI agent Kay Daniels (Ilfenesh Hadera, "Baywatch," 2017), Black uses his knowledge of magic and illusions to help the government catch elusive criminals.

Magician solves crime in new ABC drama ike a magician cooking up a potion, concocting a hit television show requires the perfect brew of drama, intrigue and mystery. Adding a dash of excitement, a charismatic star and just a hint of romance can create TV magic, and one promising new series seems to have it all.

Jack Cutmore-Scott ("Cooper Barrett's Guide to Surviving Life") stars as magician Cameron Black, who works for the FBI after his magic career is ruined by scandal, in "Deception," premiering Sunday, March 11, on ABC. While his 15 minutes of fame may be over, Black's skills are uniquely suited to help the government catch elusive criminals as he uses his knowledge of illusion to confound, influence and deceive others.

The premise may seem farfetched, but creator and producer Chris Fedak ("Chuck") explained the logic behind it during a Q&A panel at 2017's New York Comic Con.

"So many of the theories of magic also play into criminality," Fedak said. "If you're going to rob a bank, if you're going to steal things, you are using that same skill set to trick people and deceive people. Cameron brings his own perspective to many of the cases and the crimes that we're going to come across."

Fedak and his cohorts have recruited some top talent to make sure the tricks and illusions in "Deception" ring true. Famed illusionist and crossword expert David Kwong has signed on to coproduce and also serves as a consultant on the series with fellow magician Frances Menotti. Kwong, Menotti and other magic experts have worked extensively with Cutmore-Scott to show him the ropes so he'll look convincing. The magicians also design the complex illusions in the show, which, according to Fedak, are as true to life as

"When we look at each one of our stories, we want to do as much magic that's real that we can," Fedak explained. "The other thing we want to do is [ensure] everything that happens inside the story — our illusions, our deceptions are all things that can happen in the real world."

Producers have also enlisted the help of an FBI consultant to keep the program as accurate as possible.

While serving as the FBI's first "consulting illusionist," Black works alongside no-nonsense FBI agent Kay Daniels (Ilfenesh Hadera, Baywatch, "2017), who's initially skeptical of his techniques. The chemistry between these two delivers a healthy dose of humor, thanks to Black's sometimes naive antics and Daniels' straight-laced reactions. In contrast, her colleague, FBI Agent Mike Alvarez (Amaury Nolasco, "Prison Break), is a huge fan of magic and recognizes Black right away. Special Agent Deakins (Laila Robins, "Murder in the First") is eventually won over by the disgraced magician as he proves his worth to the FBI, thanks to a little help from his team.

Black's "magic" team includes makeup artist/producer Dina Clark

(Lenora Crichlow, "Being Human") and Jordan Kwon (Justin Chon, "Twilight," 2008). Gunter Gustafsen (Vinnie Jones, "Escape Plan," 2013) is widely regarded as the world's greatest illusion builder. They may be new to law enforcement, but the ragtag crew and their fearless leader teach the FBI agents some new tricks. All the while, Black hopes to right the wrongs that have been done to him.

The ensemble cast supports a tried-and-true recipe for prime-time success. "Deception" features a formula that's paid off for broadcast networks in the past several years: a charming male lead (Cutmore-Scott) is paired with a strong-yet-exasperated female lead (Hadera). ABC's "Castle" and CBS's "Elementary" are just two examples of other recent series that have enjoyed ratings success thanks to similar plots.

But there's a show to which "Deception" bears even more resemblance — industry insiders have already been comparing ABC's new magic drama to CBS's highly successful drama "The Mentalist" (2008-2015), which chronicled the life of disgraced "psychic" Patrick Jane (Simon Baker, "The Guardian") as he solved crimes for the California Bureau of Investigation (CBI) alongside Agent Teresa Lisbon (Robin Tuppay "Prison Break")

(Robin Tunney, "Prison Break").
Interestingly, "Deception" shares a behind-the-scenes link with "The Mentalist." Emmy-nominated composer Blake Neely, who composed music for "The Mentalist," is also the composer for "Deception." Not only that, but one of the show's executive producers, David Nutter, directed the pilot episode of "The Mentalist." Along with Fedak, Nutter's fellow executive producers include Greg Berlanti ("Blindspot"), Martin Gero ("Blindspot") and Sarah Schechter ("The Flash").

Like "The Mentalist's" subplot involving serial killer Red John, it appears "Deception" may feature an ongoing plot in addition to the weekly cases. At New York Comic Con's panel, Fedak dropped hints about a mystery woman and her reasons for doing what she does to Black.

Details about the nature of Black's transgressions are sketchy, so audiences will have to watch the new series to find out why Black has become a target. With illusions, humor, explosions and much more, the new drama seems to have something for everyone. Fans of such crime procedurals, magic and action won't want to miss the premiere of "Deception," airing Sunday, March 11, on ABC.

Ben Affleck and Gal Gadot in "Justice League"

Justice League

Batman (Affleck) and Wonder Woman (Gadot) join forces once again when the alien tyrant Steppenwolf (Hinds) and his army invade Earth. To join them in the battle to come, they recruit The Flash (Miller), Aguaman (Momoa) and Cyborg (Fisher), three other heroes with awesome abilities, but even united, they find themselves unable to stop Steppenwolf. Without Superman (Cavill), whose death was a mortal blow to humanity's hope, the newly formed Justice League may not be able to save Earth. Director: Zack Snyder. Stars: Ben Affleck, Gal Gadot. 2017.

The Shape of Water

120 mins. Action.

Elisa (Hawkins) works as a janitor at a secret government lab with one of her only friends, Zelda (Spencer), who also acts as her interpreter, since Elisa is mute and communicates using sign language. When the lab receives a bizarre amphibious humanoid creature, Elisa begins secretly visiting and bonding with it, so when she learns that the scientists plan to euthanize it so that they can study it more thoroughly, she recruits Zelda to help her smuggle it out of the lab. Once she has it safe in her home, Elisa's bond with the creature continues to grow. Director: Guillermo del Toro. Stars: Sally Hawkins, Michael Shannon. 2017. 123 min. Adventure.

Can't keep it down: 'American Idol' returns with a new network

By Andrew Warren

Can't keep it down: Turns out the juggernaut wasn't slain after all — it was just looking for a new home, and now it's finally all settled in. After nearly two years off the air, "American Idol" stages a triumphant return to television on Sunday, March 11.

Don't look for the singing competition — which reigned for eight consecutive years as the most watched show in America — on Fox, its old home network. "Idol's" new home is on ABC, but despite the change of scenery, Ryan Seacrest's ("Live with Kelly and Ryan") familiar face is still around to greet audiences. The well-known personality hosted all 15 previous seasons, and he's made the move to the new network to return to the role that made him a household

Seacrest will be the only familiar face greeting audiences on March 11, though, with an all-new judging panel taking its seats. It's star power galore with these judges; pop rock superstar Katy Perry, country singer Luke Bryan and soul artist Lionel Richie make up the trio passing other small changes to the revived series, but the core "American Idol" formula is expected to stay more or less the same. At the start of each season, thousands of talented (and many not-so-talented) amateur singers with dreams of stardom audition in cities around the country, with the judging panel choosing who has the right combination of vocal talent, stage presence and charisma to be potential stars.

The judges gradually whittle down the contestants over the next few weeks, until a group of semifinalists emerges, kicking off the real competition — the live episodes. Each of the semifinalists performs live each week, and viewers at home then get to vote for their favorites, with the contestant receiving the fewest votes being removed from the competition.

With a recording contract up for grabs, not to mention the instant name recognition and built-in fan base that winning a contest of this scale can bring, the stakes are as high as they've ever been in "American Idol." The singing competition returns to television on its new home on Sunday, March 11, on ABC.

Royal behavior: Stately behavior this is not. With the upcoming marriage of American actress Meghan Markle ("Suits") to Prince Harry, interest in the British Royal Family is high, and it couldn't be a better time for a new season of "The Royals," premiering Sunday, March 11, on E!.

The comedy/drama stars Elizabeth Hurley ("Austin Powers: International Man of Mystery," 1997) as the fictional royal family's matriarch, who struggles to keep her clan together as they work through typical — and plenty of not-so-typical family drama. Of course, the fact that they're one of the most famous families in the world makes it tricky keeping all of that family drama, well, in the family.

William Moseley ("The Chronicles of Narnia: The Lion, the Witch and the Wardrobe," 2005) and Alexandra Park ("The Elephant Princess") star as her hedonistic twin children Liam and Eleanor, while Max Brown ("The Tudors") returns as Robert, her eldest son who was presumed dead but miraculously appeared last season to claim the throne.

That dramatic throne-seizing closed out last season with a bang, what's set to happen when "The Royals" returns for a fourth season on Sunday, March 11, on E!.

Legally departing: There's good news and there's bad news for fans of "Suits," USA Network's hit legal drama. The good news is that it's been renewed for an eighth season; the bad news is that that season will be missing a few of the show's longtime stars.

The seventh season is currently underway, with a special two-hour finale scheduled to air Wednesday, April 25, but once that wraps up, both Meghan Markle ("Horrible Bosses," 2011), who plays paralegal-turned-lawyer Rachel Zane, and Patrick J. Adams ("Luck"), who plays fraudulent attorney Mike Ross, will be saying their goodbyes.

It seems that they'll be going out on a high note. In that season finale, Mike and Rachel, who've had a tumultuous relationship since the very beginning of the series, are finally getting married.

To help fill the hole in the credits, this season's newcomer Dulé Hill ("The West Wing") will be promoted to series regular, while stars Gabriel Macht ("The Spirit," 2008), Rick Hoffman ("Hostel," 2005) and

Q: Can you please tell me why America doesn't get Season 6 of "Father Brown"?

A: You missed a key word there: America doesn't get Season 6 of "Father Brown" yet.

You're right that the season has already aired in the U.K., which is where it's produced, but PBS is still airing previous seasons over here.

The basic problem is that we on this side of the Atlantic have been late in hopping on the "Father Brown" train (Anglophiles will appreciate the rail joke — Brits love trains), which means we have catching up to do.

Unlike a lot of British shows aired over here — think "Downton Abbey" or "Agatha Christie's Poirot" — "Father Brown" is not co-produced by PBS. The network came to the show late, and so its broadcast schedule is far out of sync with the original broadcaster.

Though it's frustrating for fans like yourself, this is usually not seen as a big problem by the network. PBS is not in competition with anyone else for when it airs the episodes, so it can take its time (the fact that you're asking this question proves that you're pretty dependent on PBS for your "Father Brown" fix).

There's also the usual PBS challenge, which is that it doesn't operate like a normal network with a national schedule — individual affiliates are able to set their own programming. Some of them are really far behind, and some don't even air "Father Brown" at all.

Q: Has a Disney animated movie ever won the Best Picture statue?

A: Despite its long and storied cinematic history, Disney has never won the top Oscar for one of its animated features.

It's not for lack of trying, though, and Disney is the only studio that has even stood a chance. Only three animated movies have ever been nominated for Hollywood's top prize, and all three were Disney.

"Beauty and the Beast" (1991) was the first to break that ground, getting the nomination against giant films such as "JFK" and the eventual winner, "The Silence of the Lambs" (making for a pretty broad field of candidates).

"Beauty" was also the only animated film to garner a nod in the five-nominee era. The Oscars moved to 10 nominees in 2009, which was the year that Disney/ Pixar's "Up" was nominated.

The company got another one the very next year for "Toy Story 3" (2010) (the first two installments having been snubbed in the big category).

Kevin Can Wait

Vanessa's (Leah Remini) relationship with a handsome doctor comes to an end just before her sister's wedding in this rebroadcast episode of "Kevin Can Wait," airing Monday, March 12 on CBS. Kevin (Kevin James) steps in to pose as her "successful doctor" date in an attempt to impress her judgmental father.

Call Me by Your Name

When Oliver (Hammer), a 24year-old American grad student, comes to Italy to stay with his family during the summer of 1983, Elio (Chalamet) is resentful that he has to vacate his bedroom for the housequest. While he's often busy helping out Elio's archeologist father with his academic paperwork, Oliver does find time to hang out with Elio, and the two young men find themselves falling for each other. It doesn't take long for a passionate romance to erupt between them, despite both knowing that their love can only last until the summer's end and Oliver's return to America.

Director: Luca Guadagnino. Stars: Armie Hammer, Timothée Chalamet. 2017. 132 min. Drama.
